IRATE HUSBAND HELD

Shot Paralyzes Officer

A Petaluma man who has beed feuding with his wife was arrested yesterday on suspicion of the attempted murder of a policeman who had gone to the suspect's home to protect the wife.

The officer, Vilho Ahola, a seven-year veteran of the Petaluma Police Department and holder of national marksmanship titles, underwent surgery for removal of a .25 caliber bullet lodged in his neck at the spical cord.

Ahola is paralyzed and in critical condition in Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital.

The suspect, Walter Lee Hale, 51, of 718 I Street, was booked into city jail and held without bail pending arraignment in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Police said the shooting, which occurred shortly before 11 a.m. yesterday, apparently arose from a dispute between Hale, operator of a local catering company, and his wife.

Mrs. Hale came to the police station at 10:25 a.m., police said, to request an officer to accompany her home while she removed personal items from the house. She said she had fought with her husband Thursday night and that he had warned that he might harm her unless she moved out.

She said Hale also had threatened to kill himself.

Police said Ahola, sent to the home at Mrs. Hale's request, was shot apparently while talking to the husband in the living room. The bullet entered his left shoulder and lodged next to the spinal cord.

At 10:54 a.m., a man thought to be Hale called the police station and said, "Get an ambulance and cop car to 718 I Street. I just shot an officer."

Sgt. William Reed said he took a .38 caliber revolver from Hale and later found a .25 caliber revolver on the kitchen stove.

Ahola was taken to Hillcrest Hospital, then transferred to Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital for treatment by a meurosurgeon.

Married and the father of two childfen, Ahola has been a member of the police department since May 1962. Previously he worked for the police department in Sciyuate, Mass.,

Refuge Harbors Proposed In Bolinas Board Swan Song

Establishment of a wildlife refuge and construction of a jetty system sheltering two boat mooring basins are part of a master plan aimed at developing and preserving the Bolinas Lagoon.

The plan was presented to Bolinas Harbor District board members last night.

The 640-page report from consultant Norman T. Gilroy culminates two years of study of the lagoon and will be passed along to Marin County officials since voters earlier this year voted to dissolve the harbor district. Control of development of the lagoon comes under county jurisdiction Monday.

Gilroy's report calls sedimentation the lagoon's biggest single danger and calls for immediate remedial measures to restore proper circulation "to preserve ecology- and natural dynamics."

He urges the estalishment of a wildlife refuge along the entire eastern side of the lagoon. He said the refuge should cover about 55 or 60 per cent of the lagoon.

The report also calls for arrowhead-shaped jettys to extend from the end of the lagoon's sand spit, with the easterly jetty being 1,800 feet long and the easterly jetty 1,300 feet long.

The breakwater system would shield two separate small craft basins, a winter harbor refuge adjacent to Bolinas and a summer refuge harbor in the lee of the westerly jetty.

The winter basin adjacent to Bolinas would be the larger and more protected of the two, providing permanent protection, while the summer mooring basin would provide less protection but would be readily available to small craft owners when summer fog engulfs the offshore area.

Gilroy's report said that the erosion of "vast quantities" of shoreline sediment is clogging the lagoon's circulation system and is also causing the lagoon's headlands to recess at 2.3 feet per year.

To combat this erosion, Gilroy said that a sand filled "buffer beach" should be built along the 7,000 foot-headland to keep waves from carrying away any more land and depositing it in the lagoon.

The report also calls for establishment of a drainage system up on the Bolinas Mesa.

To improve circulation within the lagoon, the report calls for removing a "high spot" next to Pine Gulch Creek, the deepening of several main channels and the dredging of some new "finger" channels at the north end of the lagoon.

The report also said that pollution is "extreme" at the north and southeast ends of the lagoon due to the poor tid-

Third Bloody Attack On Base In Delta Area

SAIGON — North Vietnamese troops assaulted a government amphibious base deep in the Mekong Delta today for the second time in three days, allied spokesmen said. Scattered action continued around Cambodian border outposts which were heavily bombarded during the night.

The delta attack on a navy-marine task force headquarters at the northern edge of the U Minh Forest raised to 150 the number of South Vietnamese troops killed or wounded there since Thursday.

Spokesmen said that five of the camp's defenders were

Marchers, Officials Still 1,000 Feet Apart

WASHINGTON (AP) —Justice Department officials and war protest leaders were about 1,000 feet from agreement today on the proposed route of the Nov. 15 mass march through Washington.

White House security officials adamantly insisted such a large group—estimates range from 100,000 to 500,000—should not be permitted closer than that to the executive mansion.

The Justice Department, after consultation with the White House, agreed yesterday to let the mass march proceed next Saturday as long as the route is Constitution Avenue and the demonstrators don't make a side trip to the presidential residence.

But the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam rejected the government proposal, again saying that any plan must allow marchers to pass in front of the White House.

The New Mobilization said demonstrators feel they must make a symbolic gesture of protest to the policy-making executive branch of government.

The new stalemate surfaced after the committee dropped its demand for the march to proceed down Pennsylvania Avenue, traditional route of capital parades.

$17,000 Damage In School Arson

Fire thought to be the work of an arsonist, did $17,000 damage last night to the library at Marin Terrace School at 100 Harbor Avenue in Tamalpais Valley.

The front and back door to the library, which is housed in a portable classroom, had been pried open, according to firemen.

There was a pile of debris against a wall near a teacher's desk which apparently was set on fire, firemen said. The damage was caused mainly by smoke, firemen said.

Protesters March But Nixon Gone

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Some 350 antiwar demonstrators—including one of President Nixon's nearest neighbors here—staged a peaceful antiwar protest today in front of the Florida White House.

The demonstrators marched two miles to the bayfront compound where a group of police and Secret Service agents met them at Bay Lane, Nixon's street, and turned them back.

They paraded peacefully, singing and chanting anti-war slogans for about 90 minutes before breaking up. Also on hand were about a dozen pro-war pickets who picketed the demonstrators.

Among the peace marchers was Charles Austin, 26, who lives right across the street from the President's compound.

Austin, a four year Air Force veteran, said he participated because he felt such demonstrations were essential to the democratic process.

"I don't have anything against Nixon as a neighbor," said Austin, just returned from spending a year in Europe. "There's a big fence around his place and I never see him."

At the time of the demonstration, the President was some 200 miles away, relaxing in the Bahamas. He wasn't expected back to his bayside retreat here until nightfall.

Agents Grab Blonde, Three Men In $11,000 Heroin Sales Raid

A 37-year-old woman, apparently on welfare, was arrested yesterday by narcotics agents who said they confiscated $11,000 worth of suspected heroin in her San Rafael apartment.

Accused of being a "heavy dealer" in the drug, which she allegedly packaged in red balloons, was Rosita Dolores Branstetter of 8 Marian Court. Agents said she was out on bail after being arrested for allegdly selling heroin 10 days ago.

In addition to approximately 10 ounces of suspected heroin found hidden in Miss Branstetter' king-sized bed, agent Alfred W. Teixeira said that her wallet contained $4,000 in cash and two welfare checks made out to her.

Arrested along with Miss Branstetter, who police say has a long criminal record and has used several other names, were two men found in the bathroom of her apartment. Also booked into Marin County Jail were Michael Gordon Streib, 24, of San Francisco, who had been arrested with Miss Branstetter 10 days ago, and Angel John Fernandiz, 38, of San Francisco.

Teixeira said that agents had been watching Miss Branstetter's apartment for some time, suspecting that she was dealing heavily in heroin, a highly addictive drug which used to be associated more with big city streets than tree-line suburbs.

Yesterday, Teixeira said he recognized a man leaving the apartment as one who had been with Miss Branstetter when she was arrested Oct. 29.

When the man, Clarence Dale Taylor, 26, of Fairfax, drove off he was followed. He was driving erratically, Teixeira said, and police stopped him, on suspicion of driving under the influence of narcotics, a search revealed that he had suspected heroin in a red ballon, Teixeira said.

After booking Taylor into jail, the agents obtained a search warrant and returned to the Canal area apartment, where they found Miss Branstetter,

People's Park Probe Criticizes All Sides

OAKLAND (AP) — Virtually every direct and indirect participant in the oubreak of violence at People Park last May have been criticized in an Alameda County Grand Jury report.

"Radicals and revolutionaries," Berkeley and outside police, the Sheriff's department, national guardsmen, jail officers, university officials, the City of Berkeley and the "community at large" all were rapped in the report on a five-month probe.

"There is evidence that there was stockpiling of rocks, steel rods and bricks on the part of the revolutionaries," the report said of students and "street people" who built the playground on a vacant lot owned by the University of California.

"A confrontation was planned by these leaders," the grand jury said.

University officials failed to provide "sufficient leadership . . . to uphold a firm stand in protecting and maintaining university property," the report said.

City officials "did not insist upon the complete enforcement of existing laws and ordinances to maintain health and safety standards which were being flagrantly violated at People's Park."

The Sheriff's office, responsible for coordinating law enforcement officers at the scene, was criticized for "insufficient planning for a probably violent confrontation even after successive massive protests . . . in and around the university in the past."

The report noted "isolated cases of weapons being used indiscriminately" by officers, but decided that clubs and shotguns were necessary.

James Rector, 25, killed by buckshot fired by a deputy sheriff, was not mentioned in the report.

The National Guard's use of a helicopter to disperse the crowd with tear gas was criticized.

Finally, the panel rapped "lack of supervision" at Santa Rita Prison Farm for "unfortunate incidents involving undue force" on the part of some jailers handling arrested demonstrators.

Vote-Counting Computer Said Capable Of Cheating

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A computer expert has urged a state Assembly committee to discontinue the use of voting machines in California because the machines can be rigged to "lie" about vote totals.

William C. Clauer, president of Intellectron International, Inc., a Los Angeles-based computer firm said yesterday experiments or "games" can be programmed into computers and such frauds are impossible to detect.

Clauer told the elections, and constitutional amendments committee that until better safeguards are developed "all computer-based systems for vote counting should be discontinued."

Clauer and several other computer experts said they developed an election fraud "game" during the Los Angeles mayoral election last spring.

They determined that by using identical computer techniques employed by Los Angeles County they could rig a computer to "lie" about its count of punch-card ballots.

The experts said they could program the computer to pass established tests for "honesty," then do a miscount and then again pass the veracity test.

Ray E. Lee, county registrar-recorder, told the committee the possibility of computer rigging has forced his office to begin a "complete reevaluation" of currently used computer systems.

Lee said, however, he is convinced there has been no machine manipulations in any elections here.

Water Board Drops Rec Funds Use

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Water Commission has decided against deferring financing of recreational facilities along the State Water Project to have enough money to finish the $3 billion project.

The idea had been suggested as a way of overcoming the tight money situation caused by inability of the state to sell its general obligation bonds even at the current statutory ceiling of 5 per cent interest.

But Sen. Stephen Teale, D-West Point, said yesterday, the proposal was based on the assumption that voters will approve raising the interest ceiling next June.

Teale said he doesn't share the commission's optimism and "in fact I have already heard strong sentiment expressed in my district against the proposed interest hike."

Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, D-Portola, suggested that the commission do the same thing the Department of Water Resources plans to do — borrow surplus money from the General Fund to use until bonds can be sold.

Commission Chairman Ira J. Chrisman asked that the deferment proposal be withdrawn, and that the commission and the Water Resources Department resolve the matter "hopefully in an effective manner."

LSD King Sentenced

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The reign of the so-called "LSD King" is over.

Pig-tailed Augustus Owsley Stanley II yesterday was sentenced to three years in jail. Judge William T. Sweigert also fined him $3,000 and gave the same sentence to his three confederates in making and possessing the drug and conspiring to make and sell it.

Stanley, 33, was arrested Dec. 21, 1967, in a raid on his plush Orinda home. Federal narcotics agents said they found an LSD factory and ingredients for 700,000 tablets worth an estimated $2 million.

Pompidou To Visit?

PARIS (AP) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan, after a meeting with the French foreign minister, announced that French President Georges Pompidou may visit California on his next tour of the United States.

Reagan met with Maurice Schumann yesterday and then said he looked forward to being Pompidou's host. No date was mentioned.

Hijacker Held

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — A hijacker who commandeered a short-range Argentine jetliner surrendered in Uruguay today after officials told him "technical difficulties" would prevent the plane from flying to Cuba. He requested political asylum here.

After the 30-year-old hijacker was taken into custody, the plane returned to Argentina with 63 passengers and four crew members.

Teeners Over Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Two teenage youths scaled the Berlin Wall and dropped into West Berlin last night, police reported today.

The boys, 15 and 16 years old, apparently were not noticed by East German border guards as they made their way into the U.S. sector of the divided city during a storm.

Students Raided

SAPPORO, Japan (UPI)—An army of 3,000 policemen braved firebombs and rocks today to rout 500 students who had blockaded Hokkaido University's main buildings for more than four months.

At almost the same time, police in Tokyo raided Tokyo University's Institute of Space and Aeronautical Science and found that radical students had turned it into a factory for the manufacture of firebombs.

The Hokkaido Police Agency said 300 policemen and 15 students were injured in the nine-hour battle that raged from before dawn and spread into street fighting in Sapporo, where the 1972 Winter Olympics will be held. Thirty-two students were arrested, one a girl.

Transport Aide Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert A. Nelson has been relieved of his job as director of the Federal Railroad Administration's Office of High Speed Ground Transportation.

Nelson, who was named yesterday as special assistant to the undersecretary of Transportation, said some of the nation's railroads were "unhappy about some of the views I took . . . but I have no idea whether this affected the attitude of anyone in the Department of Transportation."

He said the railroads were unhappy with his views on research development and his proposals for more rapid changes.

Space Cash Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has approved a $3.7 billion space authorization bill that falls about $280 million below last year's appropriation for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The measure, which now goes to President Richard M. Nixon for his siguature, includes funds for three manned moonflights in the next nine months. It also requires U.S. astronauts to plant the American flag in their initial landing on any planet.

Long Beach Cleanest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The annual Stauffer award for Environmental Cleanup and Beautification was voted yesterday to Long Beach as the cleanest city in California.

Second place award went to Carson and third place was presented to Hollister.

Attorneys Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-nine Negro, Puerto Rican and Mexican-American attorneys have been charged with illegal entry following their invasion of the Office of Economic Opportunity protesting what they called the "all-white structure" of its legal services program.

The invasion took place in the office of Terry Lenzer, legal services director who, the protestors also complained "doesn't have one non-white in his office."

Arson In Canada

MONTREAL (AP) — Demonstrators hurled at least six firebombs at the criminal courthouse, police headquarters, police and the Montreal Star building during French separatist demonstrations last night. Ten protestors were arrested.

Congo Revolt Try?

KINSHASA, the Congo (AP) — Radio Brazzaville reported today that an attempt at evening to overthrow the Congo Republic regime of President Marien Ngouabi was foiled by police and troops who arrested 30 persons.

Sukarno At Fete

JAKARTA (AP) — Former President Sukarno today attended the wedding of his youngest daughter, Diah Sukma Wait, an 18-year-old high school student, and presented the bridegroom with the traditional Javanese Moslem dowry of $2.50.

"Remember this, my son — man is always losing, except for those who are patient and always behave righteously," the 68-year-old, Sukarno told his new son-in-law, Deddy Suharto. He is not related to President Suharto.

Sukarno, looking aged and drawn, had secured government permission to attend the wedding. Plainclothes security men ringed him during the ceremonies. Ousted from power after the abortive Communist-led coup in 1965, Sukarno lives under house arrest in the Jakarta mansion of his Japanese-born wife.

People's Park Probe Criticizes All Sides

OAKLAND (AP) — Virtually every direct and indirect participant in the oubreak of violence at People Park last May have been criticized in an Alameda County Grand Jury report.

"Radicals and revolutionaries," Berkeley and outside police, the Sheriff's department, national guardsmen, jail officers, university officials, the City of Berkeley and the "community at large" all were rapped in the report on a five-month probe.

"There is evidence that there was stockpiling of rocks, steel rods and bricks on the part of the revolutionaries," the report said of students and "street people" who built the playground on a vacant lot owned by the University of California.

"A confrontation was planned by these leaders," the grand jury said.

University officials failed to provide "sufficient leadership . . . to uphold a firm stand in protecting and maintaining university property," the report said.

City officials "did not insist upon the complete enforcement of existing laws and ordinances to maintain health and safety standards which were being flagrantly violated at People's Park."

The Sheriff's office, responsible for coordinating law enforcement officers at the scene, was criticized for "insufficient planning for a probably violent confrontation even after successive massive protests . . . in and around the university in the past."

The report noted "isolated cases of weapons being used indiscriminately" by officers, but decided that clubs and shotguns were necessary.

James Rector, 25, killed by buckshot fired by a deputy sheriff, was not mentioned in the report.

The National Guard's use of a helicopter to disperse the crowd with tear gas was criticized.

Finally, the panel rapped "lack of supervision" at Santa Rita Prison Farm for "unfortunate incidents involving undue force" on the part of some jailers handling arrested demonstrators.

Vote-Counting Computer Said Capable Of Cheating

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A computer expert has urged a state Assembly committee to discontinue the use of voting machines in California because the machines can be rigged to "lie" about vote totals.

William C. Clauer, president of Intellectron International, Inc., a Los Angeles-based computer firm said yesterday experiments or "games" can be programmed into computers and such frauds are impossible to detect.

Clauer told the elections, and constitutional amendments committee that until better safeguards are developed "all computer-based systems for vote counting should be discontinued."

Clauer and several other computer experts said they developed an election fraud "game" during the Los Angeles mayoral election last spring.

They determined that by using identical computer techniques employed by Los Angeles County they could rig a computer to "lie" about its count of punch-card ballots.

The experts said they could program the computer to pass established tests for "honesty," then do a miscount and then again pass the veracity test.

Ray E. Lee, county registrar-recorder, told the committee the possibility of computer rigging has forced his office to begin a "complete reevaluation" of currently used computer systems.

Lee said, however, he is convinced there has been no machine manipulations in any elections here.

Water Board Drops Rec Funds Use

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Water Commission has decided against deferring financing of recreational facilities along the State Water Project to have enough money to finish the $3 billion project.

The idea had been suggested as a way of overcoming the tight money situation caused by inability of the state to sell its general obligation bonds even at the current statutory ceiling of 5 per cent interest.

But Sen. Stephen Teale, D-West Point, said yesterday, the proposal was based on the assumption that voters will approve raising the interest ceiling next June.

Teale said he doesn't share the commission's optimism and "in fact I have already heard strong sentiment expressed in my district against the proposed interest hike."

Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, D-Portola, suggested that the commission do the same thing the Department of Water Resources plans to do — borrow surplus money from the General Fund to use until bonds can be sold.

Commission Chairman Ira J. Chrisman asked that the deferment proposal be withdrawn, and that the commission and the Water Resources Department resolve the matter "hopefully in an effective manner."

WALKS IN THE TUBE SET TOMORROW

Residents of San Francisco and Oakland will get the chance tomorrow to stroll beneath the bay—at least a fifth of a mile as the Bay Area Rapid Transit District holds open house between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Persons who plan to take the tube walk have been cautioned to wear warm walking shoes and warm clothing. This picture was taken inside the tube near the San Francisco shoreline.

WAR

killed and 20 wounded when a North Vietnamese force charged under cover of a mortar barrage. The enemy was beaten back, leaving 15 bodies behind.

Four American bases along the Cambodian border north of Saigon were hit by more than 200 rounds of rockets, mortar and grenades early today and one of the attacks was followed up with an infantry assault. At least four North Vietnamese were killed. Allied losses were reported at two dead and 31 wounded.

In Stockholm, Sweden, a Hanoi diplomat said U.S. airmen in North Vietnamese prisons today are war criminals and therefore are not covered by international prisoner of war agreements.

In an interview with the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter, Nguyen Tho Chan, North Vietnam's ambassador to Stockholm, said despite their crimes, the U.S. prisoners receive good treatment.

Chan said the question of U.S. prisoners of war in his country will be solved only when a solution to the entire Vietnam problem is found. An estimated 800 U.S. airmen are prisoners of Hanoi.

In his newspaper interview, Chan said the American airmen held prisoner in North Vietnam are regarded as "air pirates" and are subject to punishment under North Vietnamese laws.

He hinted that none actually would stand trial.

"According to the spirit of the Geneva convention, according to the rules put up at the Nuernberg trials, according to the conclusions made by ... the juridical world conference in Grenoble, the rules of the Geneva convention concerning treatment of war prisoners can in no way be applied to the downed American airmen," Chan said.

Petaluma Core Plan On Council's Agenda

The core area plan to renovate the Petaluma downtown district and possible solutions to parking problems are set for discussion at city council study session at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Committees studying parking and a possible assessment district are expected to make reports.

Corporation Yard Contract Awarded For San Rafael

Colombini Construction Co. of Santa Rosa was awarded a contract by the San Rafael City Council last night to build a new city corporation yard. The firm's low bid on the project was $176,000.

Groundbreaking for the yard, to house city vehicles and equipment, should begin next week, according to City Mgr. James H. McCown. The facility will be located on city owned property on Lincoln Avenue, southwest of Second Street.

A portion of the old corporation yard on Francisco Boulevard was sold by the city in May for construction of two automobile agencies.

The council, meeting in specail session, also authorized calling for bids for nine new police cars.

Killer Is Granted Penalty Retrial

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — William Albert Thal, 31, who has been on Death Row at San Quentin Prison since February, 1966, after his conviction in the slaying of a San Diego couple during a robbery, has been granted a new penalty trial by the California Supreme Court.

The court upheld Thal's conviction yesterday but held that in his penalty trial the jury was selected in a way that excluded persons opposed to the death penalty.

In the Witherspoon decision last year, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled opposition to capital punishment should not automatically bar a prospective juror in a murder trial.

Bad Checks Denied By Forgery Suspect

Donald E. Mehrtens, 42, of Mill Valley, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to two felony counts of check forgery. A preliminary hearing was set for Nov. 21.

Mehrtens is accused of being responsible for forgeries said to total thousands of dollars. He was arrested Oct. 10 after a three-month investigation by several police departments and the sheriff's office.

Streib and Fernandez.

In addition to the suspected heroin found between the mattress and springs of her bed, the agents said that two men had a lid of suspected marijuana with them in the bathroom.

Miss Branstetter, who was booked on suspicion of possessing heroin for sale, posted $12,500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court Wednesday. Fernandez posted $1,875 bail to appear in court the same day.

Streib was held in lieu of $12,500 bail to appear in court Monday. Taylor with bail was set at $6,250, also is to appear Monday.

Miss Branstetter, Fernandez and Streib were booked on suspicion of possessing heroin for sale and possessing marijuana and Taylor on suspicion of driving under the influence of narcotics and possessing heroin.

Voting Light In Garrison's Race

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Voting was reported light today in a district attorney's race highlighted by the charge of the incumbent, Jim Garrison, that outside critics of his investigation of the John F. Kennedy assassination were opposing his re-election.

Voters were choosing between Garrison and three opponents in a Democratic primary that may well decide Garrison's political future.

"There's an awful lot of money coming in from somewhere," said Garrison, naming the major television networks, big city newspapers and the federal government among those seeking his defeat.

African Mine Blast Toll Now Set At 60

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The death toll was set at 60 today in the Buffelsfontein gold mine disaster. Thirty survivors remain hospitalized.

Several workers originally believed killed were assigned elsewhere just before 11 cases of dynamite exploded in a shaft yesterday.

Four Injured By Pole Collision

Two persons were hospitalized and two others treated today when their car hit a utility pole on San Pedro Road at Main Drive in San Rafael, police reported.

Linda Perry, 15, of 1423 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was in fair condition today in Marin General Hospital with cuts on her arms and face and Robert F. Wunder Jr., 22, of 107 H Street, San Rafael, was in fair condition with a broken hand.

Pamela J. Wunder, 17, also of 107 H Street, San Rafael, was treated for a broken left leg and Gary T. Minyard, 18, of 5623 Redwood Highway, Novato, driver of the car, was treated for cuts on his arm and face.

The crash occurred at 2:45 a.m.

Three Drunken Drivers Fined

Three men have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. All were placed on six months' probation.

Frederick Martin Archer, 37, of 17 Lansdale Avenue, San Anselmo, was also fined $75. He was arrested Oct. 29 in Woodacre.

John Wrighten Ford, 42, of 135 Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae, arrested Oct. 17 on Highway 101, was fined $300.

Kenneth Steven Hoyt Jr., 45, of 133 Caribe Isle, Novato, was fined $300. He was arrested Jan. 24 on Highway 101.

Novato Woman Hurt In Freeway Accident

A Novato man was reported in fair condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco with possible internal injuries suffered when his car struck a light pole today on Highway 101, just south of the Tamalpais Avenue overcrossing in Corte Madera.

The California Highway Patrol said Lawrence M. Lucas, 26, of 415 Sunset Parkway, apparently fell asleep at the wheel. The crash occurred at 12:10 a.m.

Cahill Orders Bank Shooting Probe Pressed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police Chief Thomas Cahill has ordered a complete investigation into the shooting death of a man by an off-duty policeman moonlighting—at official request—as a bank teller.

The shooting, prompted when a nervous bank patron started to flee, had been called by Chief or Inspectors Martin Lee 'unfortunate in its results . . . But necessary and justifiable."

But, Cahill ordered Lee yesterday to continue the investigation and report back to him.

The dead man was Robert J. Johnson, 24, a convicted robber and petty thief, police said.

Officer William D. Taylor, 33, is one of 60 policemen working as part-time bank tellers in San Francisco, at the request of officials trying to discourage robberies.

LSD Sale Count Evidence Lost

A charge of selling LSD against Frank Joseph Bonomolo, 22, of Petaluma, was dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court because the evidence could not be found.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest Zunino said that he, drug agents and San Francisco laboratory employees and searched to no avail for the LSD allegedly sold to a drug agent.

Bonomolo and his younger brother, George Tipton Bonomolo, 19, had been accused of selling drugs to young people at their father's Novato service station.

The younger brother is scheduled to go on trial the week of Dec. 15 in Marin Superior Court on a charge of selling marijuana.

Health Council Seeks Helpers

A call for Volunteers to fill committees to examine local health problems has been made by the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin.

Volunteers must submit applications to the council office at 920 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, said Sheila Alexander, secretary.

The council will hold a public meeting Wednesday at 7:30 a.m. in the Blue Room at Marin General Hospital.

Tiburon Council To Discuss Dog Trouble

Representatives of the Marin County Humane Society will meet with the Tiburon City Council at 8 p.m. Monday to discuss the countywide animal control ordinance and its prossible adoption by the city.

The council also will hold a second reading and public hearing on the proposed sign ordinance.

Boston Draft Papers Destroyed In Raids

It also called for a study to be made on ways to include the lagoon in the growth pattern of the Point Reyes National Seashore.

In addition, Gilroy urged that continuous pressure be applied to the Army Corps of Engineers to solve the problems outlined in the lengthy report.

An earlier report by Gilroy calling for extensive commerical development at the lagoon sparked the election which resulted in the disbanding of the harbor board. His latest report, however, deals only with preservation of the lagoon's ecology and developing the area for small boat use.

Hijacker's Trial Fate Is Debated

ROME (AP) — The case of Raphael Minichiello went to an investigating judge today for a decision on whether the U.S. Marine should be tried in Italy and on what charges.

Two of Minichiello's three Italian attorneys temporarily stepped out of the case in disagreement over the basis for defense on charges arising from the hijacking of a jetliner from California to Italy.

They had been hired by Minichiello's father. There were reports that Marvin Mitchelson of Beverly Hills, the American attorney for Minichiello's mother, had views different from theirs about the defense.

Peking Frees Five Japanese Merchants

HONG KONG (AP) — Five Japanese businessmen crossed the Communist Chinese border into Hong Kong today after more than two years' detention in Peking.

The five, all employes of the Dai-ichi Trading Co. of Japan, were handed over to Japanese trade representatives in Peking yesterday after they admitted to "grave acts against the Chinese people and the Chinese government" during the cultural revolution in China in 1967.

No Charge Filed In Hotel Room Arrest

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Egan Suhr Knudsen, 25, of Sausalito, who was arrested earlier in the day on suspicion of burglary after he was found under a bed in a room at the Sausalito Hotel.

The district attorney's office plans to investigate the case further, it was reported in court.

Truck's Occupants Loot Clothing Store

An undetermined amount of clothing was taken yesterday from Susan's Fashions at the Strawberry Shopping Center, according to the sheriff's deputies.

A witness said he saw three men break a window at the store and load clothing into a white truck. While the witness called the sheriff, the truck reportedly sped away.

Upper Court Gets Shooting Charge

Robert Peter Sundberg, 27, of San Rafael, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on charges of assault with intent to commit murder and assault with a deadly weapon stemming from a shooting spree in Fairfax Oct. 30.

He is to appear in court Nov. 17 for arraignment.

Sundberg also awaits sentencing in superior court after pleading guilty to possessing drugs at a party in San Rafael last spring.

Air Force Sergeant Hurt In Collision

A 23-year-old Hamilton Air Force Base sergeant was treated for minor cuts at the base hospital last night after his motorcycle struck the rear of an auto on southbound Highway 101 south of the San Quentin Wye in San Rafael.

The California Highway Patrol said the cycle, driven by Sgt. Ronald T. Weigand, hit a car driven by Sgt. Jimmy L. Hogges, 22, also of the base. The accident occurred about 7:05 p.m. when Hogges slowed becuase of traffic congestion on the freeway, the CHP said.

Floodwaters Invade Famed Venice Square

VENICE, Italy (AP) — The first of the big fall flood tides sent the sea rolling in three-feet deep today over Venice's famed St. Mark's Square.

City workers hastily set up narrow wooden sidewalks on stilts so Venetians and tourists could cross the square without wading.

killed and 20 wounded when a North Vietnamese force charged under cover of a mortar barrage. The enemy was beaten back, leaving 15 bodies behind.

Four American bases along the Cambodian border north of Saigon were hit by more than 200 rounds of rockets, mortar and grenades early today and one of the attacks was followed up with an infantry assault. At least four North Vietnamese were killed. Allied losses were reported at two dead and 31 wounded.

In Stockholm, Sweden, a Hanoi diplomat said U.S. airmen in North Vietnamese prisons today are war criminals and therefore are not covered by international prisoner of war agreements.

In an interview with the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter, Nguyen Tho Chan, North Vietnam's ambassador to Stockholm, said despite their crimes, the U.S. prisoners receive good treatment.

Chan said the question of U.S. prisoners of war in his country will be solved only when a solution to the entire Vietnam problem is found. An estimated 800 U.S. airmen are prisoners of Hanoi.

In his newspaper interview, Chan said the American airmen held prisoner in North Vietnam are regarded as "air pirates" and are subject to punishment under North Vietnamese laws.

He hinted that none actually would stand trial.

"According to the spirit of the Geneva convention, according to the rules put up at the Nuernberg trials, according to the conclusions made by ... the juridical world conference in Grenoble, the rules of the Geneva convention concerning treatment of war prisoners can in no way be applied to the downed American airmen," Chan said.

The Hawks Out Wrote The Doves In Response To Soldier's Letter

DEAR HELEN:

Isn't it about time you gave us a report on which letters to your column brought most responses in the last few months? We always enjoy learning whether the things that grab us also rouse up your other readers. — CURIOUS STEADY READER

DEAR CURIOUS:

Far and away the biggest response-getter this fall was the column written by Vietnam war protestors (in response to the "Soldier's Letter to Santa" which lambasted "peaceniks."). When I printed it, I said only one letter had so far been received praising our 'Nam involvement. I spoke too soon!

Those anti-war blasts inspired hundreds of rebuttals, and the score now stands four to one in favor of our government's military policy (whatever that is.).

This, however, proves nothing except that arguers write letters, while those who agree with a column's content figure the case has already been won, so nod their heads and keep quiet. In the next few weeks, the doves will no doubt out-write the hawks, since I've announced Vietnamphiles are out in front.

And so it goes. . . .

(And how I wish this miserable, stinking war could go!)

Next most discussed subject was "The Battle of the Babysitters." Sitters resented employers' complaints. Employers resented the sitters' stand for more money. A few on each side praised the others, and most agreed, though grudgingly, that light sitting rated 75 cents per hour, but a dollar or more an hour wasn't too much for multiple kids and extra duties.

Ranking third on the comment meter was "Should Prostitution Be Legalized?" The vote? Five to one in favor of legal brothels! But here again, you can't draw conclusions, for letters coming to a column don't make a valid survey. Those who want change rise to argue — especially since I took a mild negative stand.

(I'll print a few of these interesting letters in a later column — if I don't get censored!).

More live ones? Wives still slugged it out with the "other woman." I was roundly chided for calling an income tax informer (reporting on his neighbor) a "fink big" type; but got numerous bouquets for my answer to "Citizen for Morality" who blasted my "Come out of the WASP's nest" reply (among other things.).

Notably absent were comments about illegal drugs. Perhaps this issue, like "Should I or shouldn't I?" has come to a second stage: People have made their decisions — either for, against, or "ho-hum" — and why talk about it? . . . A dangerous trend, for when we're no longer concerned, guess who wins the ballgame?

Yes, I know officials are plenty worried, what with Operation Intercept and giant crackdowns, but it bothers me that young people, who used to flood me with both pro and con drug mail, seldom discuss the subject any more — and, according to wild-eyed reports, this isn't from lack of participation! When they stop trying to convince us, is it because they've already convinced themselves?

So I'll ask again, a little desperately: Comments anyone? — H.

Elders Are Happiest

WASHINGTON, D.C. (WMNS) — The long-lived may be smarter, richer, happier and more stable than other people, according to studies presented at an International Congress of Gerontology.

Researchers, keeping track for 12 years of men and women in their sixties, have found that those who made it safely into their seventies usually scored significantly higher on intelligence tests than those who died within three years of the study's beginning. Long-term survivors also tended to retain their intellectual vigor, to lead busier lives and to be better educated.

Among the short-lived men, eight out of 10 had had trouble making ends meet. Among the long-lived, only three out of 10 had minimal incomes. Nearly half of the 70-year-olds said they were better off financially than they had been at 55 years of age.

Marriage seems to promote longevity too, particularly for women. Spinsters, widows and divorcees die markedly sooner than women living with their husbands. Husbands tend to live longer than the unmarried men, but the difference in survival is less striking.

Middle East Solution Must Come From Within, Churchill Says

By BETH GAEDDERT

Winston S. Churchill, grandson of the late Prime Minister, spoke in San Anselmo yesterday on the continuing crisis in the Middle East, saying the Arabs must realize they can't get their territory back on the battlefield —they will have to do the unpalatable — talk to Israel and Golda Meir.

Twenty-five-year-old Churchill addressed an audience of more than 300 attending the first lecture in the A.M. series sponsored by the Family Service League of Marin.

He said the Egyptians have not faced the fact that it is a Middle East problem that will require a Middle East solution. The idea that they can persuade the Russians to persuade the Americans to persuade the Jews to pull back is absurd.

The Arabs still believe the war which lasted six days in early June, 1967, was won by Israel because their attack on the Egyptian airfields was a surprise, said Churchill, who covered the confrontation for London newspapers and the BBC. He and his father, the late Randolph Churchill, wrote "The Six Day War," in 1967.

"But even if the Arabs had struck first the Israelis would have won. Israel knew what they were fighting for — they were fighting for their lives," he said. "But the Egyptians were taken from the banks of the Nile and trained by unpleasant Russian officers and taken to the Sinai desert to fight for their brothers. That was fine until the bullets started flying," he said.

"Above all, the Israelis have a terrific technological edge which they will have for years to come," Churchill said.

Since Israel was outnumbered 50 to one in population, three to one in jets and two to one in tanks "deception played a big part in Israeli warfare," he said.

He said some of Israel's methods of deception included sending overland to the South four landing craft — the only ones they owned. After parading them through a Southern town near the canal where the Arabs' spies were sure to see, they parked them in a storage area and then secretly took them into the hills at night to paint different numbers on them. They then were paraded through the town again; they repainted them and repeated the parade several times before moving them back north. This successfully led the Arabs to concentrate 30 per cent of their navy in the South where it couldn't participate in the war, he said.

The Dress With Pizzaz Wins

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE:

I just love to sew and especially love to enter my garments in local sewing contests as well as the fairs in our area. I was wondering if you would give me some idea of the things the judges look for when they make their decisions.

MRS. M. A.

DEAR MRS. M. A.:

Thanks for your appropriate question. More and more women are proud of their garments and want to enter them in contests. I can give you an idea as to what the judges look for because I myself have judged many sewing contests.

In most contests, half of your points are judged on the pattern selection for your particular figure as well as the compatibility of the pattern and the fabric you have selected. Naturally, the most beautifully made garment will never win if there isn't some pizazz in the over-all completed garment.

As to construction, these are a few of the points that count the most: do the plaids match, facings that don't creep out past the outer edges of the garment, neat hem finishings (using lace instead of hem tape for dresses is impressive), seams that have been overcast or pinked neatly, sleeves that don't pucker or bulge at the cap, collars and pocket flaps that roll over beautifully instead of dog-earing at the corners and, well-pressed faced edges and seams. Naturally, the pressing will vary with the type of fabric you use. Entering contests will make you more aware of beautiful finishing details in all your garments.

MRS. J. D. HOLLEY, Chula Vista, is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

"I have found the stretch lace seam binding makes an excellent casing for elastic. Most patterns call for about the same width elastic and the stretch lace has just about the right amount of life to work well with elastic. It is durable, much faster to apply than usual bias tape. This works great when applying elastic to the lower edge of the new long, full sleeves for girls' dresses."

DEAR EUNICE:

Although I have been sewing for years, there are certain things I don't know, and your column has answered many of my questions in the past. I would like to make a lace dress with organdy collars and cuffs. Can you please tell me how to make them so that they won't turn up on the edges?

MRS. I. F.

DEAR MRS. I. F.:

First, may I tell you and all of my readers, that with the thousands of letters I receive from you. it's heart warming to realize that everyone seems to share the same problems.

This question has come up many times and I must admit, I can't give you the answer you are looking for, so I must ask our readers to come to the rescue. If any of you have come up with a tried and true remedy to the curled up edges of organdy, do us all a favor by sending an immediate answer.

I have tried many solutions and so far the one that has worked best for me is to spray the organdy collar with spray fabric finish or the spray starch and then immediately press it. This at least works temporarily, but I too need a permanent answer.

DEAR EUNICE:

My problem is a big gap in the armholes of all my sleeveless dresses and blouses. I find that a dart that starts at the armhole and points down to the bust seems to solve this problem. However, none of the patterns I buy have this type of dart in the armhole. I am sure that other full-busted women have the same problem. Is there a solution for this?

MRS. G. K.

DEAR MRS. G. K.:

Yes, there are many women that do have this problem. It will usually happen when there isn't enough dart shaping in the pattern for your particular type of figure. I have looked through the pattern books and have found some new patterns with this type of dart.

I would suggest you find a pattern with the dart in this position and use the pattern with your other pattern simply as a guide for the bust shaping. Most of the time you will find that this dart eliminates the usual dart that appears at the underarm or under the bust. However, you might also find it as an additional shaping.

Naturally, the more shaping that is required for any part of our bodies requires more darts, once you find a pattern that fits, superimpose the darts to other patterns.

DEAR MRS. I. F.:

First, may I tell you and all of my readers, that with the thousands of letters I receive from you. it's heart warming to realize that everyone seems to share the same problems.

This question has come up many times and I must admit, I can't give you the answer you are looking for, so I must ask our readers to come to the rescue. If any of you have come up with a tried and true remedy to the curled up edges of organdy, do us all a favor by sending an immediate answer.

I have tried many solutions and so far the one that has worked best for me is to spray the organdy collar with spray fabric finish or the spray starch and then immediately press it. This at least works temporarily, but I too need a permanent answer.

DEAR EUNICE:

My problem is a big gap in the armholes of all my sleeveless dresses and blouses. I find that a dart that starts at the armhole and points down to the bust seems to solve this problem. However, none of the patterns I buy have this type of dart in the armhole. I am sure that other full-busted women have the same problem. Is there a solution for this?

MRS. G. K.

DEAR MRS. G. K.:

Yes, there are many women that do have this problem. It will usually happen when there isn't enough dart shaping in the pattern for your particular type of figure. I have looked through the pattern books and have found some new patterns with this type of dart.

I would suggest you find a pattern with the dart in this position and use the pattern with your other pattern simply as a guide for the bust shaping. Most of the time you will find that this dart eliminates the usual dart that appears at the underarm or under the bust. However, you might also find it as an additional shaping.

Naturally, the more shaping that is required for any part of our bodies requires more darts, once you find a pattern that fits, superimpose the darts to other patterns.

Winter Fabrics

Fabrics in the Oscar de La Renta line for winter are full of depth and intricate pattern, often with the look of colored layers, like carved lacquer work. Some costumes combine thick and thin fabric in the same pattern. Many of the tweeds are woven with yarn as well as thread.

JOEL KEITH BORSTAD claimed Catherine Lewis as his bride at Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur, and following a wedding trip along the northern coast the couple will live in Yuba City. The bride is the daughter of the James A. Lewises of Larkspur and her husband is the son of Mrs. Joseph E. Borstad of Yuba City and the late Mr. Borstad. (Steve Brock photo)

Michael Wigell To Wed Judy Gritsch In April

An April wedding in San Mateo is planned by Judith Gayle Gritsch and Michael Carter Wigell. The announcement was made at a cocktail party and dinner given by the future bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Gritsch of Hillsborough, at the Cote d'Azure Restaurant in Atherton.

Judy is the sister of Ronald D. Gritsch of San Ramon, Gerald L. Gritsch of Portland, Ore., and Joseph R. Gritsch of Sacramento. She graduated from Burlingame High School and attended Williamette University in Salem, Ore., where she was affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega sorority, and the University of Vienna in Austria. The future bride is employed as an administrative assistant with Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco.

Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Arthur Wigell of Kentfield and the brother of Corky Wigell. He was graduated from Redwood High School and the University of Oregon, where he was a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. The future bridegroom is sales service manager for Foremost-McKesson, Inc. in San Francisco.

ART REVIEW

College Sculpture Show Has Substance

By LAURA DEVENDORF

There isn't much of it but what there is gives the sculpture exhibit, through Nov. 21 in the College of Marin gallery, the distinction of being a group show with some actual substance to it.

All five artists, showing through the courtesy of the John Bolles Gallery in San Francisco, have somethng distinct and definite to say, such as Lee Kelly, whose "Landscapes in Two Parts" consist simply of two irregular metal blocks which may or may not fit together, according to how you wish to place them. Their variations come through easy textural changes, size and the materials he uses, which may be polished mirror-bright or as rough as rust.

In four anatomical pieces, Erik Gronborg casts serene little bronzes into freely cut sections of torso. He cuts two more from wood, coating them in front with a veneer of pure, elegant white. His remaining piece is an equally clean joining of dark wood chunks to a polished aluminum core. Unfortunately, there are only two figures by Tom Rose, a bather submerged in a blue pool and a sleepy, just risen woman. The bather has all the waxy, thick-limbed, gaunt-faced grace Rose works into his darkened fiberglass. But the tall, yawning figure of "Mornings are for Sleeping" is eloquent. It's the kind of thing which draws you repeatedly to its awesome and unusual beauty.

Tyler Hoare isn't that kind of sculptor but his work is also compelling. Simplified body outlines are emphasized by contrasts of wood, metal, plastic and leather-like vinyl, such as the profile of a kneeling figure—its flat-cut sides in dark blue, its edges in burled wood and its head abd arms representented by silvery machine parts.

Hoare can also get anatomically graphic in a way that shows a sinister wit and it makes you wonder about his ambigious "Aa Horn?", and "2 Spring," which grow respectively out of wood and a pool of screw-studded metal.

Only Frederick Hobbs leaves you feeling indefinite. While interesting, his lone sculpture of intertwined ragged purple and olive shapes just doesn't offer enough to commit you to an opinion. The others do. And it is good to walk around this uncluttered exhibit and feel as uncluttered in your head as the stuff you're looking at.

San Anselmo Forgery Suspect In Court

LeRoy Raymond Willey, 38, of 108 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of forging a check Sept. 21.

His case was continued until Monday for entry of plea.

Teen-Ager Denies Marijuana Counts

Terry Phillip Stone, 19, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of furnishing, possessing and using marijuana at this home on Oct. 22.

A preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 12.

A drug agent said that he saw a youth come out of Stone's house carrying five marijuana cigarettes. Later, a search of the house at 331 Prospect Avenue revealed a can of marijuana, the agent said.

Seashore Boost

The Inverness Improvement Association last night passed resolutions supporting federal expenditure of $38 million to complete Point Reyes National Seashore and efforts by the Citizens of West Marin to get a resident doctor for the area, according to Harold Bucklin, association vice president.

Two Steal Car, Quickly Wreck It

Two young men who stole an auto today and wrecked it moments later are being sought by the California Highway Patrol.

The auto, a 1961 Mercury, was taken from the home of Cyrus L. Timmons Jr., 390 Via Hidalgo, Greenbrae. A CHP officer on patrol in the area said he saw the pair pull up next to the car in a panel truck.

The officer said one man got into the auto and began driving away. Minutes later, the car overturned on Via Hidalgo and the driver returned to the panel truck, which sped away.

One of the suspects is described as about 21 years old with long blond hair and medium build. The other, about 26, has black curly hair and medium build.

Housing Requests

Proposed housing developments for Shelter Ridge and the Alto Bowl will be discussed by the Mill Valley Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Monday in City Hall.

ART REVIEW

College Sculpture Show Has Substance

BLUE FIGURE
By Tyler Hoare

There isn't much of it but what there is gives the sculpture exhibit, through Nov. 21 in the College of Marin gallery, the distinction of being a group show with some actual substance to it.

All five artists, showing through the courtesy of the John Bolles Gallery in San Francisco, have somethng distinct and definite to say, such as Lee Kelly, whose "Landscapes in Two Parts" consist simply of two irregular metal blocks which may or may not fit together, according to how you wish to place them. Their variations come through easy textural changes, size and the materials he uses, which may be polished mirror-bright or as rough as rust.

In four anatomical pieces, Erik Gronborg casts serene little bronzes into freely cut sections of torso. He cuts two more from wood, coating them in front with a veneer of pure, elegant white. His remaining piece is an equally clean joining of dark wood chunks to a polished aluminum core. Unfortunately, there are only two figures by Tom Rose, a bather submerged in a blue pool and a sleepy, just risen woman. The bather has all the waxy, thick-limbed, gaunt-faced grace Rose works into his darkened fiberglass. But the tall, yawning figure of "Mornings are for Sleeping" is eloquent. It's the kind of thing which draws you repeatedly to its awesome and unusual beauty.

Tyler Hoare isn't that kind of sculptor but his work is also compelling. Simplified body outlines are emphasized by contrasts of wood, metal, plastic and leather-like vinyl, such as the profile of a kneeling figure—its flat-cut sides in dark blue, its edges in burled wood and its head abd arms representented by silvery machine parts.

Hoare can also get anatomically graphic in a way that shows a sinister wit and it makes you wonder about his ambigious "Aa Horn?", and "2 Spring," which grow respectively out of wood and a pool of screw-studded metal.

Only Frederick Hobbs leaves you feeling indefinite. While interesting, his lone sculpture of intertwined ragged purple and olive shapes just doesn't offer enough to commit you to an opinion. The others do. And it is good to walk around this uncluttered exhibit and feel as uncluttered in your head as the stuff you're looking at.

San Anselmo Forgery Suspect In Court

LeRoy Raymond Willey, 38, of 108 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of forging a check Sept. 21.

His case was continued until Monday for entry of plea.

Teen-Ager Denies Marijuana Counts

Terry Phillip Stone, 19, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of furnishing, possessing and using marijuana at this home on Oct. 22.

A preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 12.

A drug agent said that he saw a youth come out of Stone's house carrying five marijuana cigarettes. Later, a search of the house at 331 Prospect Avenue revealed a can of marijuana, the agent said.

Seashore Boost

The Inverness Improvement Association last night passed resolutions supporting federal expenditure of $38 million to complete Point Reyes National Seashore and efforts by the Citizens of West Marin to get a resident doctor for the area, according to Harold Bucklin, association vice president.

Two Steal Car, Quickly Wreck It

Two young men who stole an auto today and wrecked it moments later are being sought by the California Highway Patrol.

The auto, a 1961 Mercury, was taken from the home of Cyrus L. Timmons Jr., 390 Via Hidalgo, Greenbrae. A CHP officer on patrol in the area said he saw the pair pull up next to the car in a panel truck.

The officer said one man got into the auto and began driving away. Minutes later, the car overturned on Via Hidalgo and the driver returned to the panel truck, which sped away.

One of the suspects is described as about 21 years old with long blond hair and medium build. The other, about 26, has black curly hair and medium build.

Housing Requests

Proposed housing developments for Shelter Ridge and the Alto Bowl will be discussed by the Mill Valley Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Monday in City Hall.

LUV TALK — Dennis M. Warren, 21-year-old chairman of Let Us Vote (LUV), will talk about "Youth Revolution and the 18-Year-Old Vote" at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday at Guzman Hall, Dominican College of San Rafael. Warren, a senior pre-law student at the University of the Pacific, started the national campaign to lower the voting age.

Open Campus Rules Eased

Beginning Wednesday, San Rafael High School students who obtain parental permission will be able to leave the school campus during free periods, according to Dr. Alan W. Ellsberg, principal.

Ellsberg said students will be allowed to leave during lunch hour, snack period and any time they don't have a class.

He emphasized that students who leave the campus will not be allowed to use motor vehicles and will be warned against loitering or creating disturbances. If they fail to meet conditions, their off-campus permits will be revoked, Ellsberg said.

"I think the idea of an open campus is sound, both philosophically and educationally," Ellsberg said. "This school is not San Quentin. Our primary purpose is not to confine students in a certain geographical area."

Permission slips have been mailed to 660 parents. Previously, only seniors at the school had open campus privileges.

$107-Per-Day Consultant Soon Fired

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has backed away hurriedly from its decision to hire a private cost expert whose firm is linked to the maker of the controversial and costly C5A cargo plane.

But while the Air Force was moving to cut off criticism about the hiring of John J. Dyment, more trouble was brewing for the Pentagon because of the firing of cost expert A. E. Fitzgerald.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chief congressional opponent of the C5A, said he will open hearings soon to learn why the Pentagon fired Fitzgerald, the man who revealed the C5A would cost at least $2 billion more than official Air Force estimates.

And Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., announced 60 congressmen have sent a letter to President Richard M. Nixon condemning the firing of Fitzgerald.

The Pentagon reversed its three-day-old decision to hire Dyment only hours after it acknowledged yesterday it was retaining the 36-year-old partner in the Arthur Young Co., a New York accounting firm. Dyment's company handles accounting for Lockheed Co., the manufacturer of the C5A.

He was retained as a part time consultant by Spencer Shedler, an assistant secretary of the Air Force. The two men were classmates at Harvard University.

Shedler's decision to hire Dyment as a $107-a-day consultant was made last Tuesday, the same day he announced that the position held by Fitzgerald was to be eliminated.

Fitzgerald's testimony before Proxmire's economy in government subcommittee revealed the cost overruns on the C5A.

Petaluman Denies Bad Check Charge

Richard Jay Slamski of 7335 Red Hill Road, Petaluma, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing a check with intent to defraud Aug. 27.

A preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 2.

Arab Conclave Blisters U.S. As Number 1 Enemy

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Delegates from 13 Arab nations and Palestinian representatives opened an Arab Defense Council meeting in Cairo today with a denunciation of the United States as the No. 1 enemy of their peoples.

Sudanese Secretary of State Farouk Abou Eissa, who chaired the meeting, told the opening session, "The United States has put itself willingly in a position of direct confrontation with Arab nations.

"It has become very clear the United States is Arab enemy number one and it is now for Arabs to determine or define their attitude toward the United States," Eissa said.

Eissa charged America not only delivered arms and money to Israel but "has mobilized its sons to serve in the Israeli Army."

"The United States thus has shown its true face," he said.

Arab League Secretary General Abdel Khalek Hassouna told the 20-minute open session the U.S. Middle East policy was a "grave challenge" to Arab nations, especially the U.S. decision to allow Americans to serve in Israeli armed services without losing their citizenship.

As the Arab world's top diplomatic and military minds gathered in Cairo for the meeting to discuss how to deal with the United States, Secretary of State William P. Rogers yesterday accused President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt of setting back the cause of Middle East peace.

Nasser, in a speech Thursday, had said "fire and blood" rather than diplomacy would provide a settlement. He said the United States had "military men" serving with the Israeli army and air force.

Said Rogers: "President Nasser's speech is a setback to the efforts to find a peaceful solution . . . and Nasser is mistaken in describing the United States as an enemy of Egypt."

As the officials convened, Egypt got a warning from Defense Minister Moshe Dayan that Israel would retaliate for Egyptian commando raids against its positions until the strikes proved too costly for Nasser. Three such raids have occurred this week.

Carol Evans® girls are are very smart for their age. They know all about Bi-loft of Acrilan®.

Or at least all they need to know. They may not actually realize that Bi-loft is an Acrilan® acrylic yarn with a springiness synthetics never had before. And that it stays that way in and out of the washing machine. But they can feel the difference. And see the difference in the bright lustrous colors. Which is why Carol Evans® does some of your little girl's favorite styles in Bi-loft of Acrilan® acrylic. Plain and fancy cardigans. Ribbed and belted beauties. Even vests. So the next time she's instinctively drawn to Acrilan®, give her credit for knowing a good thing.

Classic cardigan, 7 to 14, $6 3 to 6X, $5
Vest, 7 to 16, $5
Ribbed slipcovers, 7 to 14, $5 3 to 6X, $4

Tam Hair Length Decision Due Monday, But Where?

Hopeful of ending the great hair controversy for once and all, the Tamalpais High School District board will tackle a proposed new policy for athletic department rules when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday.

Still undecided is the meeting place. Due to overflow crowds last month, the board had to move one meeting to the Redwood High School gymnasium. If a smaller audience attends Monday, the meeting could be in the board room or Redwood's theater.

The new policy, which has been reviewed by district coaches, proposes that athletic director's each year will meet with their coaches and draw up "appropriate rules," including grooming rules. The rules must "clearly relate to a valid educational, performance, health, or safety reason."

If a rule is challenged, an appeal may be taken through the athletic director, principal, superintendent and the board, but the appellant must obey the rule pending the final decision.

The board also will discuss proposed guidelines drawn up by Director of Instruction James L. Pierce for organizing special programs on controversial issues, such as a program on the Oct. 15 Moratorium Day which drew criticism from some district residents.

Realty Convention

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An expected 9,000 delegates were registering here this weekend for the 62nd annual and biggest-ever convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Mountain Climber Wins, But Suffers

KATMANDU (UPI) — Austrian Alpinist Kazimir Brasler arrived in Katmandu yesterday, his right hand, right leg and nose frostbitten from his successful climb to the summit of 26,037-foot Annapurna 2.

The 29-year-old member of an 11-man Austrian expedition conquered the mountain Oct. 22 with the team's youngest member, Matina Malesic, 22. Brasler told newsmen that on the final leg of the climb they had to struggle against snow and wind for 10 hours before getting to the top.

Colorado was the 38th state to join the Union.

Cholera Toll

DACCA, East Pakistan (UPI) —Newspaper reports said today more than 1,000 persons have died of cholera in East Pakistan during the past six weeks. Only one medical team, consisting of students, was reported in the Nawabganj subdivision, 250 miles north of Dacca, one of the hardest hit areas.

BUYING A HOUSE WITH RENTING AN APARTMENT OR WITH OWNING YOUR OWN APARTMENT HOME

In today's highly mobile and changing society, an ever greater number of people are moving into apartments because of the advantages they offer. People today WANT to have a pool. They WANT to spend their leisure time doing things other than yard work and painting. In other words, the apartment dweller is wary of becoming a house buyer for he suspects that his house might absorb his time and money and end up owning him.

It is well known that the renter of an apartment is penalized for his freedom. His rent money isn't buying anything, whereas the homeowner's or apartment homeowner's payments are slowly but surely building up equity. Just as important, the homeowner and apartment homeowner gets to deduct the taxes and interest he's paid out every month from his annual Federal Income Tax return in April.

★ 30 year loan, $14,550. Monthly payment $107.81--annual percentage rate 8½%
★★ 30 year loan, $17,111. Monthly payment $126.71--annual percentage rate 8½%
NOTE: ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE includes ½% FHA mortgage insurance premium, lender's loan fee, seller's and buyer's points and tax service fee.

BUYING A HOUSE WITH RENTING AN APARTMENT OR WITH OWNING YOUR OWN APARTMENT HOME

In today's highly mobile and changing society, an ever greater number of people are moving into apartments because of the advantages they offer. People today WANT to have a pool. They WANT to spend their leisure time doing things other than yard work and painting. In other words, the apartment dweller is wary of becoming a house buyer for he suspects that his house might absorb his time and money and end up owning him.

It is well known that the renter of an apartment is penalized for his freedom. His rent money isn't buying anything, whereas the homeowner's or apartment homeowner's payments are slowly but surely building up equity. Just as important, the homeowner and apartment homeowner gets to deduct the taxes and interest he's paid out every month from his annual Federal Income Tax return in April.

★ 30 year loan, $14,550. Monthly payment $107.81—annual percentage rate 8½%
★★ 30 year loan, $17,111. Monthly payment $126.71—annual percentage rate 8½%
NOTE: ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE includes ½% FHA mortgage insurance premium, lender's loan fee, seller's and buyer's points and tax service fee.

Waldie Wants Ecological Study Of Water Project

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., called today for a halt on the California Water Project and other major public works projects until their effect on the state's environment can be assessed.

Waldie said stopping work on such jobs as the water project would help fight inflation and would allow for an orderly re-evaluation of needs of the Los Angeles Basin.

"This does not mean we have a $3 billion ditch dry and unused," he said at an urban growth conference at Canada College. "But let us find out what water is truly surplus and what is truly needed by the south before we sent it down."

The Antioch Democrat also criticized plans to divert Sacramento River water to the Los Angeles Basin. He said more information is needed on the effects the project would have on the ecology of the Delta area and the merit of sending water to an area which "does not have enough air to meet demands of the present population."

Air Base Resident Hears Morals Count

Paul Michael Vaxmonsky of Hamilton Air Force Base was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of statutory rape allegedly committed Sept. 30 in Novato.

His case was continued until Friday for entry of plea.

A BOLD ANSWER TO MARIN'S COMMUTER GLUT?

Wallace H. Granger, a retired Kentfield commuter, has a unique solution to traffic presssure on San Francisco and the Golden Gate Bridge—a garage for 10,000 cars on the steep slope between the Waldo Tunnel and the Sausalito Lateral, with commuters shuttling by bus into San Francisco. This sketch by Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey includes Granger's suggestion that the structure include a 500-room hotel. "There are no great engineering problems to interfere with the scheme," Granger asserted. He said similar structures could be used at the east end of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and south of Candlestick Park. "Someone has got to start thinking big if the traffic and smog problem in San Francisco is to be alleviated," he said.

Pesticide Turns Up In Holiday Turkeys

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government inspectors are making an intensive check of turkeys bound for the Thanksgiving market after finding traces of a powerful pesticide in tens of thousands of the birds.

Agriculture Department officials say they are confident no contaminated turkeys reached the retail markets, and that all turkey products in federally inspected processing plants are being checked.

The investigation began after residue of heptacholor, a long-lived pesticide ranking in toxicity with DDT, was discovered in a Minnesota processing plant Oct. 9. The department spokesman said the plant was using birds supplied by Arkansas Valley Industries, Ltd., headquartered at Little Rock.

Spokesmen in Little Rock declined comment last night, but said they would issue a statement later.

Department officials said that of 150,000 birds checked on ranches supplying the Arkansas company, 90,000 were found to have residue traces and the rest were uncontaminated.

Another 150,000 live turkeys on farms supplying AVI are to be checked before they are released for slaughter.

Also being detained for checking in federally inspected processing plants are four million pounds of turkey meat.

Officials indicated the investigation extended to states other than Arkansas and Minnesota, but would not name them or the processors involved.

Food and Drug Administration regulations permit no traces of pesticide residue in meat and poultry products. Turkeys or turkey-products found to be contaminated are condemned.

Heptacholor is a pesticide that is frequently applied to the soil to kill grub worms and other insects.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Cyclamate Scare Has Its Impact On Bottling Firms

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. The soft-drink industry seems to me to be a good area for long term investment. Which company would you recommend?—P.P.

A. Your timely question is a difficult one to answer since the full effects of the government ban on the use of cyclamates in edibles have not yet been evaluated.

The ban, which takes effect Jan. 1, 1970, had some interesting repercussions. In supermarkets, both purchases and returns of cyclamate-sweetened items were heavy. In the stock market, softdrink, drug and diet-food producers sold off while sugar, saccarin and container stocks moved higher.

As is usual, emotional overreaction produced some exvellent buying opportunities which cooler heads were quick to use. In the event that the entire diet drink market evaporated, Coca-Cola, controlling one-third of this market, would lose under 10 cents a share in earnings. PepsiCo.'s earnings would be penalized by about 10 cents, but Royal Crown would suffer more heavily, since 25 per cent of its business is in diet beverages.

Rumblings about the ill effects of clyclamates have been heard for some time, so it is doubtful that these companies were totally unprepared. Several expect to market cyclamate-free low-calorie products soon. PepsiCo., selling 22x estimated 1969 net of $2.35 a share, would be my choice in this industry.

Q. Can you tell me anything about the O-T-C Securities Fund? Since the "counter market" seems to be the birthplace of tomorrow's blue chips, I would think this would be a good investment.—D.M.

A. This small-performance fund has scored above-average gains since its founding in 1956. In a comparison of 10-year investment results through 1968, O-T-C Fund w as among the top 10 per cent. Its approximately $2 million in assets are invested primarily in common stock with many fine growth issues represented in its portfolio. The fund may not buy on margin or transact short sales, buy commodities or real estate or hold more than 10 per cent of the voting shares in any one company.

Gunman Holds Up Hub Pharmacist, Steals His Auto

A gun-toting young man robbed a San Anselmo pharmicist of an unknown amount of cash and drugs last night and then escaped in the victim's car.

San Anselmo police reported that the robber walked into the Drake Pharmacy at 810 Sir Frances Drake Boulevard shortly after 8 p.m., pointed a heavy caliber automatic at pharmicist Kenneth S. Cooke and said, "don't get excited, all I want is your money and drugs."

The robber cleaned out the cash register, took the drugs and then bound Cooke by taping his wrists and ankles. The robber then fled in Cooke's car.

Cooke told officers it took him more than 20 minutes to work his hands loose.

Police are still looking for the robber, described as about 25 years old, about five feet, six inches in height and 140 pounds. Cooke's car is also missing.

Topless Dancing Ban Declared Unconstitutional

LOS ANGELES (AP) Los Angeles County's ban on topless dancing—slated to go into effect Monday—won't.

Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer issued a preliminary injunction yesterday against enforcement of the ordinance.

The injunction was sought in a suit by Walter C. Robson, a West Hollywood tavern owner, and Jean Chanel, a 28-year-old topless dancer.

Attorney Harrison W. Hertzberg, argued successfully that the California Supreme Court ruled last year that topless dancing was a form of expression protected by the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Schauer's ruling does not affect another ordinance against bottomless dancing, nor the arrest of topless dancers for lewd conduct or indecent exposurt.

LSD Possession Case To Superior Court

Edward Charles Pierce Jr., of Campbell, Santa Clara County, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of possessing LSD on July 10 in Marin.

He is to appear in court Nov. 17 for arraignment.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Lice On Human Often Hushed Up As Embarrassing Subject

VAN DELLEN

Lice on the hair or skin are more embarrassing than serious, provided typhus fever is not in the neighborhood.

This infectious disease is transmitted by the louse and is a severe threat when it breaks out in the community.

The louse or its eggs may be passed directly from person to person through close contact or the use of contaminated clothing, combs, brushes, towels, or bedding.

Even a physician may accidentally acquire these critters when making a house call on infested patients.

A CHILD AFFLICTED with these parasites may disrupt an entire school. Youngsters are chummy and the infested boy or girl ought to remain home until cured.

It is surprising how apathetic some families can be.

Irresponsible parents neglect the vermin, saying "It was caught at school and should be treated by the school." They leave the delousing job to the health department.

THE EGGS OF HEAD lice (nits) are attached to the individual hairs at a slight angle. These critters are small and gray and are best seen in the hair behind the ears. Nits differ from dandruff particles, which are scattered loosely among the hairs and on the scalp.

Body lice (cooties) live on the skin but sometimes seek refuge in the seams of clothing. All types lead to itching and most of the damage stems from scratching too vigorously.

FREQUENT BATHS and changes of clothing discourage lice. When this is not possible, the modern dusting technic with DDT of the fully-clothed individual will kill the critters. Other insect repellents, such as benzene hexachloride may be substituted.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

ALCOHOLIC NEURITIS

G.M.L. writes: My husband complains of severe pain in the legs. Could this distress be caused by too much alcohol? He drinks all day long. Will you write something about? I am tired of listening to his complaints, especially when he won't give up drinking.

REPLY

Alcoholic neuritis is the most likely cause. Large doses of vitamin B usually are helpful and there is a good possibility that when the pain increases in severity he will be interested in taking these shots and curbing his intake of liquor. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disorder.

TESTING FOR VIRUS

P.T.L. writes: What tests are done to determine the presence of a virus in the body?

REPLY

Special laboratory studies are required. Sputum or nasal secretions are examined when a respiratory infection exists, whereas the spinal fluid is studied if meningitis or encephalitis is suspected. Other tests depend upon the locale of the diseased organs. Blood tests also are available but they are not positive until the body begins to develop immunity to the causative viruses.

TICK HAZARDS

H.H. writes: Are ticks poisonous if they leave an animal and bite a human?

REPLY

Ticks convey such diseases as plague, tularemia, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, and tick paralysis. But the chances of developing these conditions are slim unless the ticks pick up the organisms from infected animals.

Waldie Wants Ecological Study Of Water Project

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., called today for a halt on the California Water Project and other major public works projects until their effect on the state's environment can be assessed.

Waldie said stopping work on such jobs as the water project would help fight inflation and would allow for an orderly re-evaluation of needs of the Los Angeles Basin.

"This does not mean we have a $3 billion ditch dry and unused," he said at an urban growth conference at Canada College. "But let us find out what water is truly surplus and what is truly needed by the south before we sent it down."

The Antioch Democrat also criticized plans to divert Sacramento River water to the Los Angeles Basin. He said more information is needed on the effects the project would have on the ecology of the Delta area and the merit of sending water to an area which "does not have enough air to meet demands of the present population."

Air Base Resident Hears Morals Count

Paul Michael Vaxmonsky of Hamilton Air Force Base was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of statutory rape allegedly committed Sept. 30 in Novato.

His case was continued until Friday for entry of plea.

A BOLD ANSWER TO MARIN'S COMMUTER GLUT?

Wallace H. Granger, a retired Kentfield commuter, has a unique solution to traffic presssure on San Francisco and the Golden Gate Bridge—a garage for 10,000 cars on the steep slope between the Waldo Tunnel and the Sausalito Lateral, with commuters shuttling by bus into San Francisco. This sketch by Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey includes Granger's suggestion that the structure include a 500-room hotel. "There are no great engineering problems to interfere with the scheme," Granger asserted. He said similar structures could be used at the east end of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and south of Candlestick Park. "Someone has got to start thinking big if the traffic and smog problem in San Francisco is to be alleviated," he said.

Pesticide Turns Up In Holiday Turkeys

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government inspectors are making an intensive check of turkeys bound for the Thanksgiving market after finding traces of a powerful pesticide in tens of thousands of the birds.

Agriculture Department officials say they are confident no contaminated turkeys reached the retail markets, and that all turkey products in federally inspected processing plants are being checked.

The investigation began after residue of heptacholor, a long-lived pesticide ranking in toxicity with DDT, was discovered in a Minnesota processing plant Oct. 9. The department spokesman said the plant was using birds supplied by Arkansas Valley Industries, Ltd., headquartered at Little Rock.

Spokesmen in Little Rock declined comment last night, but said they would issue a statement later.

Department officials said that of 150,000 birds checked on ranches supplying the Arkansas company, 90,000 were found to have residue traces and the rest were uncontaminated.

Another 150,000 live turkeys on farms supplying AVI are to be checked before they are released for slaughter.

Also being detained for checking in federally inspected processing plants are four million pounds of turkey meat.

Officials indicated the investigation extended to states other than Arkansas and Minnesota, but would not name them or the processors involved.

Food and Drug Administration regulations permit no traces of pesticide residue in meat and poultry products. Turkeys or turkey-products found to be contaminated are condemned.

Heptacholor is a pesticide that is frequently applied to the soil to kill grub worms and other insects.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Cyclamate Scare Has Its Impact On Bottling Firms

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. The soft-drink industry seems to me to be a good area for long term investment. Which company would you recommend?—P.P.

A. Your timely question is a difficult one to answer since the full effects of the government ban on the use of cyclamates in edibles have not yet been evaluated.

The ban, which takes effect Jan. 1, 1970, had some interesting repercussions. In supermarkets, both purchases and returns of cyclamate-sweetened items were heavy. In the stock market, softdrink, drug and diet-food producers sold off while sugar, saccarin and container stocks moved higher.

As is usual, emotional overreaction produced some exvellent buying opportunities which cooler heads were quick to use. In the event that the entire diet drink market evaporated, Coca-Cola, controlling one-third of this market, would lose under 10 cents a share in earnings. PepsiCo.'s earnings would be penalized by about 10 cents, but Royal Crown would suffer more heavily, since 25 per cent of its business is in diet beverages.

Rumblings about the ill effects of clyclamates have been heard for some time, so it is doubtful that these companies were totally unprepared. Several expect to market cyclamate-free low-calorie products soon. PepsiCo., selling 22x estimated 1969 net of $2.35 a share, would be my choice in this industry.

Q. Can you tell me anything about the O-T-C Securities Fund? Since the "counter market" seems to be the birthplace of tomorrow's blue chips, I would think this would be a good investment.—D.M.

A. This small-performance fund has scored above-average gains since its founding in 1956. In a comparison of 10-year investment results through 1968, O-T-C Fund w as among the top 10 per cent. Its approximately $2 million in assets are invested primarily in common stock with many fine growth issues represented in its portfolio. The fund may not buy on margin or transact short sales, buy commodities or real estate or hold more than 10 per cent of the voting shares in any one company.

Gunman Holds Up Hub Pharmacist, Steals His Auto

A gun-toting young man robbed a San Anselmo pharmicist of an unknown amount of cash and drugs last night and then escaped in the victim's car.

San Anselmo police reported that the robber walked into the Drake Pharmacy at 810 Sir Frances Drake Boulevard shortly after 8 p.m., pointed a heavy caliber automatic at pharmicist Kenneth S. Cooke and said, "don't get excited, all I want is your money and drugs."

The robber cleaned out the cash register, took the drugs and then bound Cooke by taping his wrists and ankles. The robber then fled in Cooke's car.

Cooke told officers it took him more than 20 minutes to work his hands loose.

Police are still looking for the robber, described as about 25 years old, about five feet, six inches in height and 140 pounds. Cooke's car is also missing.

Topless Dancing Ban Declared Unconstitutional

LOS ANGELES (AP) Los Angeles County's ban on topless dancing—slated to go into effect Monday—won't.

Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer issued a preliminary injunction yesterday against enforcement of the ordinance.

The injunction was sought in a suit by Walter C. Robson, a West Hollywood tavern owner, and Jean Chanel, a 28-year-old topless dancer.

Attorney Harrison W. Hertzberg, argued successfully that the California Supreme Court ruled last year that topless dancing was a form of expression protected by the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Schauer's ruling does not affect another ordinance against bottomless dancing, nor the arrest of topless dancers for lewd conduct or indecent exposurt.

LSD Possession Case To Superior Court

Edward Charles Pierce Jr., of Campbell, Santa Clara County, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of possessing LSD on July 10 in Marin.

He is to appear in court Nov. 17 for arraignment.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

VAN DELLEN

Lice on the hair or skin are more embarrassing than serious, provided typhus fever is not in the neighborhood.

This infectious disease is transmitted by the louse and is a severe threat when it breaks out in the community.

The louse or its eggs may be passed directly from person to person through close contact or the use of contaminated clothing, combs, brushes, towels, or bedding.

Even a physician may accidentally acquire these critters when making a house call on infested patients.

A CHILD AFFLICTED with these parasites may disrupt an entire school. Youngsters are chummy and the infested boy or girl ought to remain home until cured.

It is surprising how apathetic some families can be.

Irresponsible parents neglect the vermin, saying "It was caught at school and should be treated by the school." They leave the delousing job to the health department.

THE EGGS OF HEAD lice (nits) are attached to the individual hairs at a slight angle. These critters are small and gray and are best seen in the hair behind the ears. Nits differ from dandruff particles, which are scattered loosely among the hairs and on the scalp.

Body lice (cooties) live on the skin but sometimes seek refuge in the seams of clothing. All types lead to itching and most of the damage stems from scratching too vigorously.

FREQUENT BATHS and changes of clothing discourage lice. When this is not possible, the modern dusting technic with DDT of the fully-clothed individual will kill the critters. Other insect repellents, such as benzene hexachloride may be substituted.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

ALCOHOLIC NEURITIS

G.M.L. writes: My husband complains of severe pain in the legs. Could this distress be caused by too much alcohol? He drinks all day long. Will you write something about? I am tired of listening to his complaints, especially when he won't give up drinking.

REPLY

Alcoholic neuritis is the most likely cause. Large doses of vitamin B usually are helpful and there is a good possibility that when the pain increases in severity he will be interested in taking these shots and curbing his intake of liquor. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disorder.

TESTING FOR VIRUS

P.T.L. writes: What tests are done to determine the presence of a virus in the body?

REPLY

Special laboratory studies are required. Sputum or nasal secretions are examined when a respiratory infection exists, whereas the spinal fluid is studied if meningitis or encephalitis is suspected. Other tests depend upon the locale of the diseased organs. Blood tests also are available but they are not positive until the body begins to develop immunity to the causative viruses.

TICK HAZARDS

H.H. writes: Are ticks poisonous if they leave an animal and bite a human?

REPLY

Ticks convey such diseases as plague, tularemia, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, and tick paralysis. But the chances of developing these conditions are slim unless the ticks pick up the organisms from infected animals.

HOW TO PLAY BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Only Chance For Victory Is Finesse Through Dummy

If you are the average reader of this column, it may pay you to remember that most of your opponents belong to the human race. Since they tend to solve the little problems of life just as you would, you can guess what they are doing by putting yourself in their place.

SPADE LEAD

West opened the five of spades, and declarer tried to win the trick with dummy's queen. East covered with the king, and South held up his ace of spades until the third round.

Now South was sure of five diamonds and the three side aces. His only real chance for a ninth trick was to lead a heart toward dummy in the hope of guessing whether to play the queen or the ten.

Since there was no hurry, South ran four rounds of diamonds before testing the hearts. West discarded a club, a heart and finally a spade.

Leaving a high diamond in the dummy as a re-entry, South took the ace of hearts and led the deuce of hearts toward dummy. West followed suit with the eight, and South had to make his crucial guess.

EASY ANSWER

Every reader of this column has the answer to South's problem, partly because my readers are world-famous for their brilliance and partly because all of the cards are in sight. The correct answer should, however, be equally easy for any bridge player who puts himself in West's place.

South must hope that West still holds either the king or the jack of hearts since the hand is hopeless if East has both of those cards. If West has the king of hearts, would he save the eight of hearts and throw away a good spade?

ONLY CHANCE

Obviously, West would save all of his good spades if he could safely do so. Therefore, West does not hold the king of hearts, and South's only chance is to try a finesse with dummy's ten.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-no trump (16-18 points), and the next player passes. You hold:

♠—J 9 6 5 2
♥—J 8 5 4
♦—7
♣—K 6 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs (the Stayman Convention), asking partner to show a major suit of four or more cards if he can.

If partner bids two spades, you will raise to three spades; if he bids two hearts, you will pass; if he bids two diamonds (denying a major suit) you will bid two spades and hope for the best. The alternative to all of this is to bid two spades over partner's notrump, which is slightly timid.

The Biggest Spring

VAN BUREN, Mo. (UPI)—The largest single outlet spring in the United States is Big Spring, which has a maximum flow of 846 million gallons daily.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday Nov. 8, the 312th day of 1969 with 53 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1837, Mount Holyoke Seminary in Massachusetts became the first college founded exclusively for women.

In 1923, Adolf Hitler and his National Socialist storm troopers marched into a Munich Beer Hall and forced the Bavarian prime minister to swear loyalty to the Nazi revolution. The army quickly broke up the meeting.

In 1942, some 400,000 allied soldiers invaded North Africa.

In 1960, Democratic Sen. John Kennedy defeated Republican Vice President Richard Nixon for the presidency.

A thought for the day: British writer Samuel Butler said, "To live is like love, all reason is against it, and all healthy instinct for it."

East Is East, But How To Go West?

LONDON (UPI)—The railroad station at Stratford in East London has put up a sign reading—in Chinese—"Please State Your Destination."

A British Rail official explained: "There's rather a large Chinese population and many don't speak English. Sometimes ticket clerks asked them where they were going and couldn't be understood. On one occasion, tempers flared and a clerk got punched in the eye."

In 1837, Mount Holyoke Seminary in Massachusetts became the first college founded exclusively for women.

In 1923, Adolf Hitler and his National Socialist storm troopers marched into a Munich Beer Hall and forced the Bavarian prime minister to swear loyalty to the Nazi revolution. The army quickly broke up the meeting.

In 1942, some 400,000 allied soldiers invaded North Africa.

In 1960, Democratic Sen. John Kennedy defeated Republican Vice President Richard Nixon for the presidency.

A thought for the day: British writer Samuel Butler said, "To live is like love, all reason is against it, and all healthy instinct for it."

East Is East, But How To Go West?

LONDON (UPI)—The railroad station at Stratford in East London has put up a sign reading—in Chinese—"Please State Your Destination."

A British Rail official explained: "There's rather a large Chinese population and many don't speak English. Sometimes ticket clerks asked them where they were going and couldn't be understood. On one occasion, tempers flared and a clerk got punched in the eye."

OLD AND NEW — Travel film producer Chris Borden prepares to film a Swiss girl for his picture "Wide Wide Switzerland," which Borden will narrate at 8:15 p.m. Monday at the San Rafael High School auditorium.

Travelogue Maker Has Cake And Eats It Too

Most people think the life of a travel-adventure filmmaker is a happy round of traveling to far-off places, choosing your own work and doing what you please.

That's what Chris Borden thinks, too, and he has been producing his own travel films for four years. He will narrate his current film, "Wide Wide Switzerland," at 8:15 p.m. Monday at San Rafael High School auditorium in the Explorerama series.

A one-time disk jockey he started a radio broadcast school in San Francisco, then sold it in 1965 to give full time to photography, which had been his hobby.

His credits now include 17 television shows, two documentaries a business and industrial films, and three travel-adventure films which he narrates himself on the lecture circuit.

His first film was on Mexico, his second is the Swiss picture, and a film on Bali which he shot last summer will be released next.

The Swiss film was shot in the summer of 1968, when the young, blond Borden and his wife spent two months traveling the country from corner to corner.

Borden said he begins by reading everything he can find about the country. Then he lays out a scenario of the main themes for the film—scenery, tourist sights, the people, animals, children, flowers. He shot 12,000 to 15,000 feet of film in Switzerland, edited down to 3,100 feet for the finished picture.

The two-part film includes scenes from all parts of the country, recounts the life of 87-year-old Constans Rossli, of the first scaling of the Matterhorn in 1865.

The place in Switzerland that seems to epitomize the country for most audiences, he said, is the tiny village of Elm, where the Bordens spent a week filming.

Borden's lecture circuit runs from September to May and covers the east, midwest and all of California.

On his current trip arranged by the Explorers Club of San Francisco, he is presenting the film 12 times in cities from Carmel to Santa Rosa.

In December, Borden will soothe his wanderlust with a trip to Nepal to shoot his next exotic film. December is the only month of guaranteed good filming weather there.

Bali and Nepal, he predicted, will be as great tourist attractions in a few years as Hawaii and Tahiti.

Official Urges More Weed-Killing Bug Use

More insects should be enlisted to fight pest weeds, County Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard declared yesterday.

While most research is directed toward chemical weed killers, Ballard said, more emphasis should be placed on biological control of weeds. Some weed species begin to defy chemicals, and furthermore the frequent use of chemicals causes pollution, Ballard warned.

He cited examples of such biological control. For example, Ballard said, two small weevils checked the spread of puncture vine in Fresno and Tehama counties and the cinnabar moth brought tansy ragwort weed under control this summer in Del Norte County. The twig mining moth reduced the acreage of scotch broom in El Dorado and Placer counties.

"We feel that research on biological control is necessary if the use of pesticides is to be maintained at a biiologically safe level," said Ballard.

Typhoon Moves

MANILA (UPI) - Typhoon Kathy headed toward the Philippines' northernmost island of Basco today with 115 mile per hour winds. The weather bureau's early morning report placed the storm 519 miles southeast of Basco and said it was moving at 11 m.p.h.

Planners To Eye Policy On Annexations

Should Marin County encourage annexation to cities, and what type of coercion, if any, should be applied?

This question will be discussed by the county planning commission at its all-day meeting at 9 a.m. Monday in the Civic Center.

Commissioners will also discuss legislation to increase taxes on mobile homes. The North Marin Federation, composed of 10 homeowner groups, contends that mobile homes do not pay fair share of taxes when compared with convention homes.

A new ordinance to control filling and building on tidal waterways will receive another hearing at 11 a.m.

In other business, the commission will hear plans by the American Pacific Life Insurance Co. for a multi-story office building north of the Veterans Memorial Auditorium on Civic Center property, consider a request for duplex zoning at North San Pedro Road and Meriam Drive in Santa Venetia and hear a report on the dangers of strip mining in Marin.

TERRA LINDA FAVORED, BUT . . .

Beware: Sleeping Giant

"The sleeping Giant is awake."

That's what Redwood High School football coach Bob Troppmann was saying this week as his Giants prepared to meet Terra Linda's favored Trojans in tonight's clash of Marin County Athletic League unbeatens at San Rafael High School, 8 o'clock.

The Giants quite surprisingly find themselves with a 4-0 league record and in a position to challenge Terra Linda, which has shared the MCAL crown for the past three seasons. To Troppmann, who has coached three MCAL champions in the past, this is incentive enough for the Giants. This is their chance to regain some of Redwood's past football prestige.

READY

"We're ready for this one," he said. "We had our pre-game dinner Thursday and showed films of former Redwood High School championship teams."

The Trojans have also been going to the movies, watching their own particular horror movie out of the past.

"The only movie we've seen is the one of last year's Redwood game," Terra Linda coach Don Lucas said. "We've looked at it quite a bit."

The game was Redwood's 25-10 win over Terra Linda in the last game of the season, marring the Trojans' bid for their first perfect season and first outright MCAL crown.

Weather may have an effect on the game. It's been drizzling for the past day or so and the field is expected to be muddy. Neither coach is claiming any special advantage.

BOTH SIDES

"It's muddy on both sides of the field," Troppmann said. "It's hard to predict what the weather will do to a game. Every time you try, it turns out wrong. But it has been known to be a great equalizer in the speed and passing department."

"It won't help if it's actually raining," Lucas said. "But it will help our receivers. They know where they're going and will be able to cut more effectively."

Redwood may have fiery linebacker Rick Puccinelli back for this if only as a presence.

DEPENDS

"It depends on the doctor's okay," Troppmann said. "He may suit up, and possibly get in

SAN RAFAEL SPOILER

San Marin Kayoed

By GARY TISCHLER

In running conditions fit for a duck on a weight program, San Rafael High School's football team cut the contending field in the Marin County Athletic League football championship race down to two by holding back San Marin, 17-14, last night before some 1,500 fans at San Rafael High School.

The loss eliminated the Mustangs from the race, leaving only Redwood and Terra Linda, who clash tonight at San Rafael High, in contention.

Mike Howard's 25-yard field goal early in the game provided the eventual margin of victory in a see-saw game, one of the most thrilling league games of the season in a year that has not seen too many close games.

The Bulldogs jumped in front early on Howard's boot but trailed 7-3 at the half after scrappy San Marin quarterback Ken Gnoss scored for the Mustangs on a bouncing 10-yard burst.

Lightning buried the Mustangs in the third quarter as the Bulldogs struck twice, and quickly.

On the first play of the second half, 145-pound Lowell Widmer really made his rollout option work as he ripped loose for a 55-yard run to the 10-yard line, where he stumbled and fell. Two plays later, Widmer scored from the seven yard line.

The other San Rafael touchdown, and the deciding one, came when Gnoss was chased and nailed trying to run from his own 14-yard line where he fumbled. George DeSalvo pounced on the loose ball in the end zone and that was it.

San Marin had not called it quits, yet. The Mustangs regrouped after recovering a San Rafael fumble on the Bulldog 33-yard line. Gnoss, tenacious

Wilt May Be Out For Year With Knee Injury

JACK HANLEY

Warrior Fritz Williams Had Two-Sport Choice

Fritz Williams, No. 1 pick of the Warriors in last year's pro basketball draft, was offered a three-year pro football contract by the Dallas Cowboys even though he never played football at West Virginia.

"Yes, that's right," said Williams. "The Cowboys wanted me as a defensive halfback. I worked out with them and did real well. The drills were more or less the same as basketball drills. Coach Tom Landry said I had a good chance to make the squad."

However, Williams decided to sign with the Warriors who now are grooming him as their play-making quarterback. Williams moved in as a regular guard, alongside Jeff Mullins, when the Warriors sent Jimmy King to Cincinnati in the Jerry Lucas deal.

An Excellent Ball Handler

Williams, 6-3, 190, is an excellent ball handler and fine passer. He is effective on a drive or from the outside with a variety of shots, ranking third among Warriors in field goal accuracy (42 per cent). His best scoring night as a rookie last season came in a game against Seattle when he hit for 26 points.

As Weirton High School, Williams played both basketball and football. He was split end and defensive back of the football team which won two West Virginia state championships. In his junior year he quarterbacked the basketball team to a state championship.

At West Virginia, alma mater of such great guards as Jerry West, Hot Rod Hundley and Rod Thorn, Williams bypassed football to concentrate on basketball. Nevertheless, Dallas picked him No. 12 in last year's pro football draft.

A Normal Move For Schramm

Dallas' action didn't surprise anyone who knows Tex Schramm, president and general manager of the Cowboys. In 1962 Schramm signed Cornell Green as a free agent. Green had played football only as a high school senior in Richmond, Calif. Green skipped college football, like Williams, to concentrate on basketball when he went to Utah State where he became an All-American basketball selection in his sophomore year.

Schramm was convinced that Green's quickness on the court would make him a great cornerback on the football field. When he signed with the Cowboys, Green was 6-3, 190, precisely Williams' measurements when the Cowboys tried to sign him.

Now in his eighth year as a football pro, Green is one of the top defensive men in the National Football League. He has been All-Pro for three years, a Pro Bowl pick four years. Going into this season, Green's career interceptions totaled 25.

Nolan Praises Green

Dick Nolan, 49er coach who used to be Landry's chief assistant at Dallas, says Green is as good as anybody in stripping a receiver on turn-ins. "He discourages some from running it altogether," says Nolan.

The secret of Green's success?

"I don't think basketball was any hindrance," he says. "Basketball may have helped my quickness."

Of that Schramm never had a doubt. And as for his precedent of signing a basketball player to a football contract, Schramm has this to say:

"The real worth of your scouting system shows in the judgment you exercise in late round draft selections and in the free agents you sign. Anybody can find the best 30 or 40 college football players in the country by going to a newsstand and buying a magazine."

Marin's Makela Wins Conference

Don Makela, College of Marin's premier runner, added the Camino Norte Conference cross country championship to his string of individual victories yesterday in the conference meet at West Valley College in Campbell, Santa Clara County.

The 5-foot-7, 138-pound mighty mite, who has been beaten only once all season, led runners from six schools across the four-mile course in 22 minutes, 9 seconds.

DeAnza College of Cupertino won the team championship with 29 points, followed in order by Santa Rosa 50, Marin 80, West Valley 89, Contra Costa (San Pablo) 131 and Solano (Vallejo), no score.

Helping Makela lead Marin to a third place finish were Rick Taldo who placed 14th, Pat Bowen 17th, Mark Miller 22nd, Dave Stancliffe 26th, Seamus O'Reilly 28th and Bob Bode 32nd.

Nicklaus Not Quite Satisfied

HONOLULU (AP) — Jack Nicklaus held a four-stroke lead today after the third round of the $125,000 Hawaiian Open golf tournament, was a prohibitive favorite to annex his third consecutive title—and was far from satisfied.

"If you'd asked me before I started the round if I would be satisfied with 71, I would have said yes," Nicklaus said yesterday after scrambling in with a one-under-par round.

"But after the way I played the front nine, I can't say I'm satisfied. I got pretty sloppy on the back nine."

Nicklaus, who now has played 15 consecutive subpar rounds and has led or shared the lead in the last seven competitive rounds, had a 36 hole total of 134, 10 under par after two trips over the 7,020 yard, par 72 Waialae Country Club course.

Well back in second were Tom Weiskopf and Ken Still, tied at 138. Weiskopf had a second round 68 and Still a 71. Two more strokes back at 140 were Herb Hooper, John Schroeder and Jack McGowan.

In the group at 141 were Bob Murphy, who had the best round of the day, a 67, Billy Casper, 68, and Arnold Palmer, 71.

BALKY PUTTER

"That's the most frustrating round I've ever played," said Palmer, who missed at least five putts three feet or shorter.

Masters champion George Archer had a 71 for 142 and defending champion Lee Trevino a 72 for 146.

Two major title-holders failed to make the cut for the final two rounds. It took a score of 148 to make it and PGA champ Ray Floyd had a 149 and U.S. Open title-holder Orville Moody had a fat 154.

The blustery Trade Winds, with gusts nearly 50 miles an hour, played havoc with the scores and was the reason Nicklaus said he originally would have been satisfied with a 71.

Balboa High Overpowers Tam, 27-6

Tamalpais High School's young football team played powerful and versatile Balboa of the San Francisco Triple A League on even terms for a half before succumbing to the inevitable and losing a 27-6 non-league encounter in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium last night before some 1,000 fans.

The Indians of Mill Valley, behind the running of Clifford Hall and Billy Washington, actually led in the first quarter, 6-0, with Mark Costello scoring on a one-yard plunge to cap a drive that consumed most of the first period.

Tamalpais is now 2-6 won-lost on the season.

BRODIE MAY FACE RAMS

New Kick In 49er Attack: Two 'Toes' Replace Davis

The unbeaten Los Angeles Rams, kingpins of the National Football League at the moment, face a San Francisco 49er team that is bound to look just a little on the strange side tomorrow at the Los Angeles Coliseum at 1 p.m.

The 49ers, mired in a 1-5-1 season, will probably start a new "old" quarterback, send in a left-footed Yugoslavian and a former Ram to do their kicking and will throw in big names on speciality squads in a serious, if frantic, effort to shake off the effects of a generally dismal season.

John Brodie, who had to step aside for Steve Spurrier in the quarterback slot for the past two weeks, is expected to get the starting call against the Rams, his "dead" arm apparently rejuvenated.

Meanwhile, kicker Tommy Davis, the 49ers' all-time scoring king, has been demoted to the taxi squad to make way for Yugoslav soccer player Momcilo Garvric and former Los Angeles Ram John Kilgore.

Kilgore, 25, is a veteran punter, while Gavric, 30, a refugee from the now defunct Oakland Clippers, will handle placekicking chores.

The 49ers also placed rookie back Eugene Moore on the "move" list to make room for the two kickers.

The specialty squads, a source of considerable failure and irritation in last weeks loss to Detroit, should be strengthened by the addition of such veterans as Charley Krueger, Bob Windsor, Stan Hindman, Woody Peoples and Elmer Collett of Mill Valley.

The Rams, with quarterback Roman Gabriel enjoying his best year are heavily favored to make the 49ers their eighth victim of the season, although Los Angeles had a rought time winning in Kezar Stadium earlier in the season, 27-21.

The game will be televised and can be seen locally on CBS channel 5, beginning at 1 p.m.

Seals Annihilated By New Yorkers, 8-1

OAKLAND (AP) — The New York Rangers had a chance to move into first place in the East Division of the National Hockey League—and it took them only 20 minutes to take advantage of it.

New York scored six times in the first period last night and blasted Oakland 8-1 in the only NHL game scheduled before 8,007 fans.

The Rangers' victory moved them a point ahead of Boston, Detroit and Montreal.

The Rangers have won four times in four starts against West Division clubs and faced the Los Angeles Kings in an afternoon game today at the Los Angeles Forum.

New York had 45 shots on goal to Oakland's 19 and used 17 of these in the first period when Juha Widing, Arnie Brown, Bill Fairbairn, Rod Gilbert, Dave Balon and Jean Ratelle scored against goalie Gary Smith.

The Rangers were leading 3-0 when Ted Hampson made Oakland's lone score at 8:33.

Ruptured Tendon Cripples Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Towering Wilt Chamberlain might be lost to the Los Angeles Lakers for the remainder of the National Basketball Association season, but the injury that decked him was no surprise to Laker Coach Joe Mullaney.

The 7-foot-2 Chamberlain, playing possibly his greatest game as a Laker last night, suddenly went down as his right knee gave way. It was diagnosed as a ruptured tendon high in the righ knee cap and will require surgery.

The Lakers eventually lost a 122-120 decision to Phoenix.

"When I came to Los Angeles," said first-year Laker Coach Mullaney, "I was told Chamberlain had a bad case of arthritis in his knees and constant pounding of the running up and down the court would shorten his career.

"That's why I kind of let Wilt set his own pace in practices."

LIKE BAYLOR

Chamberlain's injury was described by Dr. Robert Kerlan, famed orthopedic specialist, as "almost identical to the one suffered by Elgin Baylor some years ago."

Baylor missed part of the 1965-66 season with the injury but made a successful comeback the following season.

"When I ripped my knee," said Baylor, "I wasn't right for eight months." A team spokesman said "there's a definite possibility Wilt may not be back this season."

Before he left last night's game, however, Chamberlain made his presence felt.

He hit the first 10 shots in the first quarter and wound up the game with 33 points, two assists and 15 rebounds. He was 13-of-14 from the floor.

BALANCED ATTACK

But the steady outside shooting of former UCLA star Gail Goodrich paced a balanced Phoenix attack and Stan McKenzie of the Suns dropped in a seven-foot jump shot at the buzzer as the Suns took their first-ever victory from the Lakers after six defeats last year.

Goodrich scored 37 points to top all scorers.

Mullaney was asked after the game who would take Chamberlain's place. He didn't hesitate and his answer came with a smile:

"Rick Roberson. He reminds me of Wes Unseld of Baltimore. I have a lot of confidence in this kid. He is going to surprise a lot of people."

Roberson, a 6-foot-9, 230-pounder, was a first-round choice of the Lakers from Cincinnati. He has played in only three of the nine Laker games.

Warrior Victory Disputed

ATLANTA (AP)—The steamed up San Francisco Warriors arrived in Atlanta today to meet the Hawks after swamping Cincinnati Thursday night and following through with a 111-110 victory over Boston last night.

The winning basket against the Celtics came on a hotly-disputed field goal by Ron Williams.

Many of the hometown fans thought Williams fired his 20-foot jump shot after the 24-second clock had sounded. But referee John Parker ruled that Williams had beaten the clock.

TIME OUT

The goal put the Warriors ahead 109-107 with only 45 seconds to go. Baskets were then swapped by San Francisco's Jerry Lucas and Celtic John Havlicek before time ran out.

Earlier, the Warriors had come from behind. They trailed as much as 15 points in the first half but pulled to an 81-81 tie at the three-quarters mark.

Then tall Nate Thurmond scored 11 points to lead the Warrior surge in the final period.

Beware: Sleeping Giant

"The sleeping Giant is awake."

That's what Redwood High School football coach Bob Troppmann was saying this week as his Giants prepared to meet Terra Linda's favored Trojans in tonight's clash of Marin County Athletic League unbeatens at San Rafael High School, 8 o'clock.

The Giants quite surprisingly find themselves with a 4-0 league record and in a position to challenge Terra Linda, which has shared the MCAL crown for the past three seasons. To Troppmann, who has coached three MCAL champions in the past, this is incentive enough for the Giants. This is their chance to regain some of Redwood's past football prestige.

READY

"We're ready for this one," he said. "We had our pre-game dinner Thursday and showed films of former Redwood High School championship teams."

The Trojans have also been going to the movies, watching their own particular horror movie out of the past.

"The only movie we've seen is the one of last year's Redwood game," Terra Linda coach Don Lucas said. "We've looked at it quite a bit."

The game was Redwood's 25-10 win over Terra Linda in the last game of the season, marring the Trojans' bid for their first perfect season and first outright MCAL crown.

Weather may have an effect on the game. It's been drizzling for the past day or so and the field is expected to be muddy. Neither coach is claiming any special advantage.

BOTH SIDES

"It's muddy on both sides of the field," Troppmann said. "It's hard to predict what the weather will do to a game. Every time you try, it turns out wrong. But it has been known to be a great equalizer in the speed and passing department."

"It won't help if it's actually raining," Lucas said. "But it will help our receivers. They know where they're going and will be able to cut more effectively."

Redwood may have fiery linebacker Rick Puccinelli back for this if only as a presence.

DEPENDS

"It depends on the doctor's okay," Troppmann said. "He may suit up, and possibly get in

By GARY TISCHLER

In running conditions fit for a duck on a weight program, San Rafael High School's football team cut the contending field in the Marin County Athletic League football championship race down to two by holding back San Marin, 17-14, last night before some 1,500 fans at San Rafael High School.

The loss eliminated the Mustangs from the race, leaving only Redwood and Terra Linda, who clash tonight at San Rafael High, in contention.

Mike Howard's 25-yard field goal early in the game provided the eventual margin of victory in a see-saw game, one of the most thrilling league games of the season in a year that has not seen too many close games.

The Bulldogs jumped in front early on Howard's boot but trailed 7-3 at the half after scrappy San Marin quarterback Ken Gnoss scored for the Mustangs on a bouncing 10-yard burst.

Lightning buried the Mustangs in the third quarter as the Bulldogs struck twice, and quickly.

On the first play of the second half, 145-pound Lowell Widmer really made his rollout option work as he ripped loose for a 55-yard run to the 10-yard line, where he stumbled and fell. Two plays later, Widmer scored from the seven yard line.

The other San Rafael touchdown, and the deciding one, came when Gnoss was chased and nailed trying to run from his own 14-yard line where he fumbled. George DeSalvo pounced on the loose ball in the end zone and that was it.

San Marin had not called it quits, yet. The Mustangs regrouped after recovering a San Rafael fumble on the Bulldog 33-yard line. Gnoss, tenacious

Wilt May Be Out For Year With Knee Injury

JACK HANLEY

Warrior Fritz Williams Had Two-Sport Choice

Fritz Williams, No. 1 pick of the Warriors in last year's pro basketball draft, was offered a three-year pro football contract by the Dallas Cowboys even though he never played football at West Virginia.

"Yes, that's right," said Williams. "The Cowboys wanted me as a defensive halfback. I worked out with them and did real well. The drills were more or less the same as basketball drills. Coach Tom Landry said I had a good chance to make the squad."

However, Williams decided to sign with the Warriors who now are grooming him as their play-making quarterback. Williams moved in as a regular guard, alongside Jeff Mullins, when the Warriors sent Jimmy King to Cincinnati in the Jerry Lucas deal.

An Excellent Ball Handler

Williams, 6-3, 190, is an excellent ball handler and fine passer. He is effective on a drive or from the outside with a variety of shots, ranking third among Warriors in field goal accuracy (42 per cent). His best scoring night as a rookie last season came in a game against Seattle when he hit for 26 points.

As Weirton High School, Williams played both basketball and football. He was split end and defensive back of the football team which won two West Virginia state championships. In his junior year he quarterbacked the basketball team to a state championship.

At West Virginia, alma mater of such great guards as Jerry West, Hot Rod Hundley and Rod Thorn, Williams bypassed football to concentrate on basketball. Nevertheless, Dallas picked him No. 12 in last year's pro football draft.

A Normal Move For Schramm

Dallas' action didn't surprise anyone who knows Tex Schramm, president and general manager of the Cowboys. In 1962 Schramm signed Cornell Green as a free agent. Green had played football only as a high school senior in Richmond, Calif. Green skipped college football, like Williams, to concentrate on basketball when he went to Utah State where he became an All-American basketball selection in his sophomore year.

Schramm was convinced that Green's quickness on the court would make him a great cornerback on the football field. When he signed with the Cowboys, Green was 6-3, 190, precisely Williams' measurements when the Cowboys tried to sign him.

Now in his eighth year as a football pro, Green is one of the top defensive men in the National Football League. He has been All-Pro for three years, a Pro Bowl pick four years. Going into this season, Green's career interceptions totaled 25.

Nolan Praises Green

Dick Nolan, 49er coach who used to be Landry's chief assistant at Dallas, says Green is as good as anybody in stripping a receiver on turn-ins. "He discourages some from running it altogether," says Nolan.

The secret of Green's success?

"I don't think basketball was any hindrance," he says. "Basketball may have helped my quickness."

Of that Schramm never had a doubt. And as for his precedent of signing a basketball player to a football contract, Schramm has this to say:

"The real worth of your scouting system shows in the judgment you exercise in late round draft selections and in the free agents you sign. Anybody can find the best 30 or 40 college football players in the country by going to a newsstand and buying a magazine."

Marin's Makela Wins Conference

Don Makela, College of Marin's premier runner, added the Camino Norte Conference cross country championship to his string of individual victories yesterday in the conference meet at West Valley College in Campbell, Santa Clara County.

The 5-foot-7, 138-pound mighty mite, who has been beaten only once all season, led runners from six schools across the four-mile course in 22 minutes, 9 seconds.

DeAnza College of Cupertino won the team championship with 29 points, followed in order by Santa Rosa 50, Marin 80, West Valley 89, Contra Costa (San Pablo) 131 and Solano (Vallejo), no score.

Helping Makela lead Marin to a third place finish were Rick Taldo who placed 14th, Pat Bowen 17th, Mark Miller 22nd, Dave Stancliffe 26th, Seamus O'Reilly 28th and Bob Bode 32nd.

Nicklaus Not Quite Satisfied

HONOLULU (AP) — Jack Nicklaus held a four-stroke lead today after the third round of the $125,000 Hawaiian Open golf tournament, was a prohibitive favorite to annex his third consecutive title—and was far from satisfied.

"If you'd asked me before I started the round if I would be satisfied with 71, I would have said yes," Nicklaus said yesterday after scrambling in with a one-under-par round.

"But after the way I played the front nine, I can't say I'm satisfied. I got pretty sloppy on the back nine."

Nicklaus, who now has played 15 consecutive subpar rounds and has led or shared the lead in the last seven competitive rounds, had a 36 hole total of 134, 10 under par after two trips over the 7,020 yard, par 72 Waialae Country Club course.

Well back in second were Tom Weiskopf and Ken Still, tied at 138. Weiskopf had a second round 68 and Still a 71. Two more strokes back at 140 were Herb Hooper, John Schroeder and Jack McGowan.

In the group at 141 were Bob Murphy, who had the best round of the day, a 67, Billy Casper, 68, and Arnold Palmer, 71.

BALKY PUTTER

"That's the most frustrating round I've ever played," said Palmer, who missed at least five putts three feet or shorter.

Masters champion George Archer had a 71 for 142 and defending champion Lee Trevino a 72 for 146.

Two major title-holders failed to make the cut for the final two rounds. It took a score of 148 to make it and PGA champ Ray Floyd had a 149 and U.S. Open title-holder Orville Moody had a fat 154.

The blustery Trade Winds, with gusts nearly 50 miles an hour, played havoc with the scores and was the reason Nicklaus said he originally would have been satisfied with a 71.

Balboa High Overpowers Tam, 27-6

Tamalpais High School's young football team played powerful and versatile Balboa of the San Francisco Triple A League on even terms for a half before succumbing to the inevitable and losing a 27-6 non-league encounter in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium last night before some 1,000 fans.

The Indians of Mill Valley, behind the running of Clifford Hall and Billy Washington, actually led in the first quarter, 6-0, with Mark Costello scoring on a one-yard plunge to cap a drive that consumed most of the first period.

Tamalpais is now 2-6 won-lost on the season.

BRODIE MAY FACE RAMS

New Kick In 49er Attack: Two 'Toes' Replace Davis

The unbeaten Los Angeles Rams, kingpins of the National Football League at the moment, face a San Francisco 49er team that is bound to look just a little on the strange side tomorrow at the Los Angeles Coliseum at 1 p.m.

The 49ers, mired in a 1-5-1 season, will probably start a new "old" quarterback, send in a left-footed Yugoslavian and a former Ram to do their kicking and will throw in big names on speciality squads in a serious, if frantic, effort to shake off the effects of a generally dismal season.

John Brodie, who had to step aside for Steve Spurrier in the quarterback slot for the past two weeks, is expected to get the starting call against the Rams, his "dead" arm apparently rejuvenated.

Meanwhile, kicker Tommy Davis, the 49ers' all-time scoring king, has been demoted to the taxi squad to make way for Yugoslav soccer player Momcilo Garvric and former Los Angeles Ram John Kilgore.

Kilgore, 25, is a veteran punter, while Gavric, 30, a refugee from the now defunct Oakland Clippers, will handle place-kicking chores.

The 49ers also placed rookie back Eugene Moore on the "move" list to make room for the two kickers.

The specialty squads, a source of considerable failure and irritation in last weeks loss to Detroit, should be strengthened by the addition of such veterans as Charley Krueger, Bob Windsor, Stan Hindman, Woody Peoples and Elmer Collett of Mill Valley.

The Rams, with quarterback Roman Gabriel enjoying his best year are heavily favored to make the 49ers their eighth victim of the season, although Los Angeles had a rought time winning in Kezar Stadium earlier in the season, 27-21.

The game will be televised and can be seen locally on CBS channel 5, beginning at 1 p.m.

Seals Annihilated By New Yorkers, 8-1

OAKLAND (AP) — The New York Rangers had a chance to move into first place in the East Division of the National Hockey League—and it took them only 20 minutes to take advantage of it.

New York scored six times in the first period last night and blasted Oakland 8-1 in the only NHL game scheduled before 8,007 fans.

The Rangers' victory moved them a point ahead of Boston, Detroit and Montreal.

The Rangers have won four times in four starts against West Division clubs and faced the Los Angeles Kings in an afternoon game today at the Los Angeles Forum.

New York had 45 shots on goal to Oakland's 19 and used 17 of these in the first period when Juha Widing, Arnie Brown, Bili Fairbairn, Rod Gilbert, Dave Balon and Jean Ratelle scored against goalie Gary Smith.

The Rangers were leading 3-0 when Ted Hampson made Oakland's lone score at 8:33.

Ruptured Tendon Cripples Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Towering Wilt Chamberlain might be lost to the Los Angeles Lakers for the remainder of the National Basketball Association season, but the injury that decked him was no surprise to Laker Coach Joe Mullaney.

The 7-foot-2 Chamberlain, playing possibly his greatest game as a Laker last night, suddenly went down as his right knee gave way. It was diagnosed as a ruptured tendon high in the righ knee cap and will require surgery.

The Lakers eventually lost a 122-120 decision to Phoenix.

"When I came to Los Angeles," said first-year Laker Coach Mullaney, "I was told Chamberlain had a bad case of arthritis in his knees and constant pounding of the running up and down the court would shorten his career.

"That's why I kind of let Wilt set his own pace in practices."

LIKE BAYLOR

Chamberlain's injury was described by Dr. Robert Kerlan, famed orthopedic specialist, as "almost identical to the one suffered by Elgin Baylor some years ago."

Baylor missed part of the 1965-66 season with the injury but made a successful comeback the following season.

"When I ripped my knee," said Baylor, "I wasn't right for eight months." A team spokesman said "there's a definite possibility Wilt may not be back this season."

Before he left last night's game, however, Chamberlain made his presence felt.

He hit the first 10 shots in the first quarter and wound up the game with 33 points, two assists and 15 rebounds. He was 13-of-14 from the floor.

BALANCED ATTACK

But the steady outside shooting of former UCLA star Gail Goodrich paced a balanced Phoenix attack and Stan McKenzie of the Suns dropped in a seven-foot jump shot at the buzzer as the Suns took their first-ever victory from the Lakers after six defeats last year.

Goodrich scored 37 points to top all scorers.

Mullaney was asked after the game who would take Chamberlain's place. He didn't hesitate and his answer came with a smile:

"Rick Roberson. He reminds me of Wes Unseld of Baltimore. I have a lot of confidence in this kid. He is going to surprise a lot of people."

Roberson, a 6-foot-9, 230-pounder, was a first-round choice of the Lakers from Cincinnati. He has played in only three of the nine Laker games.

Will The Flat Raiders Round Out Tomorrow?

OAKLAND—Apologists here are dismissing the Raiders' recent embarrassment in Cincinnati. The party line is gauged by reading the pro football version of Tass, a certain local sheet.

To begin with, the day after the loss to little Cincy, the blat went out of its way to note that the Raiders were only one of seven upset victims that day. The message was clear: God favored the underdogs on Nov. 2, 1969; the combination of Paul Brown and Him was simply too much for the greatest of all pro teams.

ON THE CHANCE a few atheistic readers didn't buy this reasoning, there were direct quotations as backup fodder:

"We were flat," — defensive back Willie Brown.

"The concentration wasn't there." — quarterback Daryle Lamonica.

"Lamonica was flat." — a sports editor.

"Now that we're in second place, people will be chasing us and maybe it will be easier," — Coach John Madden.

"CAN'T WIN 'em all" — Anon, said on an evening when Anon. was probably flat."

Under the dumb American Football League playoff system installed this year, the Raiders don't have to worry about winning them all. Their task now is to take four of the remaining six and clinch at least second place in the AFL West. That gets them in the playoffs and quite probably into the Super Bowl with an AFL title game win over Kansas City.

So much for the 1969 pro football season.

NOW ABOUT tomorrow's game here against Denver: Can the Raiders get unflat? Will the Broncos not be chasing them? Will the concentration be there, wherever there is?

One now starts to wonder how vulnerable the Raiders may be. Cincy — and especially Greg Cook, that fine rookie quarterback — proved that a scrambler can harass the Oakland defenses, and that the end runs (sweeps to you youngsters) can work.

Denver's Steve Tensi is not a particularly brilliant quarterback. He is no Greg Cook. But on Oct. 12 in the frozen mush at Denver, Tensi had his club within three points of the Raiders with only five minutes to play. Oakland won that 24-14 as Lamonica had a Greg Cook-like day, his best of the season up to that point with 19 completions, 253 yards and three touchdowns.

BUT UNLESS Oakland gets 15 inches of snow and 22-degree weather this weekend, comparisons with Oct. 12 are meaningless. The Broncs have been respectable since that loss. They handled Cincy, dropped a tight one to Houston and quite improbably blanked San Diego 13-0 last week. Denver is now 4-4, tied for third in the West and very possibly headed for their finest AFL season since 1962, when they closed at 7-7.

Their front four, led by ex-Raiders Dave Costa and Richard Jackson, was marvelous in the San Diego shutout. The defensive backfield wasn't bad either as the Chargers managed only 20 yards passing. Interestingly, San Diego quarterback John Hadl picked up more yardage rushing (23). And that was nearly half of the total Charger ground effort.

NOW SAN Diego might have been flat after its loss to Oakland the previous week. Or maybe Denver is maturing.

Lamonica seems to believe he's more than able to challenge this maturation. "I feel better each week," he said after being intercepted five times in Cincinnati. "I should be reaching a peak soon."

Daryle's offensive line has unquestionably peaked. They gave him hours of protection against the Bengals. They were concentrating. They weren't flat.

And neither, friends, was Paul Brown.

BULLDOGS

all night, sparked the drive with runs of nine and 15 yards and finally took it in from the one.

The Mustangs got the ball only once more with 23 seconds left, and made 38 yards in two plays, with Gnoss going the final 18 as time ran out on the San Rafael 30-yard line.

Both teams had their troubles on a field that was beginning to resemble a quagmire. San Marin had four passes intercepted, two by Bob Peterson, while the Bulldogs coughed up the ball three times on fumbles and failed to complete a pass.

"You have to hand it to them," San Rafael coach Bob Muster said of San Marin. "They never quit even when they got behind. I think we did a lot of things well. Widmer and Peterson and tackle Gary Bonner played an especially fine game. But I would guess we have to work on our passing game just a little more. And those fumbles didn't help us."

on kickoffs."

Puccinelli was out with bone calsification injuries.

One of the big duels on the line should be the one between Redwood's big (247 pounds) tackle Tom Wickert and Terra Linda's junior tackle Bruce Little, a mere 212 pounds.

"Wickert is probably one of the best tackles in the league, if not the best," Lucas said. "He's got speed and mobility for his size. But I don't think he'll overpower our guy. I think Bruce can hold his own."

TROJANS 'UP'

The Trojans will be "up" for this one.

"We'll probably be as high as we were for the Drake game, if not higher," Lucas said. "In fact, I think we were too high for that one. We made too many mistakes in the first quarter."

And the end result was a 43-8 win.

In a time change, the preliminary junior varsity game was moved up today from 5:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.

DON HUTSON became the first N.F.L. player to score 100 points in a season when Green Bay beat the Rams, 30-12. The Hall of Fame end caught three touchdown passes from Cecil Isbell.

Redwood Runners Favored

Now that the dust has settled on the dual-meet season, the Marin County Athletic League will get down to the business of proving the same point all over again in the MCAL cross-country meet at Lagunitas Lake Monday.

Not surprisingly, things are not expected to be too much different from the dual-meet season, which saw Redwood jog to the title with no difficulty. The Giants are 7-0 in league competition, a perfect 10-0 on the season, and nobody is expected to challenge that too seriously.

UP FOR GRABS

The individual race is something else again. It would appear to be up for grabs among any number of Redwood runners, especially long-haired Kevin Pusser, two Tamalpais standouts, Novato's mainstay and San Marin's top runner.

The favorite may not be Pusser at all, but Novato's Ron Elijah, who's set a course record on every MCAL course he's run on. He's beaten Pusser this season and is trying to follow in the literal footsteps of last year's champion, Don Makela, now a standout at College of Marin. Most recently, Elijah broke Makela's old Novato course record in a win over San Marin.

Pusser, however, will be right in there, along with his flock of talented teammates, most notably Lee Hotchkin, Tim Taylor and Jay Neuhaus.

CHALLENGE

Tamalpais, runnerup in the dual-meet standings, will offer a challenge with Vian Collier, the most consistent runner on the squad, and hot-and-cold Mike Arago. Chaka Chappell of San Marin is expected to be in the race for the individual honors.

The frosh-soph meet is expected to be another runaway, but not for Redwood. San Rafael swept through the season in unbeaten style, and is expected to repeat in the league meet.

Action starts at 3:30 p.m. with the junior varsity meet, followed by the varsity at 3:55 and the frosh-soph at 4:20.

Queens Tourney Finals Tomorrow

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Eight remaining finalists in the Marin County 600 Club's fourth annual Queens Tournament will go at it tomorrow evening at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael.

The four gals in the winners bracket are Lois Schwab, Dianne Wayda, Pat Weddell and Verena Helbing. The four in the losers bracket are Lu Sharp, Gayle Chu, Kathy Mauzy and Ann Baccei.

Tomorrow night's finals start at 7 p.m.

THIS AND THAT — Anne Baccei was a two-timer on the Country Club Bowl honor roll this week and Joan McGuiness was a double winner for Nave Lanes honors. . . . Bill Mix, 164 average roller in the Woodcutters League, not only had high series at Greenbrae Lanes, 659, he had high game, 254. . . . George Dray had high score in the Hawaiian League at Nave Lanes, 226, and Roberta Thorsen converted a 4-10 split. . . . In the Hi-Lo's at Country Club, Werner Schmidt's 246 and Mike Moore's 236 topped the scores, while Sandy Leto missed a 101 triplicate by just one pin. . . . Della Wallace picked up a 6-7-10 split in the Agents 1108 League at Country Club.

STRIKES TO SPARE — Pete Beal, 169 average, was star of the show in the Friday Nite Leftovers at Nave Lanes, rolling 243-604. . . . June Kelly of Hits and Mrs. League at Greenbrae Lanes converted a 6-7 leave. . . . Pat Meiswinkel picked up a 4-7-10 split and Karen Chiarenza missed a 129 triplicate by just four pins in the Winter Wonders League at Country Club Bowl. . . . Perry Butts went down the stairs, not up, posting 139-138-137 in the Novato Sportsmen's League at Nave Lanes. . . . Linda Reason, who rolled her first 200 game last week, came back with another one this week (204) and ended up with a 581 series in the Bowlerettes League at Country Club.

FALLING PINS — Shirley Paradise (134 avg.) made it over the 200 mark for the first time, rolling a 203 in the San Quentin Mixed Fours at Country Club, and Lee Baker (150 avg.) had high score of 237, some 87 pins better than his norm. . . . In the Northern California Merchants League at Greenbrae Lanes, Carl Christopher rolled an all-spare 180 game and Jim Kelley missed a 147 triplicate by just one pin. . . . Ann Keller (138 avg.) rolled a 504 series in the Lane Lassies at Country Club. . . . In junior action at Country Club, Jon Dorsey, 15, was a double star, his 213 taking high game honors in the Saturday Juniors and his 219 leading the way in the North Bay Junior Travel.

Late Sonoma Rally Ties Rancho Cotate

Sonoma High School scored two touchdowns in the final quarter here last night to tie the Rancho Cotate Cougars of Rohnert Park 22-22 in a North Bay League Section II contest.

The last-quarter Dragon rally disappointed a Cougar homecoming crowd of about 900 persons who thought Rancho Cotate had put the game away late in the third quarter when they moved out in front 22-8.

It was a battle of defensive backfields as Rancho Cotate intercepted five passes from Sonoma quarterbacks Keith Poehlman and Cy Binh and the Dragon secondary picked off three of Rancho signal-caller Steve Wlodarczyk's aerials.

The Rancho Cotate offense took on a new look in the game as Stephens, the Cougars' leading scorer and, up to now, their leading rusher, was used primarily as a pass receiver. He hauled in only one of the passes thrown his way (that for a 62-yard touchdown) but was Wlodarczyk's primary target all night.

Rancho Cotate now has a 1-3-1 league mark. Sonoma is 1-2-2 on the season.

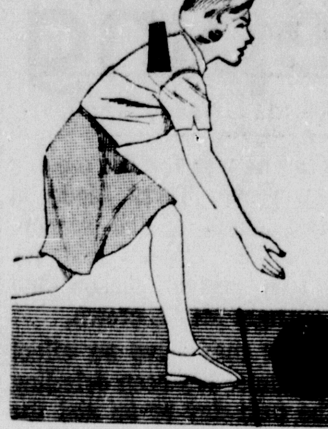
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



To roll the ball along your chosen path, you should be facing the pins at the release. I mean directly facing the pins, your shoulders parallel to the foul line and approximately level (see illustration). Any variance from this will throw the ball's path off-line.

San Rafael Cadets Bow

San Rafael Military Academy Cadets are still looking for their first football win after losing their second Bay Counties League game yesterday, 28-6, to Emery Hight School of Emeryville at San Rafael Military Academy before some 300 fans.

End Ken Goebel scored the Cadets' lone touchdown in the final period on a six-yard pass from quarterback Tom Kewell. Kewell completed 9 of 26 passes for 94 yards but the Cadets were again stopped on the ground, where they could muster only a minus six total.

Petaluma Smeared In Ukiah Mudbowl

Their passing game buried beneath a foot of Ukiah mud, Petaluma High School fell 8-0 to Ukiah last night in a North Bay League Section 11 football contest.

Some 500 fans, sitting through intermittent downpours, watched Ukiah drive 47 yards to a third-quarter touchdown in the mudbowl that was Municipal Stadium.

UKIAH DRIVE

Fullback Jim Strong highlighted the Ukiah scoring drive, gaining much of the yardage up the middle. He bulled it in from the three for the score.

Petaluma was barely able to move the ball on offense as quarterback Fred Klemenok, the league's leading passer, didn't complete any of the three passes he attempted.

The Trojan offense consisted of backs Steve Hing and Dan Williams, who carried the ball 27 times between them, and Klemenok, who carried eight times on keepers.

Petaluma's deepest penetration was to the Ukiah 10 early in the game, but the Trojans lost the ball on a fumble and were never able to put together another good drive.

In the junior varsity game, Petaluma's Danny Cader kicked the extra point after the Trobabe's touchdown as they won their second league game, 7-6.

Will The Flat Raiders Round Out Tomorrow?

OAKLAND—Apologists here are dismissing the Raiders' recent embarrassment in Cincinnati. The party line is gauged by reading the pro football version of Tass, a certain local sheet.

To begin with, the day after the loss to little Cincy, the blat went out of its way to note that the Raiders were only one of seven upset victims that day. The message was clear: God favored the underdogs on Nov. 2, 1969; the combination of Paul Brown and Him was simply too much for the greatest of all pro teams.

ON THE CHANCE a few atheistic readers didn't buy this reasoning, there were direct quotations as backup fodder:

"We were flat," — defensive back Willie Brown.

"The concentration wasn't there." — quarterback Daryle Lamonica.

"Lamonica was flat." — a sports editor.

"Now that we're in second place, people will be chasing us and maybe it will be easier," — Coach John Madden.

"CAN'T WIN 'em all" — Anon, said on an evening when Anon. was probably flat."

Under the dumb American Football League playoff system installed this year, the Raiders don't have to worry about winning them all. Their task now is to take four of the remaining six and clinch at least second place in the AFL West. That gets them in the playoffs and quite probably into the Super Bowl with an AFL title game win over Kansas City.

So much for the 1969 pro football season.

NOW ABOUT tomorrow's game here against Denver: Can the Raiders get unflat? Will the Broncos not be chasing them? Will the concentration be there, wherever there is?

One now starts to wonder how vulnerable the Raiders may be. Cincy — and especially Greg Cook, that fine rookie quarterback — proved that a scrambler can harass the Oakland defenses, and that the end runs (sweeps to you youngsters) can work.

Denver's Steve Tensi is not a particularly brilliant quarterback. He is no Greg Cook. But on Oct. 12 in the frozen mush at Denver, Tensi had his club within three points of the Raiders with only five minutes to play. Oakland won that 24-14 as Lamonica had a Greg Cook-like day, his best of the season up to that point with 19 completions, 253 yards and three touchdowns.

BUT UNLESS Oakland gets 15 inches of snow and 22-degree weather this weekend, comparisons with Oct. 12 are meaningless. The Broncs have been respectable since that loss. They handled Cincy, dropped a tight one to Houston and quite improbably blanked San Diego 13-0 last week. Denver is now 4-4, tied for third in the West and very possibly headed for their finest AFL season since 1962, when they closed at 7-7.

Their front four, led by ex-Raiders Dave Costa and Richard Jackson, was marvelous in the San Diego shutout. The defensive backfield wasn't bad either as the Chargers managed only 20 yards passing. Interestingly, San Diego quarterback John Hadl picked up more yardage rushing (23). And that was nearly half of the total Charger ground effort.

NOW SAN Diego might have been flat after its loss to Oakland the previous week. Or maybe Denver is maturing.

Lamonica seems to believe he's more than able to challenge this maturation. "I feel better each week," he said after being intercepted five times in Cincinnati. "I should be reaching a peak soon."

Daryle's offensive line has unquestionably peaked. They gave him hours of protection against the Bengals. They were concentrating. They weren't flat.

And neither, friends, was Paul Brown.

BULLDOGS

all night, sparked the drive with runs of nine and 15 yards and finally took it in from the one.

The Mustangs got the ball only once more with 23 seconds left, and made 38 yards in two plays, with Gnoss going the final 18 as time ran out on the San Rafael 30-yard line.

Both teams had their troubles on a field that was beginning to resemble a quagmire. San Marin had four passes intercepted, two by Bob Peterson, while the Bulldogs coughed up the ball three times on fumbles and failed to complete a pass.

"You have to hand it to them," San Rafael coach Bob Muster said of San Marin. "They never quit even when they got behind. I think we did a lot of things well. Widmer and Peterson and tackle Gary Bonner played an especially fine game. But I would guess we have to work on our passing game just a little more. And those fumbles didn't help us."

TROJANS 'UP'

The Trojans will be "up" for this one.

"We'll probably be as high as we were for the Drake game, if not higher," Lucas said. "In fact, I think we were too high for that one. We made too many mistakes in the first quarter."

And the end result was a 43-8 win.

In a time change, the preliminary junior varsity game was moved up today from 5:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.

DON HUTSON BECAME THE FIRST N.F.L. PLAYER TO SCORE 100 POINTS IN A SEASON WHEN GREEN BAY BEAT THE RAMS, 30-12. THE HALL OF FAME END CAUGHT THREE TOUCHDOWN PASSES FROM CECIL ISBELL.

Redwood Runners Favored

Now that the dust has settled on the dual-meet season, the Marin County Athletic League will get down to the business of proving the same point all over again in the MCAL cross-country meet at Lagunitas Lake Monday.

Not surprisingly, things are not expected to be too much different from the dual-meet season, which saw Redwood jog to the title with no difficulty. The Giants are 7-0 in league competition, a perfect 10-0 on the season, and nobody is expected to challenge that too seriously.

UP FOR GRABS

The individual race is something else again. It would appear to be up for grabs among any number of Redwood runners, especially long-haired Kevin Pusser, two Tamalpais standouts, Novato's mainstay and San Marin's top runner.

The favorite may not be Pusser at all, but Novato's Ron Elijah, who's set a course record on every MCAL course he's run on. He's beaten Pusser this season and is trying to follow in the literal footsteps of last year's champion, Don Makela, now a standout at College of Marin. Most recently, Elijah broke Makela's old Novato course record in a win over San Marin.

Pusser, however, will be right in there, along with his flock of talented teammates, most notably Lee Hotchkin, Tim Taylor and Jay Neuhaus.

CHALLENGE

Tamalpais, runnerup in the dual-meet standings, will offer a challenge with Vian Collier, the most consistent runner on the squad, and hot-and-cold Mike Arago. Chaka Chappell of San Marin is expected to be in the race for the individual honors.

The frosh-soph meet is expected to be another runaway, but not for Redwood. San Rafael swept through the season in unbeaten style, and is expected to repeat in the league meet.

Action starts at 3:30 p.m. with the junior varsity meet, followed by the varsity at 3:55 and the frosh-soph at 4:20.

Late Sonoma Rally Ties Rancho Cotate

Sonoma High School scored two touchdowns in the final quarter here last night to tie the Rancho Cotate Cougars of Rohnert Park 22-22 in a North Bay League Section II contest.

The last-quarter Dragon rally disappointed a Cougar homecoming crowd of about 900 persons who thought Rancho Cotate had put the game away late in the third quarter when they moved out in front 22-8.

It was a battle of defensive backfields as Rancho Cotate intercepted five passes from Sonoma quarterbacks Keith Poehlman and Cy Binh and the Dragon secondary picked off three of Rancho signal-caller Steve Wlodarczyk's aerials.

The Rancho Cotate offense took on a new look in the game as Stephens, the Cougars' leading scorer and, up to now, their leading rusher, was used primarily as a pass receiver. He hauled in only one of the passes thrown his way (that for a 62-yard touchdown) but was Wlodarczyk's primary target all night.

Rancho Cotate now has a 1-3-1 league mark. Sonoma is 1-2-2 on the season.

BOWLING TIPS

To roll the ball along your chosen path, you should be facing the pins at the release. I mean directly facing the pins, your shoulders parallel to the foul line and approximately level (see illustration). Any variance from this will throw the ball's path off-line.

San Rafael Cadets Bow

San Rafael Military Academy Cadets are still looking for their first football win after losing their second Bay Counties League game yesterday, 28-6, to Emery High School of Emeryville at San Rafael Military Academy before some 300 fans.

End Ken Goebel scored the Cadets' lone touchdown in the final period on a six-yard pass from quarterback Tom Kewell. Kewell completed 9 of 26 passes for 94 yards but the Cadets were again stopped on the ground, where they could muster only a minus six total.

Petaluma Smeared In Ukiah Mudbowl

Their passing game buried beneath a foot of Ukiah mud, Petaluma High School fell 8-0 to Ukiah last night in a North Bay League Section 11 football contest.

Some 500 fans, sitting through intermittent downpours, watched Ukiah drive 47 yards to a third-quarter touchdown in the mudbowl that was Municipal Stadium.

UKIAH DRIVE

Fullback Jim Strong highlighted the Ukiah scoring drive, gaining much of the yardage up the middle. He bulled it in from the three for the score.

Petaluma was barely able to move the ball on offense as quarterback Fred Klemenok, the league's leading passer, didn't complete any of the three passes he attempted.

The Trojan offense consisted of backs Steve Hing and Dan Williams, who carried the ball 27 times between them, and Klemenok, who carried eight times on keepers.

Petaluma's deepest penetration was to the Ukiah 10 early in the game, but the Trojans lost the ball on a fumble and were never able to put together another good drive.

In the junior varsity game, Petaluma's Danny Cader kicked the extra point after the Trobabe's touchdown as they won their second league game, 7-6.

A Visit To Annapolis Turns Pages Of History

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Every literate American knows that the U.S. Naval Academy is located here.

Every literate "over-30" who has a long enough memory can recall learning in grade school geography class that Annapolis is the capitol of the state of Maryland.

Some anti-administration politicos may blame Annapolis for sending former Maryland Gov. Spiro Agnew over to Washington. This is unfair. Spiro Agnew really came from Baltimore.

Informed yachtsmen know Annapolis as the address of several well-known boat builders. Sailing buffs know it as home port for the colorful "skipjack" sailing craft which operated as oyster dredges on Chesapeake Bay for generations before giving way to diesel powered "stinkpots."

And that is about the sum of common knowledge of Annapolis.

TO VISIT ANNAPOLIS with no more than this common knowledge is to experience almost unbelievable surprise, especially if you are a dyed-in-wool history buff.

Unlike colonial Williamsburg in nearby Virginia, Annapolis is not a series of restorations and replicas.

Colonial Annapolis is in large part genuine and original.

Start with the State House, the capitol.

It is the oldest state capitol in continuous use in the nation. It was begun in 1772 to replace its two predecessor buildings on the same site, each destroyed by fire.

It is crowned by an architecturally remarkable wooden dome, built entirely without nails.

Step inside and its musty walls exude history. It once served as the capital of the U.S.

At the conclusion of the American Revolution, George Washington made his way to this building. The Continental Congress was in session; Washington formally resigned his commission as commander-in-chief of the continental armies.

Three weeks later, the Continental Congress right here in this building ratified the so-called Treaty of Paris which ended the colonies' war with England.

Two years later the Annapolis Convention was convened in this same building. It was the precursor of the Philadelphia Convention and U.S. Constitution.

ANNAPOLIS WAS ALREADY a century old when all this took place. Its founding traces to a group of Puritan families from Virginia who settled along the Severn River in 1649.

It has been the capitol of Maryland since 1694. It's city charter dates from 1708.

In 1774 Annapolis was the site of a "tea party" protest far less than Boston's but just as colorful.

In Annapolis a band of militant demonstrators rode into town and forced the owner of the brig Peggy Stewart to put the torch to his vessel, which had just arrived with a cargo of taxed tea.

The town's waterfront remains today very much as it was in the 18th Century, the only port on the Atlantic coast to retain its original appearance from then until now.

COLONIAL ANNAPOLIS is compact. Streets are narrow. The only way to see it is to walk.

Here is a house constructed by Samuel Chase in 1769. Five years later, he signed the Declaration of Independence.

There is the Old Treasury Building, Maryland's oldest public building, erected in 1735 to house the fiscal offices of the colony.

Here is St. Anne's Church. The communion silver in use here was the gift of King William III to the congregation in 1695.

Over there is St. John's College, founded in 1696. Among its early board members were three signers of the Declaration of Independence — Chase, Thomas Stone and Charles Carroll "of Carrollton," the only signer to put his address as well as his signature on the defiant document.

Maryland's only other signer also came from Annapolis, William Paca.

Francis Scott Key, who was to become the author of our National Anthem, was graduated from St. John's. In fact, he founded its alumni association.

Over here is the site of "Drummer's Lot" where the town crier summoned the populace with a roll of the drums to hear official proclamations.

Across the street is city hall. A ball was held to honor George Washington in that building on the night before he presented his resignation as commander-in-chief, later, Lafayette was honored there.

It's a pleasant stroll along tree-lined streets to the house where Charles Carroll was born. The house was built by his father.

Check the street signs. Prince George Street runs to the waterfront as does Duke of Gloucester Street. You also encounter King George and Hannover streets among others with English-flavored names.

ANNAPOLIS IS NOT WITHOUT its problems today. Its growth has threatened the very survival of its old colonial section.

Almost in the nick of time state and local laws and ordinances seem to have come to the rescue.

You will not have to hurry to get here before it disappears. It will be there pretty much the same for a long time to come.

How do you get here?

From Marin, just cross the bridge to Richmond and get on Highway 50. Follow it east. When you have gone through Washington, D.C., on the same Highway 50, you will be in Annapolis in another hour. Just take the freeway turn-off which says "central district."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Would Not Promote White Elephant

After having worked with a committee of businessmen and golf course people for over a year and one-half to study the feasibility of a municipally owned golf course for the city of San Rafael — I find it hard to believe I-J City Editor Bryce Anderson would accept the statements of one dissident citizen as fact and establish the latter gentleman as a "golf course expert." . . .

We, as local businessmen, were asked by former City Mgr. Dan Anderson to form a non-profit corporation to study the feasibility of this city-owned golf course because he felt we would look at the facts as businessmen. We have nothing to gain by the building of the golf course because all four of us belong to local private clubs. We have a place to play golf. If this course is to be built — none of us could in any way be accused of a conflict of interest because none of us would have any financial interest of any kind.

Our committee would certainly not recommend that the city build a "white elephant" if there is any chance that it would become one.

The city council at its Oct. 20 meeting merely authorized the city manager and the non-profit corporation to proceed with further study as to the cost of said golf course. They did not commit the city to anything until they receive a definite cost figure from our committee. Then they will decide.

Our committee will form our own opinion as to whether or not to proceed with the golf course only after a firm agreement is reached with owners of the proposed site and firm cost bids are received for the construction. Then and only then will we be able to advise the city council on how to proceed.

We have not accepted in entirety the findings of either the Sherman report or the EBS management group. However; we have accepted their opinion and agree with that opinion — that a city owned and operated golf course would be a tremendous recreational asset to our growing city . . .

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

Doctors have it all wrong. Killer No. 1 is not man's mortal enemy, heart disease. It's really mind disease. Because mental health has a way of affecting our total health and well being.

Boredom, for instance, literally kills a person by stripping him of his initiative and the will to live as a creative person. Excessive anxiety and undue worry can bring a man to the brink of war — a war with himself that his dire consequences of leaving its marks in ulcers, high blood pressure, heart trouble and other ailments.

Perhaps Dr. Carl Jung was not so wildly exaggerating when he asserted that among the many hundreds of patients he treated, 25 years of age and over, "there hasn't been one whose problem in the last resort was not that of finding a religious outlook in life."

Mental attunement to the human "machinery" is what a car tune-up is to a motor. A few corroded spark-plugs can disable all of a car's combustible power.

HOW DO WE obtain the necessary mental tune-up?

By dialogue. Therapeutic faith provides for this dialeague that one must always maintain with himself, if he is to find himself in proper mental balance and spirit. Prophetic religion tells man: Tune in on the spirit within you so that you remain tuned up to the maximum performance of your capabilities as a creative human being.

There is the constant need in life to adjust to change outside yourself and inside of you. You are not today what you were yesterday and you must ready yourself to be tomorrow what you aren't today. Perhaps the greatest resentment we have to change is the change that occurs within us. But we must be realistic. It's no shame to admit that we have challenges and imperfections, waning powers and frailties to cope with, the major one of which is coping with ourselves in terms of an identity and personal destiny.

If we can maintain a healthy dialogue with ourselves on a steady day-to-day basis, we can avoid a credibility gap creeping into our lives.

There is the credibility gap in the gulf that separates promise from performance, intent from deed, what we expect of ourselves from what we are realistically capable of doing.

"YOU MUST ADJUST," is a truism which we learn from our childhood and throughout life. Adjust to the world, we are constantly reminded. But there is another truism which lies at the heart of mental health telling us to adjust the world to us as well: to shape it in the image of our dreams, to set standards of excellence (as far as we are individually capable) and personal experience. Don't be a joiner for the sake of status and class symbol. Be yourself, with yourself, for yourself, if you're to be any good with others and for others. If you know not how to love yourself, how can you possibly love your neighbor?

Adjustment is a two-way avenue for the individual: If he adjusts totally to his society he is merely a human robot. If he demands the world to adjust totally to him, he is either a genius or insane. Most people are neither. They therefore must find the middle road in adjustment. They must constantly adjust to the outside world; but at the same time adjust the outside world to their inward humanity. Because they are individuals with private worlds of dreams and visions and legitimate personal yearnings.

Fear Of Humiliation Used To Buoy Unpopular Policy

WASHINGTON — The warning neon light in the President's Vietnam speech is national "humiliation." Clearly implied were the disastrous consequences in a divided America of a retreat-and-run pull-out from the war.

The President has every reason to know what these consequences can be, for he rose to political power in the era when "Aho lost China?" was a rallying cry for the right. Suspicion, fear, reckless charges were the hallmarks of that era as a hopeless policy ended with the corrupt and hopeless regime of Chiang Kai-shek on the mainland.

The American commitment to Vietnam is in many ways deeper than the commitment to China. No Americans died in combat to "save China" in the critical period after the end of World War II. The toll in Vietnam approaches 42,000 American dead and 250,000 wounded.

EVERY INDICATOR shows that a large majority of the American people want to get out of Vietnam as quickly as possible. But with the specter of "national humiliation," the threat of a blood bath with the Catholic refugees from the north as the conspicuous victims, the tensions are likely to grow. They are already taking hold and they can be exploited as they were in the McCarthyist era of the late '40s and early '50s.

The National Guard is preparing a demonstration of patriotism as a response to the second Vietnam moratorium organized for Nov. 13 — 15. This is to be a peaceful protest with a display of the flag and other outward signs of loyalty. It is the first time the guard has ever organized such a demonstration on a nationwide scale.

The November moratorium may go off as peacefully and as successfully as did the October show. But the fact can never be ignored that a very small minority of extremists believe in disruption and violence. They want to bring the system down and nothing would serve their purpose better than street fighting between right and left.

AT THIS JUNCTURE no one would suggest the remotest analogy. But that was the pattern in Germany in the aftermath of defeat — a national humiliation — in the first World War. This must be a sobering thought for the ardent and, for the most part, deeply sincere protesters organizing the second anti-war demonstration.

Since all the evidence points to the contrary with respect to the October demonstration — the subsequent rise of Mr. Nixon's rating in the polls on the issue of his Vietnam policy — they must also ask what they can hope to achieve.

The various anti-war committees are planning a march on Washington on the last day of the moratorium. They put the figure as high as 200,000 coming from all over the country. While this may be part of the euphoria of the young leaders of the anti-war movement, the number will be large as universities and colleges arrange for charter buses and planes to come to the capital. One phase of the program is a "march against death," a continuous, 40-hour, single-file procession from Arlington National Cemetery to the Capitol.

SO STAUNCH an anti-war figure as Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has expressed grave concern over this outpouring. He suggests that it could easily get out of hand and end in bad trouble and mass arrests. If that happens there should be no doubt about the reaction of President Nixon's constituency, the great middle mass of Americans.

As for the President, he surely sees, as he suggested in his speech, the potential threat of the divisiveness of the McCarthyist era when he so actively supported the China lobby. That lobby was in no small part responsible for the paralysis of American policy and the hounding out of office of the men who really understood the peril in blank-check backing for Chiang.

The question unanswered in the speech is whether continued and seemingly uncritical backing of the government in Saigon of President Nguyen Van Thieu will bring peace and stability to Vietnam. Mr. Nixon may argue that he has no alternative. But that was the reasoning of those who backed Chiang Kai-shek until the day of disaster when he fled to Formosa.

Seeking The GSMFA Proves Disheartening—Also Dangerous

WASHINGTON — The strategy of the Nixon administration is now clear to everyone. It is to condemn the critics and appeal to the people who aren't saying anything. Monday evening President Nixon again asked support from the "great silent majority of fellow Americans," otherwide known as the GSMFA.

Is there a GSMFA, or is it a political figment of the administration's imagination? I decided to find out.

I chose a typical American street with typical American houses and typical American cars parked in the driveways.

I WENT UP to the first house and rang the bell.

"I beg your pardon," I said to the lady who answered the door. "I wish to speak to a member of the Great Silent Majority of Fellow Americans."

"You can't," she said brusquely.

"Why not?"

"He's asleep. He's always asleep. Comes home from work, eats his dinner and then flakes out immediately." She slammed the door.

I WENT TO the next house, knocked, and a child came to the door.

"May I speak to one of the Great Silent Majority of Fellow Americans, please?"

She pointed toward the living room.

A man, bald head, in his forties, drinking a can of beer, was seated in front of his television set watching replays of last Sunday's professional football games.

"Sir, I'm doing a survey of the vast, silent American majority President Nixon is appealing to. What did you think of the President's plan to get us out of Vietnam?"

The man belched.

"Do you agree with President Nixon," I asked, "that it is not us but Hanoi who refuses to make peace?"

THE MAN GRUNTED but refused to take his eyes off his TV set.

"Sir, don't you have any opinion on the efforts of the President to bring about peace with honor to the most troubled spot in all of Southeast Asia?"

A commercial came on and the man turned slowly to me. "Get the hell out of here."

I SKIPPED two houses and then rang the bell. A man came to the door and smiled.

"Sir, are you one of the great majority of silent Americans to whom President Nixon addressed his remarks last Monday?" I asked.

"Well," he said, "if you ask me." Suddenly his wife appeared at the door.

"Who is it? What does he want?" she asked.

"Fellow wants to talk to me about President Nixon's speech."

"Hah, that't the biggest joke of the year. When they start asking you what you think, then you know the country's in trouble," his wife shouted.

"But," the husband said, "I believe that . . "

"BOWLING!" his wife said to me. "Ask him about bowling. That's the only thing he knows anything about. The furnace is on the fritz, but that doesn't stop him from going out to bowl, while the rest of us catch preumonia. Mister, you got the wrong house."

I decided to try one more house. I rang the bell, and there was no answer. I rang again. Still no answer. Then I saw a man jump out the back window in his underwear and run down the alley. I chased him. "Sir, could I speak to you a moment?"

"Don't kill me," he begged. "She told me she wasn't married."

"It's about President Nixon and his selent majority."

"Believe," he said. "I'm not a guy who talks."

A Visit To Annapolis Turns Pages Of History

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Every literate American knows that the U.S. Naval Academy is located here.

Every literate "over-30" who has a long enough memory can recall learning in grade school geography class that Annapolis is the capitol of the state of Maryland.

Some anti-administration politicos may blame Annapolis for sending former Maryland Gov. Spiro Agnew over to Washington. This is unfair. Spiro Agnew really came from Baltimore.

Informed yachtsmen know Annapolis as the address of several well-known boat builders. Sailing buffs know it as home port for the colorful "skipjack" sailing craft which operated as oyster dredges on Chesapeake Bay for generations before giving way to diesel powered "stinkpots."

And that is about the sum of common knowledge of Annapolis.

TO VISIT ANNAPOLIS with no more than this common knowledge is to experience almost unbelievable surprise, especially if you are a dyed-in-wool history buff.

Unlike colonial Williamsburg in nearby Virginia, Annapolis is not a series of restorations and replicas.

Colonial Annapolis is in large part genuine and original.

Start with the State House, the capitol.

It is the oldest state capitol in continuous use in the nation. It was begun in 1772 to replace its two predecessor buildings on the same site, each destroyed by fire.

It is crowned by an architecturally remarkable wooden dome, built entirely without nails.

Step inside and its musty walls exude history. It once served as the capital of the U.S.

At the conclusion of the American Revolution, George Washington made his way to this building. The Continental Congress was in session; Washington formally resigned his commission as commander-in-chief of the continental armies.

Three weeks later, the Continental Congress right here in this building ratified the so-called Treaty of Paris which ended the colonies' war with England.

Two years later the Annapolis Convention was convened in this same building. It was the precursor of the Philadelphia Convention and U.S. Constitution.

ANNAPOLIS WAS ALREADY a century old when all this took place. Its founding traces to a group of Puritan families from Virginia who settled along the Severn River in 1649.

It has been the capitol of Maryland since 1694. It's city charter dates from 1708.

In 1774 Annapolis was the site of a "tea party" protest far less than Boston's but just as colorful.

In Annapolis a band of militant demonstrators rode into town and forced the owner of the brig Peggy Stewart to put the torch to his vessel, which had just arrived with a cargo of taxed tea.

The town's waterfront remains today very much as it was in the 18th Century, the only port on the Atlantic coast to retain its original appearance from then until now.

COLONIAL ANNAPOLIS is compact. Streets are narrow. The only way to see it is to walk.

Here is a house constructed by Samuel Chase in 1769. Five years later, he signed the Declaration of Independence.

There is the Old Treasury Building, Maryland's oldest public building, erected in 1735 to house the fiscal offices of the colony.

Here is St. Anne's Church. The communion silver in use here was the gift of King William III to the congregation in 1695.

Over there is St. John's College, founded in 1696. Among its early board members were three signers of the Declaration of Independence — Chase, Thomas Stone and Charles Carroll "of Carrollton," the only signer to put his address as well as his signature on the defiant document.

Maryland's only other signer also came from Annapolis, William Paca.

Francis Scott Key, who was to become the author of our National Anthem, was graduated from St. John's. In fact, he founded its alumni association.

Over here is the site of "Drummer's Lot" where the town crier summoned the populace with a roll of the drums to hear official proclamations.

Across the street is city hall. A ball was held to honor George Washington in that building on the night before he presented his resignation as commander-in-chief, later, Lafayette was honored there.

It's a pleasant stroll along tree-lined streets to the house where Charles Carroll was born. The house was built by his father.

Check the street signs. Prince George Street runs to the waterfront as does Duke of Gloucester Street. You also encounter King George and Hannover streets among others with English-flavored names.

ANNAPOLIS IS NOT WITHOUT its problems today. Its growth has threatened the very survival of its old colonial section.

Almost in the nick of time state and local laws and ordinances seem to have come to the rescue.

You will not have to hurry to get here before it disappears. It will be there pretty much the same for a long time to come.

How do you get here?

From Marin, just cross the bridge to Richmond and get on Highway 50. Follow it east. When you have gone through Washington, D.C., on the same Highway 50, you will be in Annapolis in another hour. Just take the freeway turn-off which says "central district."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Would Not Promote White Elephant

After having worked with a committee of businessmen and golf course people for over a year and one-half to study the feasibility of a municipally owned golf course for the city of San Rafael — I find it hard to believe I-J City Editor Bryce Anderson would accept the statements of one dissident citizen as fact and establish the latter gentleman as a "golf course expert." . . .

We, as local businessmen, were asked by former City Mgr. Dan Anderson to form a non-profit corporation to study the feasibility of this city-owned golf course because he felt we would look at the facts as businessmen. We have nothing to gain by the building of the golf course because all four of us belong to local private clubs. We have a place to play golf. If this course is to be built — none of us could in any way be accused of a conflict of interest because none of us would have any financial interest of any kind.

Our committee would certainly not recommend that the city build a "white elephant" if there is any chance that it would become one.

The city council at its Oct. 20 meeting merely authorized the city manager and the non-profit corporation to proceed with further study as to the cost of said golf course. They did not commit the city to anything until they receive a definite cost figure from our committee. Then they will decide.

Our committee will form our own opinion as to whether or not to proceed with the golf course only after a firm agreement is reached with owners of the proposed site and firm cost bids are received for the construction. Then and only then will we be able to advise the city council on how to proceed.

We have not accepted in entirety the findings of either the Sherman report or the EBS management group. However; we have accepted their opinion and agree with that opinion — that a city owned and operated golf course would be a tremendous recreational asset to our growing city . . .

Nixon Speech Clears Air For The Business World

By LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whatever else it did or didn't accomplish, President Richard M. Nixon's speech on Vietnam cleared the air for the business worlds.

The president made it plain there will be no early sudden end of the war and hence no dramatic change in the semi-wartime economic climate. And Senate and House conferees approved $20.7 billion of the $21.9 billion in defense outlays asked by the administration.

Consequently, business reaction to the Monday night speech was mild. The stock market fell a little the next morning but soon rallied and was about unchanged over the first four days of the week.

Most of the business news was rather on the optimistic side.

Milton Friedman, the University of Chicago economist who is reported to exercise considerable influence in Washington nowadays, told a symposium sponsored by New York's First National City Bank he believes the federal reserve system already might have started easing credit restrictions. Friedman has been contending that credit controls must be relaxed soon or the nation will get into a real recession.

However, the Fed kept its tight hold on credit this week.

Retail trade gained 4 to 8 per cent over the corresponding week a year ago according to Dun and Bradstreet.

However, the automobile industry discovered that so far it has made exactly no progress in winning back the share of the domestic market grabbed in recent years by foreign cars.

Consumer credit outstanding was disclosed to have risen $698 million in September, the sharpest rise since June.

Nixon Speech Clears Air For The Business World

By LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whatever else it did or didn't accomplish, President Richard M. Nixon's speech on Vietnam cleared the air for the business worlds.

The president made it plain there will be no early sudden end of the war and hence no dramatic change in the semi-wartime economic climate. And Senate and House conferees approved $20.7 billion of the $21.9 billion in defense outlays asked by the administration.

Consequently, business reaction to the Monday night speech was mild. The stock market fell a little the next morning but soon rallied and was about unchanged over the first four days of the week.

Most of the business news was rather on the optimistic side.

Milton Friedman, the University of Chicago economist who is reported to exercise considerable influence in Washington nowadays, told a symposium sponsored by New York's First National City Bank he believes the federal reserve system already might have started easing credit restrictions. Friedman has been contending that credit controls must be relaxed soon or the nation will get into a real recession.

However, the Fed kept its tight hold on credit this week.

Retail trade gained 4 to 8 per cent over the corresponding week a year ago according to Dun and Bradstreet.

However, the automobile industry discovered that so far it has made exactly no progress in winning back the share of the domestic market grabbed in recent years by foreign cars.

Consumer credit outstanding was disclosed to have risen $698 million in September, the sharpest rise since June.

SOLUTION TO PROBLEM

Christ-Centered School Opens

By PAT ANGLE

Last year, a small group of Marin County parents sat down to discuss a subject that had plagued and worried them for a long time: their children's education.

The parents, most of them members of the Valley Baptist Church in San Rafael, shared a common concern: the lack of Christian teaching and Bible study in the public schools.

As one father, John R. McCullough of Novato, a pathologist at the University of California Medical Center, put it: "My children spend more time in school than anywhere else; how can I successfully teach them Christian concepts at home, if these same concepts are going to be ignored or rejected at their schools?"

Like a band of inspired disciples, the parents decided talking and complaining were not enough; they would act. If the public schools were not teaching what they wanted their youngsters to learn, they would start a school of their own.

The result is the Valley Christian School of Marin which opened in September with 45 students from throughout the county.

Located in the Valley Baptist Church's Sunday School classrooms, at 3 North San Pedro Road, the school now teaches kindergarten through the sixth grade. Plans are afoot to add a class a year through senior high school.

An all-pervasive Christian atmosphere permeates the school. Pictures of Christ are displayed in every classroom. Each day begins and ends with prayer and includes one "chapel" period of prayers and Bible study.

Moral training, as set forth in the Bible, is an important part of the curriculum. "I have certain ethical standards which I want to pass on to my children," George D. Hardisty, a lawyer who lives in San Rafael and serves as chairman of the Valley School Board, said. "I want them to know that it is wrong to cheat, lie and steal, that God forbids us to commit adultery or fornication — and these are things the public schools simply do not teach.

"I want the training we give them at home re-enforced in their school. By not teaching these moral concepts, I feel the public schools are spawning a group of completely irresponsible, amoral young people, the kind who are rioting in the streets."

Patriotism is stressed at the school. Each morning the children salute the American flag and sing patriotic songs. In history, according to Hardisty, they are taught "the great things which have happened in this country, as well as the wonderful ideas of the men who founded this nation."

No matter what the class subject matter, Christ is not excluded. "We try to relate all of life, including literature, reading, composition, math, history and the like to the person and work of Jesus Christ," Richard K. Godshall, principal, explained.

"We want our children to be fit to take their place in the home, state and nation as God-glorifying citizens," he said.

Although the Baptist church is the school's chief sponsor, Godshall stressed the school is not attempting to transmit any particular church doctrine, but only to "lay a foundation of knowledge of the Bible."

Parents, whose children attend, are also enthusiastic about the academic training. "The children at our school aren't allowed to fool around; they have to work hard," said Mrs. Todd Bartlett of Novato who has two youngsters in the school. Mrs. Bartlett expressed delight that her son in kindergarten "is already learning to read."

Dr. Wendell C. Stevens of Larkspur, an anesthetist and instructor at UC Medical Center, said he is sending his children to the school "because I am extremely dissatisfied with the academic quality of public education."

Small classes at the school, about seven children in each class, "allow for individual instruction and contribute to a better education," Godshall said. The school's four teachers all have college degrees and are certified to teach in California. The principal has a bachelor of arts degree from San Jose State College.

Godshall, who indicated the school is chiefly supported by tuition (about $30 per month per child) and by subsidies from the church, said he expects it to grow rapidly.

"Right now we have room for 100 children and I expect we will be filled to capacity in the near future, as soon as the word gets around about our school and what we are doing."

A CHRISTIAN KIND OF SCHOOL — Enthusiastic hands raise as Richard K. Godshall, principal of the Valley Christian School in San Rafael, asks a questioin of his first and second grade students. Although Godshall said the school's goal is to "win children to Jesus Christ," he stressed the school intends to provide "a quality academic education." Independent-Journal photo by Alfred Arn)

Marriage, Family Life Talk Slated

Dr. Lloyd Ahlem, chairman of the Psychology department at Stanislaus State College in Turlock, will be the guest speaker tomorrow at the 9:30 a.m. worship service of the Marin Covenant Church. He will speak on "The Management of Marriage and Family Life."

Dr. Ahlem will follow the message with a 10:45 a.m. discussion period, a substitute for the regularly scheduled adult class.

The two events will conclude a three-day visit for Dr. Ahlem in this area. Last night he launched a weekend adults conference at the church on "Christian Marriage and Family Relations."

The Covenant Church meets in the Marinwood Community Center, Lucas Valley and Miller Creek roads.

Founder's Birth To Be Observed

The Baha'i Faith of Marin County will observe the 152nd anniversary of the birth of Baha'u'llah, prophet-founder, in services Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Henry Haake, 1334 Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

Elizabeth Gordon of Marinwood will present a slide program and talk on her recent teaching trip to Puerto Rico and Jamaica.

According to Ernest Jones, chairman of the Marin Baha'i community, theme of this year's observance is "Baha'u'llah—Divine Architect of Human Rights."

'Folk Mass' To Replace The Sermon

A "folk mass" will be held at tomorrow's 9:30 a.m. service at San Geronimo Valley Presbyterian Church with participation the key word of the service.

Rev. W. L. Frederickson, minister, said that while the service is contemporary in nature, it has a tradition of its own, having been presented a number of times in other Bay Area churches, including several in Marin.

Special music will be furnished by the adult and guitar choirs under direction of Robert Stommel. Mrs. Stommel will direct the children's and junior choirs.

The church is located at Sir Francisco Drake Boulevard and Nicasio Road in San Geronimo.

LUND, Sweden (UPI)—A fourth International Congress for Luther Research will be held in St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 22-27, 1971.

Novato Church Is Defining Mission

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints of Novato is currently defining its mission in Thursday evening discussions through Dec. 4.

Overall theme is "For What Purpose Assembled." The sessions are held at 7:30 p.m. each Thursday at the church, 375 Calle Arboleda.

DIALOGUE—Rev. Lyle Schaller, nationally known consultant on church life who is associated with the Evangelical Theological Seminary in Naperville, Ill., and Richard A. Clarke, church elder, will discuss "Dialogue on the Future of the Church," as feature of both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael. The exchange of ideas is another in a feature of the church's centennial activities.

KIND OF BIBLE

Superman Still Tied To Society

By BENNET BOLTON

NEW YORK (AP) — While religions worry about being relevant today to people's cares, an American folklore figure flitting about since 1938 keeps making it big—by his very irrelevancy.

Superman, ever waging his "never-ending battle for truth, justice and the American way," once had wartime chaplains convinced that the Man of Steel was becoming a substitute for religion.

"He was a code of ethics in four colors that you could roll up and stick in your pocket just before you hit the beachhead. He was right here with the troops as a kind of Bible."

RESTORED FAITH

So notes John M. Cadley, a current affairs writer, in a recent issue of the Catholic weekly magazine Ave Maria. He says the red-caped Kryptonian helped restore people's faith in their own power to triumph over "the evil that was everywhere around them" after he first appeared 31 years ago in the pages of "Action Comics."

As all heroes are, Superman was entrusted then with the values and qualities people considered most important. "To know that he could not be destroyed was a tremendously reassuring thing," Cadley states.

But this is 1969. Times have changed and people have become confused. The costumed characters of the comic books have not.

Although Cadley does not go into it, even the art of comparatives has shifted. Superman is faster than a speeding bullet, snail's pace compared to a laser beam. He is more powerful than a locomotive, a toy compared to a Saturn rocket. He is able to leap tall buildings in a single bound, meaningless compared to scampering in moon dust. Indestructible? Unrealistic in nuclear ICBM terms.

STILL POPULAR

Although total comic books sales have dropped from above 50 million a month, they still move at the rate of 30 million a month—Superman's alone account for 1.5 million of that—and their readers include college students and grownups.

What explains the great interest?

Cadley finds that we Americans still like Superman and are still interested in what happens to him, only the interest is a different kind now:

"Concern might almost be a better world, like a father's concern for the son who's just gotten out of college and is convinced he can change the world. We know he's got to change and yet we hope he doesn't."

Moving the analogy along to Superman, he says that "in him are preserved values and qualities that it would be oh so nice to have if only they worked, if only you could really live like that. But because Superman doesn't have to live in the real world he can live that way. We want him to."

"FALL FLAT"

Cadley is convinced that if Superman should ever start looking like Dustin Hoffman with a cape, the "S" on his massive chest would begin to mean "Supershnook," because comic book heroes "fall flat on their square-jawed faces" whenever they try to be revelant to the issues of the age.

For example, hoping to give Superman mental anguish, a gang of "unpratriotic creeps" in the latest adventure plan to destroy Mt. Rushmore and the Iwo Jima flag-raising statue and then trick Superman into thinking he did it.

"To give Superman a modern handup like a conscience syndrome is like getting Little Orphan Annie pregnant: it may be possible but somehow it just doesn't fit the image," concludes Cadley.

"Superman's appeal lies elsewhere, in his innocence, in his refusal to believe that anything has really changed since his day."

VIETNAM WAR

Prayers Are Asked Tomorrow For POWs

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's churches have been asked to offer special prayers tomorrow for the hundreds of U.S. servicemen who are prisoners in North Vietnam.

Despite repeated pleas, North Vietnam has refused to give out the names—or even the total number—of the American prisoners it is holding. Available information indicates there are between 200 and 400 of them. Only 100 have been allowed to write to their families.

Only nine have been allowed repatriation to America, and their accounts suggest that conditions in North Vietnamese prisons are very grim.

The idea of setting aside Nov. 9 as a day of prayer for their welfare originated with an organization called "the National League of Families of American Prisoners in Southeast Asia," composed of wives, mothers and other relatives of American POWs.

The project received an official boost from Rear Adm. James W. Kelly, chief of chaplains for the U.S. Navy. Kelly has asked all Navy chaplains to include a prayer for prisoners in next Sunday's worship services.

At the request of the sponsoring organization, Kelly also composed a special prayer, which may be used by civilian pastors as well as by military and naval chaplains. Here is the text of the prayer:

"Almighty Father, who suffers in the affliction of your children, we call upon you now from the depths of our anxiety and great concern for our countrymen and loved ones who have fallen into the hands of the nation's foes. In the face of the evils that these brave men endure and before the grim burdens they are forced to bear, give them courage and hope, and a never failing confidence in you.

"But most of all, O God, we ask that the day will soon come when we can all celebrate their release and safe return to their homes and kindred.

"Give to all of us who wait and hope in the face of every disappointment the will to persevere in the cause of peace and the wisdom to conquer hate with love and every doubt with a renewed faith in you. Amen."

CHURCHES IN MARIN WILL PARTICIPATE

Many Marin churches will observe tomorrow as a day of prayer and concern for prisoners of war or men missing in action in Southeast Asia, the wife of a prisoner of war has reported.

Julie Butler, whose husband, William Butler, has been a prisoner for two years, said the local observance is part of a national effort led by wives, families and friends of the missing men and backed by congressional resolutions.

Episcopal Bishop C. Kilmer Myers and Catholic Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken of San Francisco have asked pastors in their dioceses to cooperate and other churches are also planning to observe the day.

Lay Evangelist To Preach At Services

Dr. Derke Prince, Cambridge philosopher and lay evangelist, will preach at the 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow at Holy Innocents' Episcopal Parish in Corte Madera.

In the afternoon Dr. Prince will join Rev. Tod W. Ewald, rector, for the vesper service at San Quentin Prison.

Mass, Breakfast To Be Tomorrow

St. Anselm's Parish annual Holy Name Mass and breakfast will be held at 8 a.m. tomorrow.

Speaker at Mass and breakfast at the San Anselmo church will be Rev. John Giambastiani, S.J., of the Jesuit Retreat House in Los Altos. He will speak on "The Immense Mystery of Human Existence."

All men and high school-aged boys of the parish are invited to both events.

GI Retreat Slated In West Germany

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—The 13th Annual Assemblies of God servicemen's religious retreat will be held in Berchtesgaden, Germany, Nov. 3-7.

More than 400 servicemen and their dependents, representing various denominations, are expected to attend the retreat.

Christ-Centered School Opens

By PAT ANGLE

Last year, a small group of Marin County parents sat down to discuss a subject that had plagued and worried them for a long time: their children's education.

The parents, most of them members of the Valley Baptist Church in San Rafael, shared a common concern: the lack of Christian teaching and Bible study in the public schools.

As one father, John R. McCullough of Novato, a pathologist at the University of California Medical Center, put it: "My children spend more time in school than anywhere else; how can I successfully teach them Christian concepts at home, if these same concepts are going to be ignored or rejected at their schools?"

Like a band of inspired disciples, the parents decided talking and complaining were not enough; they would act. If the public schools were not teaching what they wanted their youngsters to learn, they would start a school of their own.

The result is the Valley Christian School of Marin which opened in September with 45 students from throughout the county.

Located in the Valley Baptist Church's Sunday School classrooms, at 3 North San Pedro Road, the school now teaches kindergarten through the sixth grade. Plans are afoot to add a class a year through senior high school.

An all-pervasive Christian atmosphere permeates the school. Pictures of Christ are displayed in every classroom. Each day begins and ends with prayer and includes one "chapel" period of prayers and Bible study.

Moral training, as set forth in the Bible, is an important part of the curriculum. "I have certain ethical standards which I want to pass on to my children," George D. Hardisty, a lawyer who lives in San Rafael and serves as chairman of the Valley School Board, said. "I want them to know that it is wrong to cheat, lie and steal, that God forbids us to commit adultery or fornication — and these are things the public schools simply do not teach.

"I want the training we give them at home re-enforced in their school. By not teaching these moral concepts, I feel the public schools are spawning a group of completely irresponsible, amoral young people, the kind who are rioting in the streets."

Patriotism is stressed at the school. Each morning the children salute the American flag and sing patriotic songs. In history, according to Hardisty, they are taught "the great things which have happened in this country, as well as the wonderful ideas of the men who founded this nation."

No matter what the class subject matter, Christ is not excluded. "We try to relate all of life, including literature, reading, composition, math, history and the like to the person and work of Jesus Christ," Richard K. Godshall, principal, explained.

"We want our children to be fit to take their place in the home, state and nation as God-glorifying citizens," he said.

Although the Baptist church is the school's chief sponsor, Godshall stressed the school is not attempting to transmit any particular church doctrine, but only to "lay a foundation of knowledge of the Bible."

Parents, whose children attend, are also enthusiastic about the academic training. "The children at our school aren't allowed to fool around; they have to work hard," said Mrs. Todd Bartlett of Novato who has two youngsters in the school. Mrs. Bartlett expressed delight that her son in kindergarten "is already learning to read."

Dr. Wendell C. Stevens of Larkspur, an anesthetist and instructor at UC Medical Center, said he is sending his children to the school "because I am extremely dissatisfied with the academic quality of public education."

Small classes at the school, about seven children in each class, "allow for individual instruction and contribute to a better education," Godshall said. The school's four teachers all have college degrees and are certified to teach in California. The principal has a bachelor of arts degree from San Jose State College.

Godshall, who indicated the school is chiefly supported by tuition (about $30 per month per child) and by subsidies from the church, said he expects it to grow rapidly.

"Right now we have room for 100 children and I expect we will be filled to capacity in the near future, as soon as the word gets around about our school and what we are doing."

A CHRISTIAN KIND OF SCHOOL — Enthusiastic hands raise as Richard K. Godshall, principal of the Valley Christian School in San Rafael, asks a questioin of his first and second grade students. Although Godshall said the school's goal is to "win children to Jesus Christ," he stressed the school intends to provide "a quality academic education." Independent-Journal photo by Alfred Arn)

Marriage, Family Life Talk Slated

Dr. Lloyd Ahlem, chairman of the Psychology department at Stanislaus State College in Turlock, will be the guest speaker tomorrow at the 9:30 a.m. worship service of the Marin Covenant Church. He will speak on "The Management of Marriage and Family Life."

Dr. Ahlem will follow the message with a 10:45 a.m. discussion period, a substitute for the regularly scheduled adult class.

The two events will conclude a three-day visit for Dr. Ahlem in this area. Last night he launched a weekend adults conference at the church on "Christian Marriage and Family Relations."

The Covenant Church meets in the Marinwood Community Center, Lucas Valley and Miller Creek roads.

Founder's Birth To Be Observed

The Baha'i Faith of Marin County will observe the 152nd anniversary of the birth of Baha'u'llah, prophet-founder, in services Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Henry Haake, 1334 Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

Elizabeth Gordon of Marinwood will present a slide program and talk on her recent teaching trip to Puerto Rico and Jamaica.

According to Ernest Jones, chairman of the Marin Baha'i community, theme of this year's observance is "Baha'u'llah—Divine Architect of Human Rights."

'Folk Mass' To Replace The Sermon

A "folk mass" will be held at tomorrow's 9:30 a.m. service at San Geronimo Valley Presbyterian Church with participation the key word of the service.

Rev. W. L. Frederickson, minister, said that while the service is contemporary in nature, it has a tradition of its own, having been presented a number of times in other Bay Area churches, including several in Marin.

Special music will be furnished by the adult and guitar choirs under direction of Robert Stommel. Mrs. Stommel will direct the children's and junior choirs.

The church is located at Sir Francisco Drake Boulevard and Nicasio Road in San Geronimo.

Novato Church Is Defining Mission

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints of Novato is currently defining its mission in Thursday evening discussions through Dec. 4.

Overall theme is "For What Purpose Assembled." The sessions are held at 7:30 p.m. each Thursday at the church, 375 Calle Arboleda.

DIALOGUE—Rev. Lyle Schaller, nationally known consultant on church life who is associated with the Evangelical Theological Seminary in Naperville, Ill., and Richard A. Clarke, church elder, will discuss "Dialogue on the Future of the Church," as feature of both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael. The exchange of ideas is another in a feature of the church's centennial activities.

KIND OF BIBLE

Superman Still Tied To Society

By BENNET BOLTON

NEW YORK (AP) — While religions worry about being relevant today to people's cares, an American folklore figure flitting about since 1938 keeps making it big—by his very irrelevancy.

Superman, ever waging his "never-ending battle for truth, justice and the American way," once had wartime chaplains convinced that the Man of Steel was becoming a substitute for religion.

"He was a code of ethics in four colors that you could roll up and stick in your pocket just before you hit the beachhead. He was right here with the troops as a kind of Bible."

RESTORED FAITH

So notes John M. Cadley, a current affairs writer, in a recent issue of the Catholic weekly magazine Ave Maria. He says the red-caped Kryptonian helped restore people's faith in their own power to triumph over "the evil that was everywhere around them" after he first appeared 31 years ago in the pages of "Action Comics."

As all heroes are, Superman was entrusted then with the values and qualities people considered most important. "To know that he could not be destroyed was a tremendously reassuring thing," Cadley states.

But this is 1969. Times have changed and people have become confused. The costumed characters of the comic books have not.

Although Cadley does not go into it, even the art of comparatives has shifted. Superman is faster than a speeding bullet, snail's pace compared to a laser beam. He is more powerful than a locomotive, a toy compared to a Saturn rocket. He is able to leap tall buildings in a single bound, meaningless compared to scampering in moon dust. Indestructible? Unrealistic in nuclear ICBM terms.

STILL POPULAR

Although total comic books sales have dropped from above 50 million a month, they still move at the rate of 30 million a month—Superman's alone account for 1.5 million of that—and their readers include college students and grownups.

What explains the great interest?

Cadley finds that we Americans still like Superman and are still interested in what happens to him, only the interest is a different kind now:

"Concern might almost be a better world, like a father's concern for the son who's just gotten out of college and is convinced he can change the world. We know he's got to change and yet we hope he doesn't."

Moving the analogy along to Superman, he says that "in him are preserved values and qualities that it would be oh so nice to have if only they worked, if only you could really live like that. But because Superman doesn't have to live in the real world he can live that way. We want him to."

"FALL FLAT"

Cadley is convinced that if Superman should ever start looking like Dustin Hoffman with a cape, the "S" on his massive chest would begin to mean "Supershnook," because comic book heroes "fall flat on their square-jawed faces" whenever they try to be revelant to the issues of the age.

For example, hoping to give Superman mental anguish, a gang of "unpratriotic creeps" in the latest adventure plan to destroy Mt. Rushmore and the Iwo Jima flag-raising statue and then trick Superman into thinking he did it.

"To give Superman a modern handup like a conscience syndrome is like getting Little Orphan Annie pregnant: it may be possible but somehow it just doesn't fit the image," concludes Cadley.

"Superman's appeal lies elsewhere, in his innocence, in his refusal to believe that anything has really changed since his day."

VIETNAM WAR

Prayers Are Asked Tomorrow For POWs

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's churches have been asked to offer special prayers tomorrow for the hundreds of U.S. servicemen who are prisoners in North Vietnam.

Despite repeated pleas, North Vietnam has refused to give out the names—or even the total number—of the American prisoners it is holding. Available information indicates there are between 200 and 400 of them. Only 100 have been allowed to write to their families.

Only nine have been allowed repatriation to America, and their accounts suggest that conditions in North Vietnamese prisons are very grim.

The idea of setting aside Nov. 9 as a day of prayer for their welfare originated with an organization called "the National League of Families of American Prisoners in Southeast Asia," composed of wives, mothers and other relatives of American POWs.

The project received an official boost from Rear Adm. James W. Kelly, chief of chaplains for the U.S. Navy. Kelly has asked all Navy chaplains to include a prayer for prisoners in next Sunday's worship services.

At the request of the sponsoring organization, Kelly also composed a special prayer, which may be used by civilian pastors as well as by military and naval chaplains. Here is the text of the prayer:

"Almighty Father, who suffers in the affliction of your children, we call upon you now from the depths of our anxiety and great concern for our countrymen and loved ones who have fallen into the hands of the nation's foes. In the face of the evils that these brave men endure and before the grim burdens they are forced to bear, give them courage and hope, and a never failing confidence in you.

"But most of all, O God, we ask that the day will soon come when we can all celebrate their release and safe return to their homes and kindred.

"Give to all of us who wait and hope in the face of every disappointment the will to persevere in the cause of peace and the wisdom to conquer hate with love and every doubt with a renewed faith in you. Amen."

CHURCHES IN MARIN WILL PARTICIPATE

Many Marin churches will observe tomorrow as a day of prayer and concern for prisoners of war or men missing in action in Southeast Asia, the wife of a prisoner of war has reported.

Julie Butler, whose husband, William Butler, has been a prisoner for two years, said the local observance is part of a national effort led by wives, families and friends of the missing men and backed by congressional resolutions.

Episcopal Bishop C. Kilmer Myers and Catholic Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken of San Francisco have asked pastors in their dioceses to cooperate and other churches are also planning to observe the day.

Lay Evangelist To Preach At Services

Dr. Derke Prince, Cambridge philosopher and lay evangelist, will preach at the 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow at Holy Innocents' Episcopal Parish in Corte Madera.

In the afternoon Dr. Prince will join Rev. Tod W. Ewald, rector, for the vesper service at San Quentin Prison.

Mass, Breakfast To Be Tomorrow

St. Anselm's Parish annual Holy Name Mass and breakfast will be held at 8 a.m. tomorrow.

Speaker at Mass and breakfast at the San Anselmo church will be Rev. John Giambastiani, S.J., of the Jesuit Retreat House in Los Altos. He will speak on "The Immense Mystery of Human Existence."

All men and high school-aged boys of the parish are invited to both events.

GI Retreat Slated In West Germany

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—The 13th Annual Assemblies of God servicemen's religious retreat will be held in Berchtesgaden, Germany, Nov. 3-7.

More than 400 servicemen and their dependents, representing various denominations, are expected to attend the retreat.

Call For A Cause

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Instead of "Dial-a-Prayer," ministers and laymen are operating a "Dial-an-Issue" project here in which telephone information on current issues of social justice is provided to all callers — a new message each day.

Air Force Holds Trio In Trainee Brutality

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A former Air Force drill sergeant is accused of ordering a recruit to vomit on another and ordering a trainee to run past five fellow airmen so they could strike him, it was disclosed yesterday.

The sergeant and two others are charged with maltreatment of 14 basic trainees at the only Air Force basic training center.

A preliminary hearing was held Thursday and continued until Dec. 1. Separate courts-martial for the veteran sergeants are expected to follow immediately, officials said yesterday.

Charged with maltreatment are S.Sgt. Raymond T. Lucy Jr., 28, a native of Lawrenceville, Va.; S.Sgt. Daniel W. S. Clark, 34, of Oberlin, Ohio, and Sgt. Ronald E. Wood, 29, of Indianapolis, Ind.

A Lackland information officer, Lt. Col. John Hartig, said Wood faces five maltreatment claims, including a charge that he handcuffed one recruit to another and ordered the "first airman to vomit on the other one."

Wood also is charged with ordering one of the recruits to run past five other airmen so they could strike him, Hartig said.

Among charges against Clark, he said, are claims that the sergeant struck a man in the chest with his fist and another on the forehead with his hand.

The spokesman said Lucy will be tried on charges of kicking a man in the buttocks, striking another on the buttocks with a belt, grabbing a man by the neck and squeezing, and making a recruit "sit in a trash can to his physical discomfort."

Lucy also is charged with striking a man with his hand, causing him to fall into a window and cut his head on broken glass, Hartig said.

The sergeants were relieved of duties as training instructors and put in administrative jobs, officials said. Air Force regulations, they said, forbid release of other information about the sergeants, such as their next of kin.

Names of the 14 trainees also cannot be released now, spokesmen said. The recruits were assigned at the time of the alleged offenses to Lackland's basic military correctional custody unit.

ABAG Selects Fanning As Bay Conservation Delegate

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Tiburon Mayor Branwell D. Fanning has been nominated to represent the Association of Bay Area Governments on the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Fanning was nominated for one of ABAG's four seats on the BCDC under a new state law, effective Monday, that makes the commission permanent and reorganizes its membership.

Fanning will represent four North Bay counties for ABAG—Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano. His nomination will go before ABAG's executive committee for confirmation on Nov. 20.

Fanning, a member of the Tiburon City Council since 1966, is an executive with a San Francisco adverising firm, and is a specialist in tourism marketing and development.

His appointment would give the Tiburon Peninsula two votes on the 27-member commission. Belvedere Mayor Thomas S. Price has been named to BCDC by the Senate Rules Committee.

Pay On Agenda

The Mill Valley School district board will discuss teachers request for a 3 per cent salary increase at 8 p.m. Monday at Park School.

Teacher's Soft Drink Poisoned

MARTINEZ (UPI)—A young scoolteacher who received threatening telephone calls for 10 days thought the caller was a crank who was pretending to be the Zodiac killer.

But police took the threats seriously yesterday after 24-year-old Daniel Williams found a lethal dose of arsenic in a bottle of soft drink in his refrigerator.

Williams, a teacher at Salesian High School in Richmond, told police the caller talked of how he intended to kill several persons, then last Sunday said: "You're the dead duck."

Williams went out and when he returned home found someone had pried open the screen on a back door. However, a police search showed nothing was missing.

But after the officers left and Williams took a drink from a bottle of opened soft drink in his refrigerator, he found it tasted "metallic" and immediately spit it out.

Police reported yesterday that the bottle contained more than enough arsenic to kill a human being.

Williams said the caller identified himself as the still-sought Zodiac killer of five, but police discounted the idea.

Diameter of the sun is 864,100 miles.

ABAG Selects Fanning As Bay Conservation Delegate

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Tiburon Mayor Branwell D. Fanning has been nominated to represent the Association of Bay Area Governments on the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Fanning was nominated for one of ABAG's four seats on the BCDC under a new state law, effective Monday, that makes the commission permanent and reorganizes its membership.

Fanning will represent four North Bay counties for ABAG—Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano. His nomination will go before ABAG's executive committee for confirmation on Nov. 20.

Fanning, a member of the Tiburon City Council since 1966, is an executive with a San Francisco adverising firm, and is a specialist in tourism marketing and development.

His appointment would give the Tiburon Peninsula two votes on the 27-member commission. Belvedere Mayor Thomas S. Price has been named to BCDC by the Senate Rules Committee.

Pay On Agenda

The Mill Valley School district board will discuss teachers request for a 3 per cent salary increase at 8 p.m. Monday at Park School.

Teacher's Soft Drink Poisoned

MARTINEZ (UPI)—A young scoolteacher who received threatening telephone calls for 10 days thought the caller was a crank who was pretending to be the Zodiac killer.

But police took the threats seriously yesterday after 24-year-old Daniel Williams found a lethal dose of arsenic in a bottle of soft drink in his refrigerator.

Williams, a teacher at Salesian High School in Richmond, told police the caller talked of how he intended to kill several persons, then last Sunday said: "You're the dead duck."

Williams went out and when he returned home found someone had pried open the screen on a back door. However, a police search showed nothing was missing.

But after the officers left and Williams took a drink from a bottle of opened soft drink in his refrigerator, he found it tasted "metallic" and immediately spit it out.

Police reported yesterday that the bottle contained more than enough arsenic to kill a human being.

Williams said the caller identified himself as the still-sought Zodiac killer of five, but police discounted the idea.

Diameter of the sun is 864,100 miles.

Do It Yourself Upholstery Not Hard

Only Right Tools And Confidence Are Needed

With a little imagination, the proper tools and a lot of confidence the average householder can successfully engage in do-it-yourself upholstery.

Restoring a faded, torn chair or couch isn't as difficult as it may seem, according to Warren Robinson, proprietor of Marin Upholstery Co., 1320 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

In fact if you buy your fabrics and supplies at his store, Robinson will teach you a few secrets of the trade.

It's been a family business in Marin for 27 years, founded by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robinson in a quonset hut at 51 Bay Street.

Robinson learned the business working every day after school, hitchiking from Mill Valley to San Rafael. He started by wielding a broom in the store, was graduated to ripping down furniture and finally to the finer points of upholstering.

The steps involved in do-it-yourself upholstering,, according to Robinson, are: 1. Strip off the old material and save for pattern.

2. Re-tie springs and re-web bottom of chair.

3. Prepare seat by replacing the hair, cotton or foam.

4. The covering the replaces the split naugahyde or tacky chintz "and becomes a beautiful rich red velvet piece of furniture that transforms that "old thing" from a "candidate for a second-hand store to an heirloom."

Aside from the sense of achievement, doing your own upholstery work is less expensive than replacing that old piece of furniture.

One widow of limited means surprised visitors with her lovely pieces of furniture, which she referred to as "Early Goodwill."

She had obtained older, better pieces of furniture at small cost and had "re-done" them, as she explained it.

One of her favorite pieces was an old rocking chair. She had sanded it down, rubbed a little mahogany stain in it and varnished it. Then with a small velvet covered foam seat, she made it into a piece of collector would covet.

Before you start, you should make certain, you have the proper tools, wooden mallet, webbing stretcher, upholstering hammer, shears, ripper, curved needles, thread and tacks.

Beginners might start out with a single chair, with just seat and back. The system is to start where the maker finished and work backwards, removing tacks, staples, screws and old materials, carefully.

In pieces where the springs are beginning to push through the webbing must be replaced and laced as tight as a banjo string.

For replacing fillers, materials such as foam rubber or any of the stryofoam products can be cut to size, and the covering can be matched to the original.

Ornamental upholsterers tacks can provide a finishing touch besides covering up any mistakes.

If it all proves to be too much, you might decided to let Robinson do the job for you.

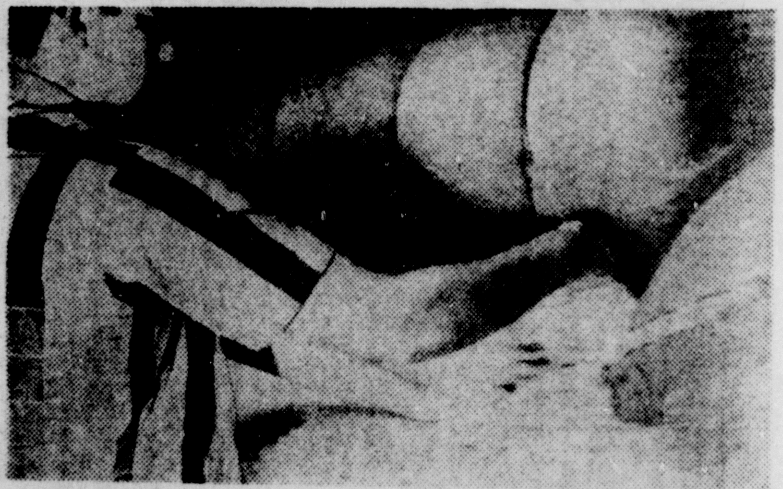
"We have in stock everything from vinyl to velvet, from canvas to ticking and supplies," he said.

The firm that once did 85 per cent of the canvas work at San Rafael harbor, has now expanded to include Indian jewelry, but upholstery is still the tradition.

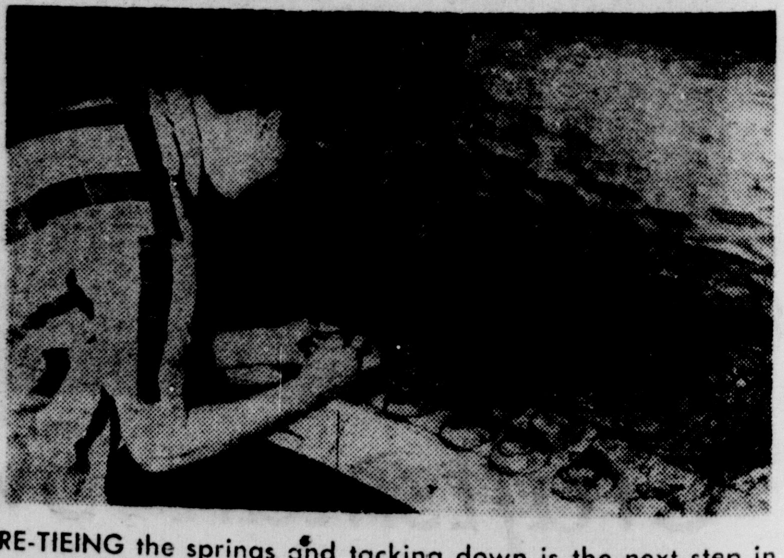
AT THE START, a faded green couch is in need of repair. (Photos by Terrie E. Ellerman, Tiny Tots Studio, San Anselmo)

Step By Step

COMPARING the stuffing for suitable replacement material is Warren Robinson, proprietor of Marin Upholstery Co., 1321 Fourth Street, San Rafael.



ROBINSON removes cover material which later is used as a pattern for new material.



RE-TIEING the springs and tacking down is the next step in the process.

"My Blankets Are Lifeless After Summer Storage"

Your unhappiness is common, but can be overcome easily. If your blankets should be cleaned, your drycleaner will do the job beautifully, returning them fluffy and bright.

If your blankets do not need cleaning you can overcome the limpness acquired in summer storage by tumbling each one separately in a dryer. After about 10 minutes on a no-heat setting, the blanket will emerge fresh and wrinkle free.

The same treatment will restore stored draperies, too. Dryer tumbling removes wrinkles and any musty odor.

If you don't want to bother with it yourself, call your professional drycleaner. Have him tumble them for you.

Mill Valley Film Director

By FRANK FARRARA

Packaging of political candidates has always gone on, according to Richard T. Heffron of Mill Valley, maker of a film which led to a remarkable political upset in Ohio last year.

His biographical film of John J. Gilligan, candidate for the U.S. Senate, was instrumental in helping Gilligan achieve victory over former Senator Frank Lausche in the Democratic primary.

In the early days before microphones, the man who had a big voice, the man who looked good on party literature, was pushed as the party's candidate, he commented.

Now politicians have to acquire new skills to communicate with people, and it is the function of the media who work for them to do this effectively, he explained.

HAVING a candidate appear on television at his best is no worse "than the old-style method" where he was a voice on the radio or a distant figure at a big rally, he said.

Heffron's comments came after the explosive book, "The Selling of the President" by Joe McGinniss exposed the step-by-step packaging of Richard M. Nixon in the last presidential campaign.

"I don't think it's possible for mass money and media to put over a real nightmare," he contended. "You can't make an intelligent man out of a jerk anymore than you can take a picture of what doesn't exist.

"I don't mean to suggest there's no danger," but it's a danger the republic has lived with a long time, Heffron asserted. "If there were no opposition I would be concerned, but rarely has there been a campaign where there wasn't opposition."

MAYBE every now and then someone comes out of nowhere, but with so many straight news reports, the impact of commercial film is marginal, he said.

Although "everyone on television is on their party manners," Heffron believes overall television gives the public "a better look at candidates" than in the past, and as a result there is a "better class of candidates."

The real problem, he contended, is the amount of money it takes to run for office, leading to questions of who's backing the candidate and what promises he has made in return for support, he said.

"The cost of television is a crime. I think they should have special rates."

HEFFRON, chairman of Medion Inc. of San Francisco, producers of theatrical, documentary and sponsored films, has written and directed more than 20 major award-winning documentaries.

He recently made his debut as a television director, directing a show entitled "The People Against Ortega" for the NBC television series, "The Bold Ones." His second show for the series "The Rockford Riddle" is scheduled for Nov. 16 and can be seen that evening at 10 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4.

Noting the increase in film making in the Bay Area and Marin, Heffron said he felt that film-makers "find the area exciting and stimulating . . . most attractive," and an area that appears to be a forerunner of the way people are going to live in the rest of the U.S. in the next two to five years.

"They feel it's on top of what's going on in this country," and quite a few film makers commute from Hollywood, he reported.

A RESIDENT of Mill Valley for the past two years, Heffron joined with Herbert Decker and Claude Jarman last year to form Medion, Inc., and he has creative supervision over films.

Working with a small permanent staff the firm taps the large pool for free-lance film talent in the San Francisco and West Coast area for projects.

A native of Chicago, he was graduated from Harvard University in 1954 and got his early experience as associate producer and writer with the St. Louis educational television station, KETC.

In 1958, he produced and directed a nationally syndicated series called "The Search for America," which featured such participants as Reinhold Neibuhr, Walt Rostow, Erich Fromm, J. K. Galbraith and Mark Van Doren.

HE JOINED Guggenheim Productions of Washington, D.C. in 1960, and worked with them until 1967, directing more than 20 award-winning documentaries during his stay there.

Among his awards are the Albert Lasker Award for a film acclaimed as "the best motion picture about modern medicine ever made," and three first prizes at the America Film Festival in 1966.

He is now working in Africa making a film on economic development in that continent, "where it stands, where it ought to be going."

Eventually, Heffron hopes to work more in the theatrical area, "and sometime make a full feature film."

DIRECTOR Richard Heffron coaches Claudine Longet for a scene of "The Rockford Riddle," an episode of Universal Television's "The Bold Ones" series, while an unidentified woman stares.

DURING THE SCENE Heffron physically moves Claudine Longet into the position required for the right effect.

Another Story By The 'Prison Doc'—

By DR. LEO L. STANLEY

(Editor's Note: Dr. Leo L. Stanley, long-time medical officer at San Quentin Prison, recounts another of his experiences as "the prison doc" on this page.)

"What in hell did you want to hit me for—you SOB?"

Yes, that was what I asked him. I was recovering from a surprise attack. We were in the corridor between two rows of dark cells in the Old Dungeon at San Quentin. Standing by with cane in hand was Officer Gott. And near by was one of the trustees who had come with us to the dungeon to bring bread and water.

IT WAS customary for one of my medical staff to visit solitary confinement and the dungeon every day, accompanied by an officer, to examine any of the convicts who might be confined there. We could have released any of them whom we thought the punishment might be detrimental to his health.

The dungeon, it is true, was not like the Palace Hotel. The old one at San Quentin was underground in a stone building erected in 1869, the cells, of which were twenty, measured about eight by eight feet and had arched ceilings. The door was made of iron and had a small wicket and peep hole. The floor was of stone and the walls were whitewashed.

A STRAW pallet was on the floor and there was a bucket for drinking water, a tin basin and a slop pail. It was not damp and the temperature was about seventy.

Fresh air came in through vents and there was a flue for air circulation. In the wall was an iron ring. I suspect in the early days some of the boys were chained to it. But never had I seen it put to use. Of course the cell was dark.

I NEVER felt very sorry for anyone who had misbehaved sufficiently to be put in the "Hole". No one had to go there of his own volition. All one had to do to stay out of the dungeon was obey the rules of the prison and conduct himself in a proper manner.

One reform warden made a great public acclaim, that one of the first things he did was to abolish the dungeon. Yes, he did close the one described above, but authorities insisted that one just as dark, just as uncomfortable, be built on the top floor of the new condemned cells.

ON THIS morning, referred to above, I took my turn at visiting the Dungeon. As the iron door was swung open out rushed the inmate. Before I could realize it, he had landed a heavy blow on my chin that very near floored me. Officer Gott stopped further attack.

I did not know this man. But as we stood there I realized he was a tough looking customer and had a face which would do credit to any tough thug. His face was hard and wrinkled. He had a crooked smile and his ears protruded like sails. With that face he had a right to be tough.

AS HE stood there blinking at the unaccustomed light he offered no apology but he did say. "I guess I did not sleep well last night. I felt like hitting someone. And you were the first one I saw."

IT WAS a month or so afterwards that this same thug appeared at sick call. He asked if he might talk to me. He said he knew we had been doing a lot of plastic surgery with good results and asked if we could do something for him. He awkwardly apologized for the blow he had dealt me in the dungeon.

We did take him in hand, corrected his deformed nose, lifted his face and set his ears back against his head. He was well pleased with the result. He remained a good boy, was paroled, and so far as I know nevor returned to the klink.

Jimmy Hatlo, the cartoonist, hearing of our attempts at physical rehabilitation wrote the following doggerel and illustrated it as only Hatlo could.

Gyp, the Bug, was a hard boiled thug,
With a face that was decidedly zero.
He went to a Jug where they lifted his mug,
And now he's a silver screen hero.

IN OUR preliminary physical examination of all prisoners who came to San Quentin we found many whose features could be greatly improved by the surgeon's knife.

Many noses had come in contact with a policeman's billy, or with a beer bottle poised in the hands of one of the law breaker's travelling companions. And some noses had bumped on the gutter or against the windshield when the auto in which they were making a get-away was abruptly brought to a halt.

And there were other noses which were just naturally nothing to be proud of, oversize, humped, flattened or tilted to the side.

PLASTIC SURGERY was greatly improved upon after World War I with its numerous terribly mutilated and deformed bodies and features of the dough boys wounded in the ferocious battles.

At San Quentin we had the opportunity to do much along this line. Here the patient had to pay nothing for his surgery. Hospitalization was free. And there was no loss of wages while he was in the hospital. And many of the prisoners were willing to have something done to improve their appearance.

For the nose with the hump, we were able to make a very small incision over the bridge between the eyes, to elevate the skin and with rasps and chisels remove the necessary amount of bony structure to produce a pleasing appearance. In some cases the approach was made from the inside and in others the septum had to be straightened

FOR THOSE with the depressed proboscis, we made the incision as described above, and with blunt dissection made a pocket under the skin and over the depression. Into this pocket we placed a piece of cartilege taken from one of the ribs or even from a healthy cadaver. And we even used celluloid, a piece of a tooth brush handle.

Foreign objects such as bullets and pieces of metal, if there is no infection may remain in the body indefinitely without causing trouble. The celluloid tooth brush handle could be shaped as we wished, thoroughly sterilized and placed in the depression. Many of these we did with excellent results.

For the noses that were broken to the side the procedure was slightly more exacting. Here considerable chiselling had to be done and the operation took much time and skill. The nasal bones are ordinarily small. The deformity is caused by two bones being loosened from their suture lines by a blow from the side without proper setting or replacement. We devised for this the so-called San Quentin operation.

KNOWING THAT a blow from one side displaced the bones and caused the deformity, we reasoned that a similar blow from the other side would replace them.

Wiih the patient under a very light anaesthetic, we placed a short well padded broom handle against the convex side of the nose. A quick forcible blow with a mallet on the broom handle refractured the nasal bones.

We were then able to mold the contour into an acceptible and normal position. The inside of the nose was packed with vaseline gauze and a plaster of Paris nose mask was placed over it to keep it in shape for several days until the bones became solid.

The recipient of the blow frequently awoke from the anaesthetic in a fighting mood. In his sleep he had dreamed on one of those bar room brawls he had engaged in on the waterfront.

OUR PRISONER assistants got a lot of fun out of holding these characters down when they were coming out of the anaesthetic. We really got some very excellent results from this operation.

Among our clientele were a number of second rate pugilists, men who had tried to fight in the ring but as their reward had gotten the daylights knocked out of them.

Besides being knocked punch drunk their ears had been metamorphosed into cauliflowers. These pugs were rather vain. They were excellent subjects for our surgery to restore their beauty.

AND THERE were a goodly number who just had big ears. The cons had all kinds of names for them. Jackass, Floppy, Spinnaker, Radar, Scoop and a lot of others.

With those whose ears stuck out like wind scoops we were able to cut just behind the auricle, carefully dissect out some of the cartilege and bring the offending appendage back up close to the head. These boys were ever grateful for the service we rendered them.

AS THE results of our work became better known among the inmates we really had more applications for plastic surgery than we could well do. But we kept at it. Such work under supervision was excellent training for the many young surgeons who were starting their medical careers as our assistants.

Even the women prisoners became interested A number of them wanted to be more beautiful as against their re-entry into civil life. Face lifting became very popular with them. This is a comparatively simple operation. An incision is made above the hair line just in front of each ear.

A piece of the skin is removed and the underlying tissues are shortened and trussed up in such a way that most of the sagging and wrinkles are eliminated. All this can be done with local anaesthesia.

OF COURSE, there were many other operations which could be considered, such as skin grafts, removal of moles and disfiguring scars and scores of others. We, of the medical department, felt that we were doing a lot toward rehabilitation in correcting these defects which may or may not have had some bearing upon the individuals mental outlook and for his antisocial tendencies.

RELAXING at poolside without any worries about maintenance is one of the benefits of townhouse living, which offers complete ownership without the accompanying labor.

Townhouse Living

Different Way Of Life Has Many Advantages

What is a townhouse?

Just what the name says, a private house, all your own, with bedrooms upstairs and living area down . . . your own garage . . . your own private yard.

One of the current examples of townhouse living on a luxury scale is Tiburon Terrace Townhouses, constructed by Sterling Albert of Orange County, with Bushnell, Jessup, Murphy and VanDeWeghe of San Francisco, architects, and J. K. Haver, landscaper.

Brockman Real Estate of Mill Valley, exclusive agents, reported there are three units, ranging from $49,750 for a three bedroom unit with 1,800 square feet to $54,500 for a four-bedroom, three bath, unit with 2,200 square feet.

Each unit is constructed as a single unit. Only the roof, foundation, exterior front and rear siding connect to the other unit, with bordering walls separated.

All units have electric kitchens, fireplace, sundecks, intercoms system, wall-to-wall carpeting and drapes, electric radiant heating and entry hall.

BUY YOUR HOME IN MARIN—NOW!

Now is the time to buy your home—not a year, or two, or five years from now. NOW is the time—before costs go higher—before you lose more precious time in making your dream-home come true. Don't postpone your home because of "high prices." You'll find sensible prices in Marin, once you really look. And—your home in Marin will protect you against inflation . . . be the best investment you ever made.

Your Marin County Realtor can help you find the right home, without headaches and heartaches. A Realtor is a professional who adheres to a strict Code of Ethics as a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Call your Realtor today . . . start the ball rolling on the most valued purchase of your life.

HERE ARE 10 IMPORTANT ADVANTAGES OF HOME OWNERSHIP

1. Security
The safe feeling that comes with ownership, and the knowledge that your home is a safeguard against inflation. If prices go up, so does the value of your property.

2. Investment
Payments on your mortgage mean you are buying something, not just paying rent. You keep owning more and more.

3. Tax advantage
Your real estate taxes and the interest on your mortgage or land contract are deductible when you figure your income tax.

4. Financial independence
More people have started on the road to financial independence through home ownership than in any other way.

5. Standing and credit
You are a solid part of the community. You feel that you "belong" and home ownership gives you substantial credit rating.

6. Environment
Your children have a proper neighborhood in which to grow up. Your family finds itself among responsible home owners with background much like your own. You establish roots.

7. A cash equity
A well-bought home is like a savings account.

8. Character development
Responsibilities of ownership develop business acumen and appreciation of financial independence . . . self reliance.

9. Peace of mind
Knowledge that provision has been made for your family . . . and that they can share in your pride of ownership.

10. Satisfaction
Along with the other advantages, there are many things that make life worthwhile—vegetables from your own garden . . . the chance for do-it-yourself projects, large or small . . . the backyard barbecue . . . the picture of your home on your Christmas cards. These heartwarming things are a very real part of owning your home.

NOW is the time to buy! Call your Marin County Realtor

BUY YOUR HOME IN MARIN—NOW!

Now is the time to buy your home—not a year, or two, or five years from now. NOW is the time—before costs go higher—before you lose more precious time in making your dream-home come true. Don't postpone your home because of "high prices." You'll find sensible prices in Marin, once you really look. And—your home in Marin will protect you against inflation . . . be the best investment you ever made.

Your Marin County Realtor can help you find the right home, without headaches and heartaches. A Realtor is a professional who adheres to a strict Code of Ethics as a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Call your Realtor today . . . start the ball rolling on the most valued purchase of your life.

HERE ARE 10 IMPORTANT ADVANTAGES OF HOME OWNERSHIP

1. Security
The safe feeling that comes with ownership, and the knowledge that your home is a safeguard against inflation. If prices go up, so does the value of your property.

2. Investment
Payments on your mortgage mean you are buying something, not just paying rent. You keep owning more and more.

3. Tax advantage
Your real estate taxes and the interest on your mortgage or land contract are deductible when you figure your income tax.

4. Financial independence
More people have started on the road to financial independence through home ownership than in any other way.

5. Standing and credit
You are a solid part of the community. You feel that you "belong" and home ownership gives you substantial credit rating.

6. Environment
Your children have a proper neighborhood in which to grow up. Your family finds itself among responsible home owners with background much like your own. You establish roots.

7. A cash equity
A well-bought home is like a savings account.

8. Character development
Responsibilities of ownership develop business acumen and appreciation of financial independence . . . self reliance.

9. Peace of mind
Knowledge that provision has been made for your family . . . and that they can share in your pride of ownership.

10. Satisfaction
Along with the other advantages, there are many things that make life worthwhile—vegetables from your own garden . . . the chance for do-it-yourself projects, large or small . . . the backyard barbecue . . . the picture of your home on your Christmas cards. These heartwarming things are a very real part of owning your home.

Original Creations In Wood

BY SALLY FREDERICKSON

What is Fred Webster, who enjoys mostly rebuilding antique furniture, doing making a seven-foot diameter modern swinging couch that hangs from 115 lengths of rope from the ceiling?

This non-retired, "retired" hand craftsman from San Geronimo has the ability to make almost anything out of wood that he has seen pictures of or seen himself.

Each year he donates some of his unique creations to the local Valley Presbyterian Church Holly Fair and each November surprise items appear such as "old" oaken buckets and washtubs, tortured motif three-legged chairs, wooden wheelbarrows etc. This year Webster decided to depart from the usual and add a suspended swinging couch.

This years fair will be held next Friday from 4 to 10 p.m. and next Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the church, Sir Francisco Drake Boulevard and Nicasio Road, San Geronimo.

WITH THIN pieces of wood given to him by a friend, Webster bends the thin strips around a star-shaped frame. A master at improvisation he then uses cut rubber inner tubes to laminate the wood together instead of the conventional C-Clamps.

The upper hoop of the swing—ing couch is made by using a bicycle wheel for a frame. Two sets of holes are drilled in the bottom hoop, one for the rope to be strung through to a ring in the ceiling and the other tq interweave the rope back and forth to form an bottom in the swing.

His backyard like a museum, Webster and his school-teacher wife, Nora, are among those special people who welcome children into the yard and he even built a bridge over his creek so that young people might be able to short-cut through his yard.

THERE A person can try out a one-legged milking stool that straps to his legs, and antique metal-wheeled bicycle, a vice growing out of a tree, crank a wine bottle out of a well, spin an antique yarn winder, churn butter, or pull a door knocker that sets a wheel of bells in motion.

Many of his creations have wooden pegs instead of nails, such as the horse trough he made in the old tradition, complete with a hand pump that draws water from the nearby creek.

Webster started out working with wood at a young age hewing virgin timber for building barns with his Dad in Wisconsin in the fitted mortise and tenon fashion (sans nails).

FOR THIRTY years he left carpentry except to build his own house. During that time he "walked all over Europe" in 1918 as a Marine in World War I. Later, he and his wife added two children, their spouses and four grandchildren while he worked as foreman at Hutchinson Quarry.

Recently he built a covered wagon for neighbor children and is now making a case for a grandfather clock for his wife while working on the hanging couch.

Webster is one of those rare independents who does only the work he wants and for the pleasure of it. When asked why he doesn't go into the business of making unique woodcraft, he smiled, "I decided a long time ago I didn't want to be rich."

His designs are many times an improvement on the original ideas he sees. His modest philosophy on creations that sometimes come out better because of a "happy accident" is, "it's not the mistake that counts so much, it's what a person does with it that matters". With what he thinks and creates, who says Fred Webster isn't a "swinger"?

It's a 90-to-one bet that the sun will be shining in Tucson on any given day and the big wintertime attraction in southern Arizona is the weather.

It is superb: warm and sunny throughout most of the year, with a very low humidity, and mild, remarkably dry air.

THE AVERAGE maximum temperature for December, according to records compiled over the last dozen years by the United States Weather Bureau, is 66 degrees; for January, 63 degrees; February, 68 degrees; March 72 degrees.

Still, the area's $125-million-a-year tourist business is keyed to more than pleasant temperatures. Tucson is no longer the sleepy village that its nickname, "The Old Pueblo" implies, although there are 11,000 Indians and 40,000 people of Mexican descent in the immediate vicinity.

Since the end of World War II, the city's population has jumped from 45,000 to more than 350,000. Modernistic skyscrapers dot the skyline.

MOUNTAINS, canyons, ghost towns, old mines, more than two dozen guest ranches, high forests, golf courses, and scenic areas encircle Tucson.

History is everywhere. In the downtown part of the city there are the ruins of an old Indian pit house that gives evidence of occupation in 1200 A. D., according to TWA travel experts. This would make it the oldest continuously occupied community in the United States. Before this even, prehistoric men hunted animals such as the tapir and mammoth in the region.

The Spanish, first to probe America's southwest, discovered many Indian settlements in southern Arizona in the early sixteenth century and a military presidio was established at Tucson in 1776, the same year that the United States achieved its independence.

FOUR FLAGS have flown over Tucson: Spanish, Mexican, U.S. and Confederate. The mission San Xavier del Bac, where Franciscan brothers now conduct guided tours, was founded in the desert just a short distannce outside Tuscon, in 1692. Its two white towers, along with the Grand Canyon, are the most recognized symbols of Arizona.

The notorious old silver mining town of Tombstone, now more touristy than tough, is a little over an hour's drive southeast of Tucson.

Tucson's number one tourist attraction is Old Tucson, a replica of the early city, where visitors now watch television shows and motion pictures being filmed. It is located 1 miles out in the desert from downtown.

THE TOP special event of Tucson's winter season, which extends from before Christmas to the end of Spring, comes in April with Festival Week, where much of the area's cultural and historical past is recreated and relived.

The Travel Pages

Included as part of the event is the San Xavier F an impressive pageant of fires, fireworks, and I dances at the San Xavier sion in commemoration of er Kino, who founded the post there.

Another Festival Week ture is La Parada de los N a children's street parade old Mexico costumes, Ind cowboys and floats through son's downtown streets.

Irish, German Castles Favorites

BLARNEY CASTLE, County Cork, Ireland, site of the famous Blarney Stone, is the most popular with tourists. It is typical of 15th Century Irish fortified houses.

SCHLOSS NEUSCHWANSTEIN

THE NEUSCHWANSTEIN CASTLE of Bavaria's King Ludwig II, famous patron of German opera composer Richard Wagner, which lies in the Bavarian Alps not far from Munich, is one of the country's top tourist attractions because of its fairytale appearance.

Kissing The Blarney Stone Still Holds Enchantment

While it is romantic to believe that castles were built with splendid extravagance to serve princes in their perpetual pursuit of pleasure, in reality they were erected for defense, as well as for diversion.

The castles of Ireland constructed during the medieval period are reminders that the Norman lords defended themselves against their worldly enemies with massive stone buildings while protecting themselves againts the devil by founding monasteries.

CONTINUALLY fearful of attack, huge castles were built at Limerick, Carlow, Ferns and Roscommon. The largest castle in Ireland is Trim, in County Meath, built in 1205. Even in its ruined state today it is still an impressive vestige of a once mighty castle.

Some of Ireland's castles or tower houses, which were built to withstand the Anglo-Norman invasion during the 13th to 17th centuries, survive as inhabited buildings.

Popular with travelers are Bunratty Castle, near Shannon Airport, Dunguaire and Knappogue. Among the castles which actually accommodate visitors are Dromoland, Ashford and Kilkea. Recently, a lavish restaurant was opened to the public at Blackrock Castle.

TOURISTS to Ireland can still visit a number of other castles that are open to the public. They include the Ormonde Castles at Kilkenny, Cahir and Carrick-on-Suir. The 15th Century castle of Dunsoghley is near Dublin and has retained its original oak roof.

The most popular one in Ireland is Blarney Castle, near Cork, with its "Stone of Eloquence." Blarney and the Ross Castle, overlooking the island-studded lakes of Killarney, are typical 15th Century Irish fortified houses.

Black Travel Agency Started

By DEE WEDEMEYER

NEW YORK (AP) — In Toronto the place to get soul food is the Underground Railroad. In Paris, try Haines and if you are looking for a bar with Aretha Franklin on the jukebox just follow an American serviceman. He'll get you there every time.

These are some of the tips for the black traveler from Pride, a black travel agency established here two months ago by Mel Johnson.

Johnson, a seven-year veteran in the travel business, said he discovered the special travel problems of members of his race while in Europe as a young serviceman.

"ALWAYS the black face was missing," said Johnson. ". . . It soon dawned on me that the black man and woman was absent because he was protecting himself from the numerous inevitable social and personal indignities that awaited him at every known or unknown center."

Some 23 years later Johnson opened Pride to screen tour areas to prevent embarrassment for the black traveler and see that he does not miss points of black interest.

When Johnson and his assistant Ruth Givens are checking a potential tour site they make sure blacks are not ushered to inferior tables in restaurants, refused a room in a hotel or generally are not received coolly.

But most important, Johnson said, a tour with other blacks assures them of having companionship.

Most of Pride's first tours are going to the Caribbean which, Johnson said, now gets about 95 per cent of the black tourist trade.

Reviews Of New Reading

Habe Vs. Society Again

THE POISONED STREAM by Hans Habe; McGraw-Hill, 366 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

The controversial author of more than one international best-seller has indicted modern society once more.

This time one of Rome's more successful call-girls has been murdered, an event that in our day can be turned into a tidy fortune by those who know how.

The publisher of a weekly picture magazine is one who knows how (his hippie son readily learns); the slain girl's father, the reporter who finds the murderer, the prospective film makers, assorted blackmailers and other hangers-on are also eager to convert the dead girl into cold cash.

And of course there is the murderer, who agrees to write up his crime for a slice of the pie which is to include free passage out of the country. But first he is tucked away in a remote hotel to write it all out (the reporter will rewrite it of couse for maximum titillation).

The story is told in the first person by the eight principals involved; and the bylines heading each speech are unnecessary — the reader knows at once who is speaking. (Sharing honors for this: J. Maxwell Brownjohn, translator, who has put the story into a quick, idiomatic English that flows without a hitch).

All eight narrators rivet one to the page, but the murderer, who is an unacclaimed novelist, is an outstanding creation.

He puts his case, in an appropriately dry and literary style, as follows:

Blame for man's present inhumanity lies on the young, for they are the dominant corrupting force today. Therefore, youth must be wiped out.

He acts on his beliefs. The call girl is not the first young female he has had to execute for poisoning the stream of life.

An extreme example of the generation gap, certainly. And yet as the police inspector (one of the two or three half-way decent characters in the whole cast) reads over the madman's memoirs, he is shaken to see the extent to which he shares some of his views.

"What if he (the murderer) had submitted that the old merit as much pity as the young? . . . "Is it really harder to inherit an ailing world than to leave that world without hope of witnessing its recovery?"

As is often true of Hans Habe's powerful novels, "The Poisoned Stream" is difficult to put aside, even after it is read.

HAROLD ROBBINS, a best selling author, makes another bid for commercial success in his latest novel, "The Inheritors."

Robbins Falls Short In Semi-Dirty Book

THE INHERITORS, by Harold Robbins; Trident Press, 406 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Gary Tischler.

Gather around, semi-dirty book lovers.Harold Robbins is back, just in time to compete with Irving Wallace in the book-stores.

I am sorry to report that this is not one of trusty Harold's better efforts. He seems to have hurried a bit this time around. "The Inheritors" is only 406 pages long, a little short of "The Carpetbaggers" and "The Adventurers," and the pages are long on dialogue and they're big print so that even a grandmother with fading eyesight could read it.

This one is supposed to be the final (promise?) installment in a trilogy comprised of "The Carpetbaggers" and "The Dream Merchants," all more or less dealing with the rise and fall of Hollywood.

Here we are in the modern times, but things are as nasty as ever. This one's about a television tycoon and a movie tycoon and their varied dealings with each other and wives, mistresses and what n t.

For modernity's sake, one of them has a son that's a hippie, etc. The movie tycoon strongly resembles Joe Levine, if you like to play that kind of game, and what else is there to do?

Robbins will never top Grove Press, but there are several good things that can be said about his books and the man. For one thing, he's never conned anyone into saying that he produces works of art. Asked once what his next novel was going to be about, he replied that it would be "about 800 pages." Which is refreshingly honest for a change, although he missed by 400 pages this time.

His books read quickly and can be digested at breakfast, lunch and dinner. They make terrible movies but that's their problem.

The other promising note is that Robbins seems to have a faint affection for the people he dreams up. None of them are really despicable and rotten, when you get right down to it. They've all sold out for money and sex, but basically they're just like you and me. Or that other nice average joe, Howard Hughes.

Clear Science Guide

THE ATTRACTIVE UNIVERSE: Gravity and the Shape of Space, by E. G. Valens, World Publishing Co., 187 pages, indexed, $5.95. Reviewed by Jeff Greer.

Mill Valley author Valens and his colaborating photographer Berenice Abbot are a godsend to any parent who has offspring wanting to know "why things don't fall up," and "what keeps Apollo in orbit?"

Had I access to science textbooks as beautifully thought out and lucidly presented in my formative years, I'd probably be an active scientist today rather than a wistful looker-on. But then, few scientists, even teachers, have the gift of clear communication owned by Valens, a newsman turned prize-winning science education writer.

Ranging from a modern day interpretation of Newton's and Galileo's discoveries through tides and orbiting bodies, Valens' book uses little mathematics, many excellent photos made with the stop-action magic of stroboscopic lighting (yea, verily, much the same strobes as those in psychedelic light shows) and plenty of thought-provoking simile.

"The Attractive Universe" can be explored profitably by readers from teen-age to retirement-age — and can help answer a lot of whys.

There is nothing really new in Coretta King's book about the family for whom the civil rights movement became the focus of life through the Sixties.

But her simple telling of the spirit, the marches, the bombings and threats of violence during the black rights struggle in the South, where the movement began, gives those years a new reality in the light of the violent civil turmoil that came afterward and the current rethinking of methods to achieve equality and freedom for all groups of people.

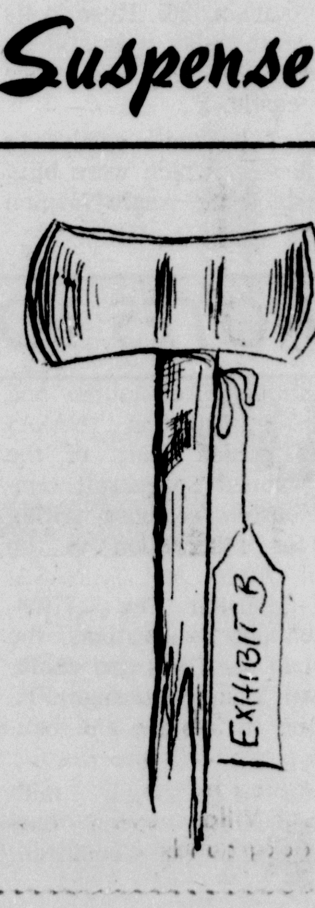
DIE QUICKLY, DEAR MOTHER by Tobias Wells; Doubleday, 189 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

This Knute Severson yarn fails to come up to the standard of earlier Crime Club selections featuring the Boston detective.

This one opens with the murder trial already under way. Severson has helped to build the case against Starrett Kayser, accused of the death of his wealthy, cantankerous mother. But in the midst of the trial, Severson begins to have his doubts. So he hits the investigative trail again.

Unfortunately, the story seems to drag at times. And characterizations are not as sharp or as interesting as in earlier Knute Severson novels.



Irish, German Castles Favorites

SCHLOSS NEUSCHWANSTEIN

THE NEUSCHWANSTEIN CASTLE of Bavaria's King Ludwig II, famous patron of German opera composer Richard Wagner, which lies in the Bavarian Alps not far from Munich, is one of the country's top tourist attractions because of its fairytale appearance.

Kissing The Blarney Stone Still Holds Enchantment

While it is romantic to believe that castles were built with splendid extravagance to serve princes in their perpetual pursuit of pleasure, in reality they were erected for defense, as well as for diversion.

The castles of Ireland constructed during the medieval period are reminders that the Norman lords defended themselves against their worldly enemies with massive stone buildings while protecting themselves againts the devil by founding monasteries.

CONTINUALLY fearful of attack, huge castles were built at Limerick, Carlow, Ferns and Roscommon. The largest castle in Ireland is Trim, in County Meath, built in 1205. Even in its ruined state today it is still an impressive vestige of a once mighty castle.

Some of Ireland's castles or tower houses, which were built to withstand the Anglo-Norman invasion during the 13th to 17th centuries, survive as inhabited buildings.

Popular with travelers are Bunratty Castle, near Shannon Airport, Dunguaire and Knappogue. Among the castles which actually accommodate visitors are Dromoland, Ashford and Kilkea. Recently, a lavish restaurant was opened to the public at Blackrock Castle.

TOURISTS to Ireland can still visit a number of other castles that are open to the public. They include the Ormonde Castles at Kilkenny, Cahir and Carrick-on-Suir. The 15th Century castle of Dunsoghley is near Dublin and has retained its original oak roof.

The most popular one in Ireland is Blarney Castle, near Cork, with its "Stone of Eloquence." Blarney and the Ross Castle, overlooking the island-studded lakes of Killarney, are typical 15th Century Irish fortified houses.

Black Travel Agency Started

By DEE WEDEMEYER

NEW YORK (AP) — In Toronto the place to get soul food is the Underground Railroad. In Paris, try Haines and if you are looking for a bar with Aretha Franklin on the jukebox just follow an American serviceman. He'll get you there every time.

These are some of the tips for the black traveler from Pride, a black travel agency established here two months ago by Mel Johnson.

Johnson, a seven-year veteran in the travel business, said he discovered the special travel problems of members of his race while in Europe as a young serviceman.

"ALWAYS the black face was missing," said Johnson. "... It soon dawned on me that the black man and woman was absent because he was protecting himself from the numerous inevitable social and personal indignities that awaited him at every known or unknown center."

Some 23 years later Johnson opened Pride to screen tour areas to prevent embarrassment for the black traveler and see that he does not miss points of black interest.

When Johnson and his assistant Ruth Givens are checking a potential tour site they make sure blacks are not ushered to inferior tables in restaurants, refused a room in a hotel or generally are not received coolly.

But most important, Johnson said, a tour with other blacks assures them of having companionship.

Most of Pride's first tours are going to the Caribbean which, Johnson said, now gets about 95 per cent of the black tourist trade.

SICK FRIENDS by Ivan Gold; Dutton, 372 pages, $6.95.

THE WEATHER SHELTER by Erskine Caldwell, World Publishing, 190 pages, $5.50.

If you want to read a painfully introspective tale, steeped in comtemporary lifestyle and language, then Ivan Gold's "Sick Friends" will be your dish.

Artfully done and moving beneath the sexual tangles, the flip remarks, the story should give people who play games with each other pause for thought.

A young New York writer, who has shared his bed with many a woman falls in love with an Armenian girl, who, in a family newspaper is best described as a witch.

In the sexual arena, she is more than his match and her behavior out of bed is devastating.

The affair dissolves and the mood becomes despairing, but somehow the writer finds the inner strength to avoid complete devastation.

Gold has gone beyond the surface sex of Playboy magazie, which has published his short stories, and has gotten about five giant steps closer to the soul of life.

The characters are more disgusting than lovable and their behavior more reprehensible than appealing, but they have force and a strong aroma of humanity.

The contemporary writing style is not easy to follow and doesn't lend itself to speed reading, but on the other hand neither do some of the classics.

THOSE WHO want reading in the traditional form with a familiar theme, Erskine Caldwell's "The Weather Shelter" is the ticket.

Caldwell has been turning out his stories of the South involving race, poor whites, sex and violence for many years and the latest is in the old mold.

There is a passing line or two about civil rights, a passing nod to contemporary times, but the tale is essentially timeless.

A respected pony breeder in a small Tennessee town, who once fathered the son of a woman, half black-half white, has to rescue the boy from a gang of red necks.

Through a contrived plot, the boy is suspected of raping a white woman, who in reality raped him, an added fillip in the black white pattern.

As an added twist, the breeder is married to a woman who refuses him her sexual favors and flaunts her girl-friend in his face.

The boy is a tragic figure, fitting into neither the white world or the black world, but his father sticks by him, facing the scorn of the prejudiced.

There was a day when Caldwell was considered "hot stuff," but four-letter words and sexual encounters are so common in today's literature, that his work appears comparatively tame.

"IT'S WINTER" is a charming excusion into a miniature wonderland of winter. Poems anl photographs are by Sister Moemi Weygant, O.S.B., published by the Westminister Press, Philadelphia, ($3.95); this is the third book in the series showing the woders of the seasons. She captures the smallest of winters miracles with her camera and tenderly reveals them with her poetry. "Winter, with wet and freeze, makes everything that autumn threw away into a masterpiece."

THREE SMALL books from the Sterling Publishing Co. are not small in content. "Creating with Beads" ($2.95) by Greta La Croix contains easy to follow instructions for making lovely gifts. "Making Dolls" by H. Witzig and G. E. Kuhn ($3.95) with step-by-step instructions and many photographs lead to the making of the simplest handkerchief doll or intricate dolls with hard heads and disc joints. "The Complete Crayon Book" ($8.95 by Chester Jay Alkema is a valuable book for teachers with interesting projects using crayons, paper bags, sponges and other materials.

THE 1879 edition of the widely discussed "McGuffey Readers" has been made available by Van Nostrand Reinhold Co. and they may be purchased individually or as a set.

The eight volumes, the Primer, Readers 1-6, and Webster's Elementary Spelling Book are prices at $28.25.

The series is reproduced from the original old plates of the most famous edition of the McGuffey Eclectic Readers, which enjoyed extensive use during the past century.

THE FILM RIGHTS to J. R. R. Tolkien's book, "The Lord of the Rings" have been sold to United Artists and a production is scheduled to get underway soon, according to publishers George Allen and Unwin Ltd. of London.

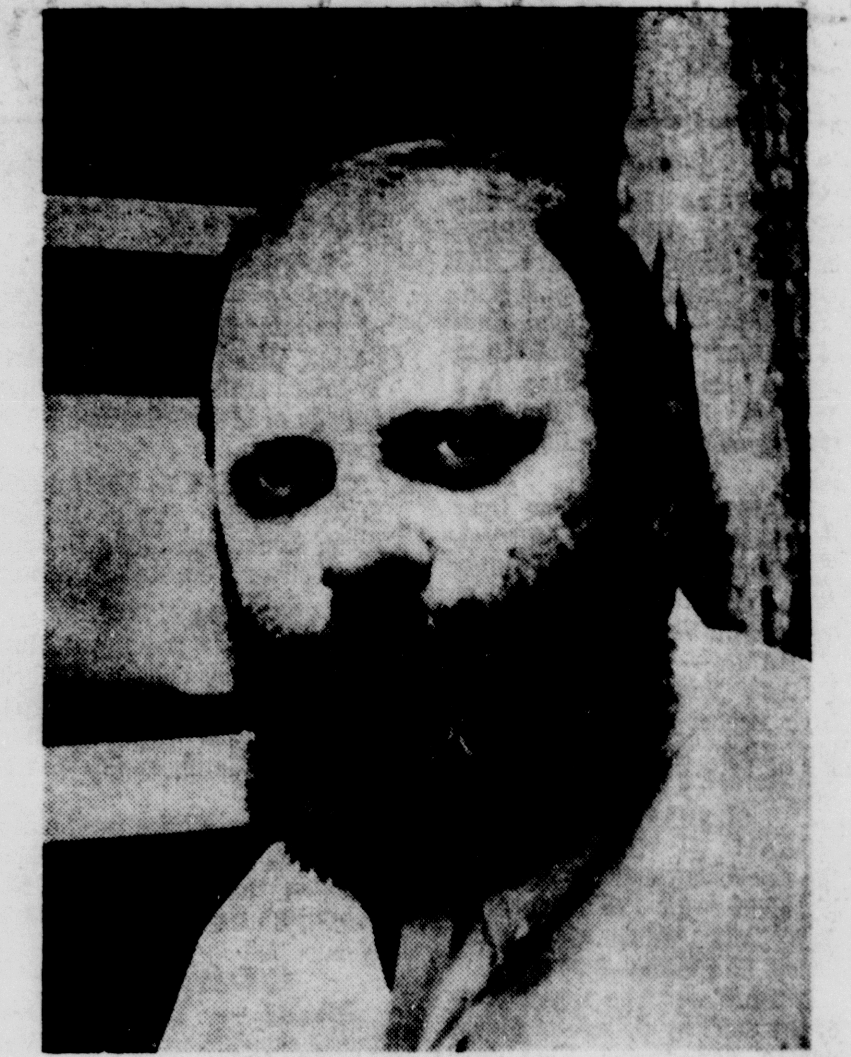
CAR OWNERS who may shake their heads over repair worries and bills can be guided by "Highway Robbery" by Sam Crowther and Irwin Winehouse, an expose on how motorists are swindled.

Fawcett World Library will publish their work as a Fawcett Gold Medal paperback (60 cents) this month. According to an advance review in Publisher's Weekly, "One of the authors did an expose for the now-defunct New York Journal-American and received 2,000 letters from victims, so this book contains some vivid real-life examples of the many auto rackets now flourishing."

IN 1965 and 1966, a group of leading authors gathered in New York City to discuss writers and writing.

From out of these sessions has come a 415-page volume, "The Writer's World," presenting the discussions in book form, edited by Elizabeth Janeway, president of Authors Guild.

Writers from John Cheever and Walter Kerr to Susan Sontag to Leo Rosten, Alfred Kazin and Marianne Moore are represented in the book published by McGraw-Hill. ($8.95.)



IVAN GOLD
An introspective tale

ONE HUNDRED and forty black and white photographs and 50,000 words comprise Myron and Nancy Wood's new book, "Colorado: Big Mountain Country," (Doubleday, $10), an impressionistic portrait of the state and its people. The ruggedness of the scenery is captured, above, in one of the photos from the book, a shot of an abandoned hut at the northern end of the San Luis Valley near Villa Grove with Sangre de Cristo Mountains in the background.

Entertaining Book About Language

WHOSE WHAT? by Dorothy Rose Blumberg; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 184 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

"WHOSE WHAT?" by Dorothy Rose Blumberg hardly rates as one of the more essential reference books, but it certainly is one of the most entertaining.

What Miss Blumberg has done is to run down the origins, histories and exact meanings of certain colorful terms that have crept into our language.

But she has set some very definite criteria for those expressions — each must consist of the name of a person, real or legendary, given in the possessive, plus a noun.

Thus we have Mother Carey's chickens, Hobson's choice, Queen Anne's lace, Salome's dance, Achilles' heel, Jacob's ladder, St. Vitus' dance, Boyle's 30 acres, Eratosthenes' sieve, Pandora's box, Zeno's paradoxes, etc.

It is suggested that "Whose What?" will be especially useful to crossword puzzle and acrostic fans. We suspect, however, it will be received most enthusiastically by those who simply find language a generally amusing and intriguing subject. Miss Blumberg's work is concise and cogent and should serve to clear away the haze through which we regard many expressions used frequently with only a vague understanding of what they mean or how they came about.

Habe Vs. Society Again

THE POISONED STREAM by Hans Habe; McGraw-Hill, 366 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

The controversial author of more than one international best-seller has indicted modern society once more.

This time one of Rome's more successful call-girls has been murdered, an event that in our day can be turned into a tidy fortune by those who know how.

The publisher of a weekly picture magazine is one who knows how (his hippie son readily learns); the slain girl's father, the reporter who finds the murderer, the prospective film makers, assorted blackmailers and other hangers-on are also eager to convert the dead girl into cold cash.

And of course there is the murderer, who agrees to write up his crime for a slice of the pie which is to include free passage out of the country. But first he is tucked away in a remote hotel to write it all out (the reporter will rewrite it of couse for maximum titillation).

The story is told in the first person by the eight principals involved; and the bylines heading each speech are unnecessary — the reader knows at once who is speaking. (Sharing honors for this: J. Maxwell Brownjohn, translator, who has put the story into a quick, idiomatic English that flows without a hitch).

All eight narrators rivet one to the page, but the murderer, who is an unacclaimed novelist, is an outstanding creation.

He puts his case, in an appropriately dry and literary style, as follows:

Blame for man's present inhumanity lies on the young, for they are the dominant corrupting force today. Therefore, youth must be wiped out.

Reviews Of New Reading

He acts on his beliefs. The call girl is not the first young female he has had to execute for poisoning the stream of life.

An extreme example of the generation gap, certainly. And yet as the police inspector (one of the two or three half-way decent characters in the whole cast) reads over the madman's memoirs, he is shaken to see the extent to which he shares some of his views.

"What if he (the murderer) had submitted that the old merit as much pity as the young? . . . "Is it really harder to inherit an ailing world than to leave that world without hope of witnessing its recovery?"

As is often true of Hans Habe's powerful novels, "The Poisoned Stream" is difficult to put aside, even after it is read.

HAROLD ROBBINS, a best selling author, makes another bid for commercial success in his latest novel, "The Inheritors."

Robbins Falls Short In Semi-Dirty Book

THE INHERITORS, by Harold Robbins; Trident Press, 406 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Gary Tischler.

Gather around, semi-dirty book lovers.Harold Robbins is back, just in time to compete with Irving Wallace in the book-stores.

I am sorry to report that this is not one of trusty Harold's better efforts. He seems to have hurried a bit this time around. "The Inheritors" is only 406 pages long, a little short of "The Carpetbaggers" and "The Adventurers," and the pages are long on dialogue and they're big print so that even a grandmother with fading eyesight could read it.

This one is supposed to be the final (promise?) installment in a trilogy comprised of "The Carpetbaggers" and "The Dream Merchants," all more or less dealing with the rise and fall of Hollywood.

Here we are in the modern times, but things are as nasty as ever. This one's about a television tycoon and a movie tycoon and their varied dealings with each other and wives, mistresses and what not.

For modernity's sake, one of them has a son that's a hippie, etc. The movie tycoon strongly resembles Joe Levine, if you like to play that kind of game, and what else is there to do?

Robbins will never top Grove Press, but there are several good things that can be said about his books and the man. For one thing, he's never conned anyone into saying that he produces works of art. Asked once what his next novel was going to be about, he replied that it would be "about 800 pages." Which is refreshingly honest for a change, although he missed by 400 pages this time.

His books read quickly and can be digested at breakfast, lunch and dinner. They make terrible movies but that's their problem.

The other promising note is that Robbins seems to have a faint affection for the people he dreams up. None of them are really despicable and rotten, when you get right down to it. They've all sold out for money and sex, but basically they're just like you and me. Or that other nice average joe, Howard Hughes.

Clear Science Guide

THE ATTRACTIVE UNIVERSE: Gravity and the Shape of Space, by E. G. Valens, World Publishing Co., 187 pages, indexed, $5.95. Reviewed by Jeff Greer.

Mill Valley author Valens and his colaborating photographer Berenice Abbot are a godsend to any parent who has offspring wanting to know "why things don't fall up," and "what keeps Apollo in orbit?"

Had I access to science textbooks as beautifully thought out and lucidly presented in my formative years, I'd probably be an active scientist today rather than a wistful looker-on. But then, few scientists, even teachers, have the gift of clear communication owned by Valens, a newsman turned prize-winning science education writer.

Ranging from a modern day interpretation of Newton's and Galileo's discoveries through tides and orbiting bodies, Valens' book uses little mathematics, many excellent photos made with the stop-action magic of stroboscopic lighting (yea, verily, much the same strobes as those in psychedelic light shows) and plenty of thought-provoking simile.

"The Attractive Universe" can be explored profitably by readers from teen-age to retirement-age — and can help answer a lot of whys.

Mrs. King Simply Recalls The Civil Rights Turmoil

MY LIFE WITH MARTIN LUTHER KING JR., by Coretta Scott King; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 372 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Barbara Hosmer.

There is nothing really new in Coretta King's book about the family for whom the civil rights movement became the focus of life through the Sixties.

But her simple telling of the spirit, the marches, the bombings and threats of violence during the black rights struggle in the South, where the movement began, gives those years a new reality in the light of the violent civil turmoil that came afterward and the current rethinking of methods to achieve equality and freedom for all groups of people.

Since her husband's violent death, Mrs. King herself has emerged as a national leader attempting to carry on the nonviolent movement for equality and peace. The events which she describes in the book led her husband to create and refine his philosophy of nonviolent action which she also has adopted.

Mainly a detailed account of the civil rights events themselves, the book also has its touching moments — cheering up Dr. King during bleak days in jail, keeping cool when a bomb exploded at the front door, giving the four children strength and understanding to endure the threats against their father and not to hate white people, running as normal a home as possible.

In her personal view Dr. King emerges on the border of Christian martydom, the good father and family man whose main energies had to be expended for the freedom of his people. As protrayed by his wife, Martin Luther King Jr. was always a public man.

An introspective tale

THREE SMALL books from the Sterling Publishing Co. are not small in content. "Creating with Beads" ($2.95) by Greta La Croix contains easy to follow instructions for making lovely gifts. "Making Dolls" by H. Witzig and G. E. Kuhn ($3.95) with step-by-step instructions and many photographs lead to the making of the simplest handkerchief doll or intricate dolls with hard heads and disc joints. "The Complete Crayon Book" ($8.95 by Chester Jay Alkema is a valuable book for teachers with interesting projects using crayons, paper bags, sponges and other materials.

THE 1879 edition of the widely discussed "McGuffey Readers" has been made available by Van Nostrand Reinhold Co. and they may be purchased individually or as a set.

The eight volumes, the Primer, Readers 1-6, and Webster's Elementary Spelling Book are prices at $28.25.

The series is reproduced from the original old plates of the most famous edition of the McGuffey Eclectic Readers, which enjoyed extensive use during the past century.

THE FILM RIGHTS to J. R. R. Tolkien's book, "The Lord of the Rings" have been sold to United Artists and a production is scheduled to get underway soon, according to publishers George Allen and Unwin Ltd. of London.

CAR OWNERS who may shake their heads over repair worries and bills can be guided by "Highway Robbery" by Sam Crowther and Irwin Winehouse, an expose on how motorists are swindled.

Fawcett World Library will publish their work as a Fawcett Gold Medal paperback (60 cents) this month. According to an advance review in Publisher's Weekly, "One of the authors did an expose for the now-defunct New York Journal-American and received 2,000 letters from victims, so this book contains some vivid real-life examples of the many auto rackets now flourishing."

IN 1965 and 1966, a group of leading authors gathered in New York City to discuss writers and writing.

From out of these sessions has come a 415-page volume, "The Writer's World," presenting the discussions in book form, edited by Elizabeth Janeway, president of Authors Guild.

Writers from John Cheever and Walter Kerr to Susan Sontag to Leo Rosten, Alfred Kazin and Marianne Moore are represented in the book published by McGraw-Hill. ($8.95.)

ONE HUNDRED and forty black and white photographs and 50,000 words comprise Myron and Nancy Wood's new book, "Colorado: Big Mountain Country," (Doubleday, $10), an impressionistic portrait of the state and its people. The ruggedness of the scenery is captured, above, in one of the photos from the book, a shot of an abandoned hut at the northern end of the San Luis Valley near Villa Grove with Sangre de Cristo Mountains in the background.

Entertaining Book About Language

WHOSE WHAT? by Dorothy Rose Blumberg; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 184 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

"WHOSE WHAT?" by Dorothy Rose Blumberg hardly rates as one of the more essential reference books, but it certainly is one of the most entertaining.

What Miss Blumberg has done is to run down the origins, histories and exact meanings of certain colorful terms that have crept into our language.

But she has set some very definite criteria for those expressions — each must consist of the name of a person, real or legendary, given in the possessive, plus a noun.

Thus we have Mother Carey's chickens, Hobson's choice, Queen Anne's lace, Salome's dance, Achilles' heel, Jacob's ladder, St. Vitus' dance, Boyle's 30 acres, Eratosthenes' sieve, Pandora's box, Zeno's paradoxes, etc.

It is suggested that "Whose What?" will be especially useful to crossword puzzle and acrostic fans. We suspect, however, it will be received most enthusiastically by those who simply find language a generally amusing and intriguing subject. Miss Blumberg's work is concise and cogent and should serve to clear away the haze through which we regard many expressions used frequently with only a vague understanding of what they mean or how they came about.

Around The Stereo Scene With Sunier

By JOHN SUNIER

A diverse group of recent releases from London Records:

"MUCHO GUSTO"—Los Machucambos — London Phase 4 SP 44117:

I don't usually spend time on the stereo show-off type of album, but this one has a lot going for it musically. Most of the London Phase-4 records ("the ultimate in stereo") have had fantastic sound and terrible music, but this one scores in both departments.

Two guys and a girl infuse Latin favorites with a special gusto and sparkling arrangements that are not overdone or corny. The usual standards are balanced by up-to-date numbers such as the theme from "A Man and a Woman," and bossa novas by Jobim and Bonfa. If happen to need a terrific Latin trio in your living room at the moment, search no farther.

"I'LL DUST MY BROOM"—Eddie Boyd and His Blues Band — London PS 554:

Eddie Boyd is part of what rock fans refer to as the "blues roots." He has been around for some time, playing the piano and singing the blues in small clubs around Chicago while keeping a chicken farm near there.

Now with increasing recognition among white blues performers (Aynsley Dunbar and John Mayall back up Boyd on this LP), black performers like Boyd are getting recorded more widely and appreciated by a new and larger audience. The tunes, mostly Boyd originals, are quite varied and have a nicely swinging lilt that points up their often sensitive lyrics.

"ROLLING STONES" — "Through the Past Darkly (Big Hits Vol. 2)" — London NPS-3:

After saying that this new Stones sampler boasts a singuler hexagonal jacket, all that's required is listing a few of the top eleven hits on the LP: "Paint It Black," "Jumpin' Jack Flash," "Mother's Little Helper," "Let's Spend the Night Together," "Street Fighting Man." The only one that fails for me is their new countrified hit, "Honky Tonk Women."

"TEN YEARS AFTER" — "Stonehenge" — Deram-London DES 18021:

This British rock group has earned attention with their live appearances in San Francisco as well as recordings. They have a gutsy blues sound and make effective use of various sound effects and technical tricks. "No Title" builds to a smashing climax and "Hear Me Calling" really socks it to ya'.

"THE MOODY BLUES:" "In Search of the Lost Chord" - Deram DES 18017; "On the Threshold of a Dream" - Deram DES 18025:

While the current fashion in rock demands a return to the simple, often sparse instrumental sound with little amplification and orchestral backing, The Moody Blues buck the trend with two excellent albums abounding in very artistic employment of the "big sound." Their producer refers to them as "the smallest symphony orchestra in the world."

The British quintet has to have a great deal of versalility to bring off their enveloping sound-poems; for example Justin Hayward is heard on guitars (12-string, acoustic, electric and bass), sitar, tablas, piano, harpsichord, mellotron and percussion, besides his vocal work.

The "Threshold of a Dream" album is the masterpiece of the two — a complete and beautifully-paced journey into inner thoughts. The truly fine poetry of the lyrics is printed in a lovely booklet inserted in the record sleeve. It's very difficult to mention specific tracks since both albums are such totalities in themselves. Bravo producer Tony Clarke and the Moody Blues for some rock creations in the best of taste and full of sensitivity!

DVORAK: Concert Overtures - "In Nature's Realm," "Carnival," "Othello," "Scherzo Capriccioso" — Londn Symphony /Istvan Kertesz — London CS 6574:

Kertesz has recorded the complete Dvorak Symphonies for London and these four pieces provided filler material on the set. There are all appealing short works with frequently changing emotional moods, as found in most Bohemian folk music. "Carnival" has been a concert favorite for some time, and the "Scherzo" is for me one of the most beautiful works Dvorak ever wrote. Kertesz is an expert in this music and the sound is well-captured by London's engineering department.

BALAKIREV: "Thamar;" LIADOV: "Baba Yaga;" "Kikimora;" "Eight Russian Popular Songs" — L'Orchestre de la Suisse Romande/Ansermet — London Stereo Treasury STS 15066:

London has had some excellent recent issues on its bargain label, mostly earlier stereo recordings on the higher-priced parent label. This one is bound to interest any fan of Russian orchestral music. Balakirev was the central figure of the famous "Five" and the tone poem "Thamar" one of his most important works. It derives from an old Russian legend and is very programmatic. The lighter Liadov works are all tied in with folklore or folk music of Russia also.

BRITTEN: The Prince of the Pagodas (ballet) — Orchestra of the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden/Britten — London Stereo Treasury STS 15081/82:

This two-disc album is a real event. It is a bargain-priced re-issue of Britten's exciting ballet score which was first issued about 15 years ago in mono only. Evidently London was taping in stereo at that time, for the sound here is genuine stereo and quite good.

The surfaces are an improvement over the original release as well. Not only is the scenario of this ballet oriental in nature, but Britten's music has been strongly influenced by nonwestern culture with interesting results.

The plot is easy to follow in the detailed notes while listening to the music. Since this ballet is never performed today, Britten should extract an orchestral suite from it, because the music is dop-drawer.

Tchaikovsky Interpretations

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Buried in and occasionally resurrected from Tchaikovsky's obscure orchestra suite Number 3 are a theme and 12 variations which constitute as beautiful a chunk of music as that master ever composed.

None of its loveliness is lost in a recording by the Moscow Pilharmonic with Kiril Kondrashin conducting and Boris Simsky playing its ethereal violin solo. It is on the same record as Kondrashin's interpretation of Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet" fantasy.

HERE IT is singled out for emphatic mention because this theme and its variations are a musical ahunt-when appreciatively played at full value. They lodge in the mind and come to consciousness at odd moments.

Kondrashin is perhaps the Russian conductor best known outside Russia because of his many appearance in the West. His intelligence and his emotions for Tchaikovsky are middle-of-the-road. He neither over-plays or holds back but he misses none of the lushness.

(Angel-Melodiya 40090).

COLUMBIA has performed a real service for Tchaikovsky by putting Leonard Bernstein's recordings of his three last symphonies — the 4th, 5th and the 6th or "Pathetique" — in a three-record album at a reduced price. The orchestra was the New York Philharmonic.

Bernstein's Tchaikovsky interpretations are not unlike Kondrashin. But Bernstein gives off no suggestion of the self-consciousness which is implicit in Kondrashin as though he suspected that listeners expected a Russian conductor to let out all the Tchaikovsky stops and he intended to show them how wrong they were.

Bernstein's album is called "The Great Tchaikovsky Symphones."

HE MAKES their greatness so inescapable one has to give them their proper rank among the great monuments of the symphonic literature. It's time Tchaikovsky was regaining the prestige that is due. Bernstein's respect for him is clearly profound (D3S 781).

Tchaikovsky's magnificent piano concerto has a new recording which is likely to make its way against its many rivals because it is filled with bouncy enthusiasm and showy abandonment from both the soloist, John Browning, and the conductor, Seiji Ozawa. The orchestra was the London Symphony (RCA-3069).

WEIGELA is one of the many deciduous flowering shrubs that can provide garden color during the cooler months. It is a medium-tall grower, with good-soze lush green foliage and sprays of flowers that smother the plant. The one above is a white "Snowflake," but Weigela also is available in pink and red.

Lack Of Privacy Is A Fatal Flaw

Nothing dulls the enjoyment of outdoor living more than the lack of privacy. Whether barbecuing a steak, sipping refreshments or soaking up the rays, you like freedom from an intruding outside world.

A fence can be built to gain this privacy, but is a fence enough? Fences don't always block the view from the house next door, and fences — be they wood or stone — are starkly barren.

A much better answer, says the California Association of Nurserymen, is to use the combination of fence and shrubs. Or, shrubs alone will often do the trick quite nicely.

GARDEN size is a consideration for the ideal shrubbery screen. This would consist of an informal planting several shrubs deep and in a variety of different shades of green and textures to lend interest. Modern landscapes are generally too small to accommodate this type planting, however.

The straight-line planting of tall hedge material is better adapted to smaller gardens. Discriminately selected, and situated in the planting area, a variety of shrubs is available for the home gardener to beautifully enclose his domain.

Of coarse, the factor governing the choice is height. Will one of the various Privets grow tall enough for your needs or would the taller Carolina Cherry or Eugenia (for coastal areas) be better?

These are erect growing specimens, but there are shrubs which attain good height and also spread in interesting fashion. Xylosma is one such shrub — it has soft green foilage that is pendulous and very attractive. The English Laurel, with its large dark green leaves, is another outstanding choice.

FOR FORMAL effects, which means the shrubs will have to take clipping and shaping, the Privets and Carolina Cherry fill-the-bill. English Laurel can be pruned.

Hanging Baskets Anytime

Hanging Baskets on porch and patio are a summer's delight, and there's no reason to discontinue enjoying this pleasure in the wintertime.

Where you live and the month will dictate what is available and members of the California Association of Nurserymen will have hanging basket plants for your area.

THE IVY family offers many possibilities. The English Ivy has long been an appealing specimen in a basket. There are smaller-leafed Ivies that are equally impressive. Hahn's Ivy is but one — it has soft green leaves whose sizes vary on the same plant. The texture alone is worth having and the trailing characteristics are outstanding.

Don't overlook Sasanqua Camellias for use in hanging baskets. The willowy dark green foliage is handsome and the cheery flowers are an added bonus. Your nurseryman has a good selection of Sasanqua varieties to choose from.

A perennial to consider is Campanula, which has lovely lavender star-shape blooms. The foliage is shrubby and makes a basket full of beauty.

Most ferns are tender to frost, but one that will tolerate temperatures in the high 20s is Sprenger's Fern. It has tiny needles in an almost-chartreuse color. It cascades nicely and a adds a refreshing touch to the porch of entryway.

PLECTRANTHUS is a trailing plant that will want some winter protection. It has apple green foliage and the leaves have a quilted or tufted look. It may be hard to pronounce, but its beauty is very pronounced and is an eye-stopper year-round.

Just because the cool season is approaching, there is no reason to forego enjoying hanging baskets. Visit your nearby nursery and check the possibilities — they're outstanding.

EVEN IN cooler weather Marin residents can continue to enjoy the beauty provided by hanging basket plants. Above is a sasanqua camellia, with spreading foliage.

Outdoor Lamp Aids Visitors

Have you ever been late for a dinner party because you couldn't find your friends' home? Probably it was another case of hidden house numbers — an annoying problem in many neighborhoods.

Homeowners can solve the problem by installing an outdoor lamp alongside the front walk or driveway, and arranging the house numbers on the lamp post, where they'll be well illuminated and plainly visible from the street.

Although any lamp will do, an intriguing idea is to put the lamp in a two-panel, right-angled cedar screen designed to accent a planting bed by the walk. This does even more to call attention to the numbers, and also to the entrance area.

New Garden Almanac

By EARL ARONSON

A Christmas gift bound to catch the fancy of adult gardeners is the new Hallmark Garden Almanac for 1970, prepared in cooperation with the New York Botanical Garden. It is in full color, the size of a record album.

The almanac includes a hanging wall calendar with illustrations of flowers, trees, plants and birds and space for daily notes or appointments.

THE MOST unusual feature is a revolving, fingertip dial on the inside cover, containing descriptions and color sketches of 16 house plants, recommended exposure and correct methods of propagation and cultivation.

There are instructions for making a potpourri, an indoor garden of succulents, a windowsill herb garden, a coffee-can bird feeder and other useful garden advice.

So we dialed "Asparagus Fern" on the back of the cover.

A PICTURE of the plant appeared in one slot. Beside it rolled the information: "An excellent basket plant. Grows well in general potting soil with less humidity than is required by a true fern. Allow soil to dry between soakings. Feed occasionally. Trim sprays to desired length to keep shape. Avoid overwatering and avoid direct sunlight in spring and summer."

IN THE SLOT marked "propagation" at the top left came the letters A&D and the interpretation was: A: Seeds — Start indoors in flat or flower pot in specially prepared soil. Water and shade container until germination. Thin out seedlings and transplant several times in progressively larger pots. D — Root Division — To divide, lift plants from soil and pull carefully apart. If necessary, use sharp knife to divide roots. Repot in proper sterilized soil, water and keep out of direct sunlight for a few days.

FINALLY, the color yellow filled the slot labeled "exposure," and this meant "partial" sunlight. For full exposure there is orange, and for northern, blue.

January's page advises on planting a terrarium and May on planting a strawberry tub.

Dual Role Plant

Want an easily cared for foliage plant that's both a decorative house plant and supplies interesting cut flower arrangements? Try the asparagus sprengeri, or "asparagus fern," in a six-inch clay pot. They are not fussy about light requirements and will do well in either a dry or humid atmosphere.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week.

✓ November is the month to start planting Tulips in California. Set them two to three inches deeper than recommended on most bulb charts.

✓ House plants should be fed lightly each month. Use liquid fish or other specially-formulated indoor plant foods which may be found at nurseries.

✓ Plant perennials for spring and summer bloom. Delphinium, Candytuft, Sweet William, Canterbury Bells, Coral Bells and a host of others may go in now.

✓ Fuchsias may be at the end of their blooming season, but should not be pruned until after the danger of winter frost has passed.

✓ Dahlias may be lifted as tops dry off. Hose off mud or dirt, dry the tubers in the sun and store them in a cool dry place. You can divide them next spring before replanting.

DVORAK: Concert Overtures - "In Nature's Realm," "Carnival," "Othello," "Scherzo Capriccioso" — Londn Symphony /Istvan Kertesz — London CS 6574:

Kertesz has recorded the complete Dvorak Symphonies for London and these four pieces provided filler material on the set. There are all appealing short works with frequently changing emotional moods, as found in most Bohemian folk music. "Carnival" has been a concert favorite for some time, and the "Scherzo" is for me one of the most beautiful works Dvorak ever wrote. Kertesz is an expert in this music and the sound is well-captured by London's engineering department.

THE ROLLING STONES have come up with a collection of top hits in their latest album "Through the Past Darkly."

BALAKIREV: "Thamar;" LIADOV: "Baba Yaga;" "Kikimora;" "Eight Russian Popular Songs" — L'Orchestre de la Suisse Romande/Ansermet — London Stereo Treasury STS 15066:

London has had some excellent recent issues on its bargain label, mostly earlier stereo recordings on the higher-priced parent label. This one is bound to interest any fan of Russian orchestral music. Balakirev was the central figure of the famous "Five" and the tone poem "Thamar" one of his most important works. It derives from an old Russian legend and is very programmatic. The lighter Liadov works are all tied in with folklore or folk music of Russia also.

BRITTEN: The Prince of the Pagodas (ballet) — Orchestra of the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden/Britten — London Stereo Treasury STS 15081/82:

This two-disc album is a real event. It is a bargain-priced re-issue of Britten's exciting ballet score which was first issued about 15 years ago in mono only. Evidently London was taping in stereo at that time, for the sound here is genuine stereo and quite good.

The surfaces are an improvement over the original release as well. Not only is the scenario of this ballet oriental in nature, but Britten's music has been strongly influenced by non-western culture with interesting results.

The plot is easy to follow in the detailed notes while listening to the music. Since this ballet is never performed today, Britten should extract an orchestral suite from it, because the music is dop-drawer.

Tchaikovsky Interpretations

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Buried in and occasionally resurrected from Tchaikovsky's obscure orchestra suite Number 3 are a theme and 12 variations which constitute as beautiful a chunk of music as that master ever composed.

None of its loveliness is lost in a recording by the Moscow Pilharmonic with Kiril Kondrashin conducting and Boris Simsky playing its ethereal violin solo. It is on the same record as Kondrashin's interpretation of Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet" fantasy.

HERE IT is singled out for emphatic mention because this theme and its variations are a musical ahunt-when appreciatively played at full value. They lodge in the mind and come to consciousness at odd moments.

Kondrashin is perhaps the Russian conductor best known outside Russia because of his many appearance in the West. His intelligence and his emotions for Tchaikovsky are middle-of-the-road. He neither over-plays or holds back but he misses none of the lushness.

(Angel-Melodiya 40090).

COLUMBIA has performed a real service for Tchaikovsky by putting Leonard Bernstein's recordings of his three last symphonies — the 4th, 5th and the 6th or "Pathetique" — in a three-record album at a reduced price. The orchestra was the New York Philharmonic.

Bernstein's Tchaikovsky interpretations are not unlike Kondrashin. But Bernstein gives off no suggestion of the self-consciousness which is implicit in Kondrashin as though he suspected that listeners expected a Russian conductor to let out all the Tchaikovsky stops and he intended to show them how wrong they were.

Bernstein's album is called "The Great Tchaikovsky Symphones."

HE MAKES their greatness so inescapable one has to give them their proper rank among the great monuments of the symphonic literature. It's time Tchaikovsky was regaining the prestige that is due. Bernstein's respect for him is clearly profound (D3S 781).

Tchaikovsky's magnificent piano concerto has a new recording which is likely to make its way against its many rivals because it is filled with bouncy enthusiasm and showy abandonment from both the soloist, John Browning, and the conductor, Seiji Ozawa. The orchestra was the London Symphony (RCA-3069).

Home Additions Can Provide Space, Solve Many Problems

By VIVIAN BROWN

Architects and builders are advising home owners to put additions on their houses, if they've been quashed in their efforts to build or buy a new house.

In this tight money market, this idea makes a lot of sense. Why sell a house with a six per cent mortgage to buy one that will require almost twice that interest, unless it is an absolute necessity.

MANY PEOPLE must accept the new mortgage interest rates because of job transfers.

If a new house is desired because the old one is bursting at the seams, the addition to the existing house may solve the problem.

Some banks happily continue to lend money for home improvements, but others are uptight and lend it only to their own depositors.

Home improvement interest rates have risen, but the smaller investment entails less risk, if the house addition is given considerable thought.

FOR EXAMPLE, you must be sure that you can get your money out of the house if you add a room or more. If you are living in a development area where houses carry identical price tags, you must decide whether the addition will out-price your house for that particular area.

If the houses range in value from moderate to high, you can more safely invest a good sum and anticipate appreciation of your investment.

The next step is to consider what is needed space-wise at this time. Some people get carried away by the idea when they plan with an architect or builder, and the original plan may sprout Topsy-like from a tiny nursery to a three-room apartment.

IT IS far better now to plan a simple addition with a view to future expansion than to take on a large debt to have more space than you really need at the moment, even though an "well, as long as we are doing it . . ." feeling prevails.

If you choose a building contractor for the project, the exact cost should be presented in a written estimate, and the agreement between builder and owner should specify all details. You don't want to quibble over the kind of windows, plywood or other materials used in the house.

It is far easier to discuss such things before work has begun. A good builder will use good materials, but he may not visualize the stylish trim that interests you.

SQUABBLES that develop between builder and owner are usually the result of misunderstandings.

IT IS safe to paint over wallpaper only when the paper sticks to the wall so tightly that you can't tear it off. If it comes off easily, the weight of the paint will loosen the paper within weeks or months.

In using a patching compound to make a repair around the flashing on the outside of a house, it is important that the area first be brushed throroughly to remove any dirt particles that might interfere with proper adhesion.

Knots can be prevented from bleeding through paint by coating them with shellac, aluminum paint or one of the several knot-sealing products on the market.

Lack Of Privacy Is A Fatal Flaw

Nothing dulls the enjoyment of outdoor living more than the lack of privacy. Whether barbecuing a steak, sipping refreshments or soaking up the rays, you like freedom from an intruding outside world.

A fence can be built to gain this privacy, but is a fence enough? Fences don't always block the view from the house next door, and fences — be they wood or stone — are starkly barren.

A much better answer, says the California Association of Nurserymen, is to use the combination of fence and shrubs. Or, shrubs alone will often do the trick quite nicely.

GARDEN size is a consideration for the ideal shrubbery screen. This would consist of an informal planting several shrubs deep and in a variety of different shades of green and textures to lend interest. Modern landscapes are generally too small to accommodate this type planting, however.

The straight-line planting of tall hedge material is better adapted to smaller gardens. Discriminately selected, and situated in the planting area, a variety of shrubs is available for the home gardener to beautifully enclose his domain.

Of coarse, the factor governing the choice is height. Will one of the various Privets grow tall enough for your needs or would the taller Carolina Cherry or Eugenia (for coastal areas) be better?

These are erect growing specimens, but there are shrubs which attain good height and also spread in interesting fashion. Xylosma is one such shrub — it has soft green foilage that is pendulous and very attractive. The English Laurel, with its large dark green leaves, is another outstanding choice.

FOR FORMAL effects, which means the shrubs will have to take clipping and shaping, the Privets and Carolina Cherry fill-the-bill. English Laurel can be pruned.

Hanging Baskets Anytime

Hanging Baskets on porch and patio are a summer's delight, and there's no reason to discontinue enjoying this pleasure in the wintertime.

Where you live and the month will dictate what is available and members of the California Association of Nurserymen will have hanging basket plants for your area.

THE IVY family offers many possibilities. The English Ivy has long been an appealing specimen in a basket. There are smaller-leafed Ivies that are equally impressive. Hahn's Ivy is but one — it has soft green leaves whose sizes vary on the same plant. The texture alone is worth having and the trailing characteristics are outstanding.

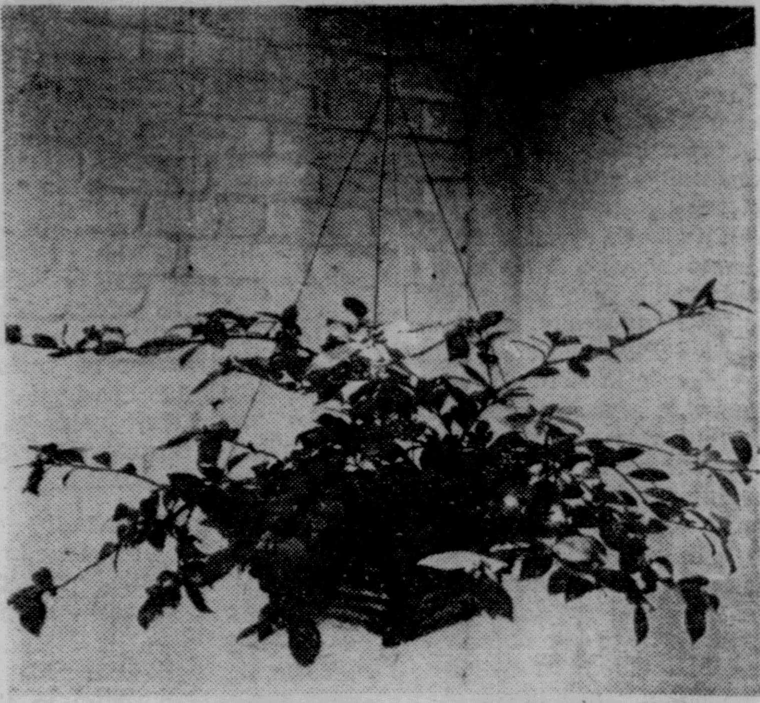
Don't overlook Sasanqua Camellias for use in hanging baskets. The willowy dark green foliage is handsome and the cheery flowers are an added bonus. Your nurseryman has a good selection of Sasanqua varieties to choose from.

A perennial to consider is Campanula, which has lovely lavender star-shape blooms. The foliage is shrubby and makes a basket full of beauty.

Most ferns are tender to frost, but one that will tolerate temperatures in the high 20s is Sprenger's Fern. It has tiny needles in an almost-chartreuse color. It cascades nicely and a adds a refreshing touch to the porch of entryway.

PLECTRANTHUS is a trailing plant that will want some winter protection. It has apple green foliage and the leaves have a quilted or tufted look. It may be hard to pronounce, but its beauty is very pronounced and is an eye-stopper year-round.

Just because the cool season is approaching, there is no reason to forego enjoying hanging baskets. Visit your nearby nursery and check the possibilities — they're outstanding.



EVEN IN cooler weather Marin residents can continue to enjoy the beauty provided by hanging basket plants. Above is a sasanqua camellia, with spreading foliage.

Outdoor Lamp Aids Visitors

Have you ever been late for a dinner party because you couldn't find your friends' home? Probably it was another case of hidden house numbers — an annoying problem in many neighborhoods.

Homeowners can solve the problem by installing an outdoor lamp alongside the front walk or driveway, and arranging the house numbers on the lamp post, where they'll be well illuminated and plainly visible from the street.

Although any lamp will do, an intriguing idea is to put the lamp in a two-panel, right-angled cedar screen designed to accent a planting bed by the walk. This does even more to call attention to the numbers, and also to the entrance area.

New Garden Almanac

By EARL ARONSON

A Christmas gift bound to catch the fancy of adult gardeners is the new Hallmark Garden Almanac for 1970, prepared in cooperation with the New York Botanical Garden. It is in full color, the size of a record album.

The almanac includes a hanging wall calendar with illustrations of flowers, trees, plants and birds and space for daily notes or appointments.

THE MOST unusual feature is a revolving, fingertip dial on the inside cover, containing descriptions and color sketches of 16 house plants, recommended exposure and correct methods of propagation and cultivation.

There are instructions for making a potpourri, an indoor garden of succulents, a windowsill herb garden, a coffee-can bird feeder and other useful garden advice.

So we dialed "Asparagus Fern" on the back of the cover.

A PICTURE of the plant appeared in one slot. Beside it rolled the information: "An excellent basket plant. Grows well in general potting soil with less humidity than is required by a true fern. Allow soil to dry between soakings. Feed occasionally. Trim sprays to desired length to keep shape. Avoid overwatering and avoid direct sunlight in spring and summer."

IN THE SLOT marked "propagation" at the top left came the letters A&D and the interpretation was: A: Seeds — Start indoors in flat or flower pot in specially prepared soil. Water and shade container until germination. Thin out seedlings and transplant several times in progressively larger pots. D — Root Division — To divide, lift plants from soil and pull carefully apart. If necessary, use sharp knife to divide roots. Repot in proper sterilized soil, water and keep out of direct sunlight for a few days.

FINALLY, the color yellow filled the slot labeled "exposure," and this meant "partial" sunlight. For full exposure there is orange, and for northern, blue.

January's page advises on planting a terrarium and May on planting a strawberry tub.

Dual Role Plant

Want an easily cared for foliage plant that's both a decorative house plant and supplies interesting cut flower arrangements? Try the asparagus sprengeri, or "asparagus fern," in a six-inch clay pot. They are not fussy about light requirements and will do well in either a dry or humid atmosphere.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week.

✓ November is the month to start planting Tulips in California. Set them two to three inches deeper than recommended on most bulb charts.

✓ House plants should be fed lightly each month. Use liquid fish or other specially-formulated indoor plant foods which may be found at nurseries.

✓ Plant perennials for spring and summer bloom. Delphinium, Candytuft, Sweet William, Canterbury Bells, Coral Bells and a host of others may go in now.

✓ Fuchsias may be at the end of their blooming season, but should not be pruned until after the danger of winter frost has passed.

✓ Dahlias may be lifted as tops dry off. Hose off mud or dirt, dry the tubers in the sun and store them in a cool dry place. You can divide them next spring before replanting.

Hundreds of extra heavy duty double tempered coil springs for the support needed for comfortable sleep. Over these coils is the finest insulation – one of the most dense natural fibers known (so tough they make rope out of it). This insulates the coils from the surface and then by adding a heavy layer of billowy soft cotton felt – we provide surface comfort teamed with a firm supporting innerspring unit.

Over all this we add a floral print which adds not only beauty but, being quilted to foam acts as another insulator.

These mattresses, being bench made (hand made and individually assembled) utilize a flanged construction which locks all filling materials in place so they can't shift. Some mattresses are cranked out like sausages from a filling box, cannot have these features but Sealy takes the time to do it right.

Sealy made these sets to our specifications and coupling our 40 years of professional successful furniture knowledge with Sealy's engineering and quality know how, the result is an incomparable sleep set you have to try to believe. This set will not be found in the average furniture store – but then – who wants to be average? Our success record lies in our desire to be better.

We don't just sell mattress sets we selected a responsible source and used our knowledge and experience to create the best we can find at the most competitive price all the service is done automatically – we can't change years of habit.

Matching box spring (or foundation) engineered to team up with the mattress to give proper support to the mattress and those people enjoying its benefits. The foundation is stabilized to prevent side sway or any length-wise shifting of springs.

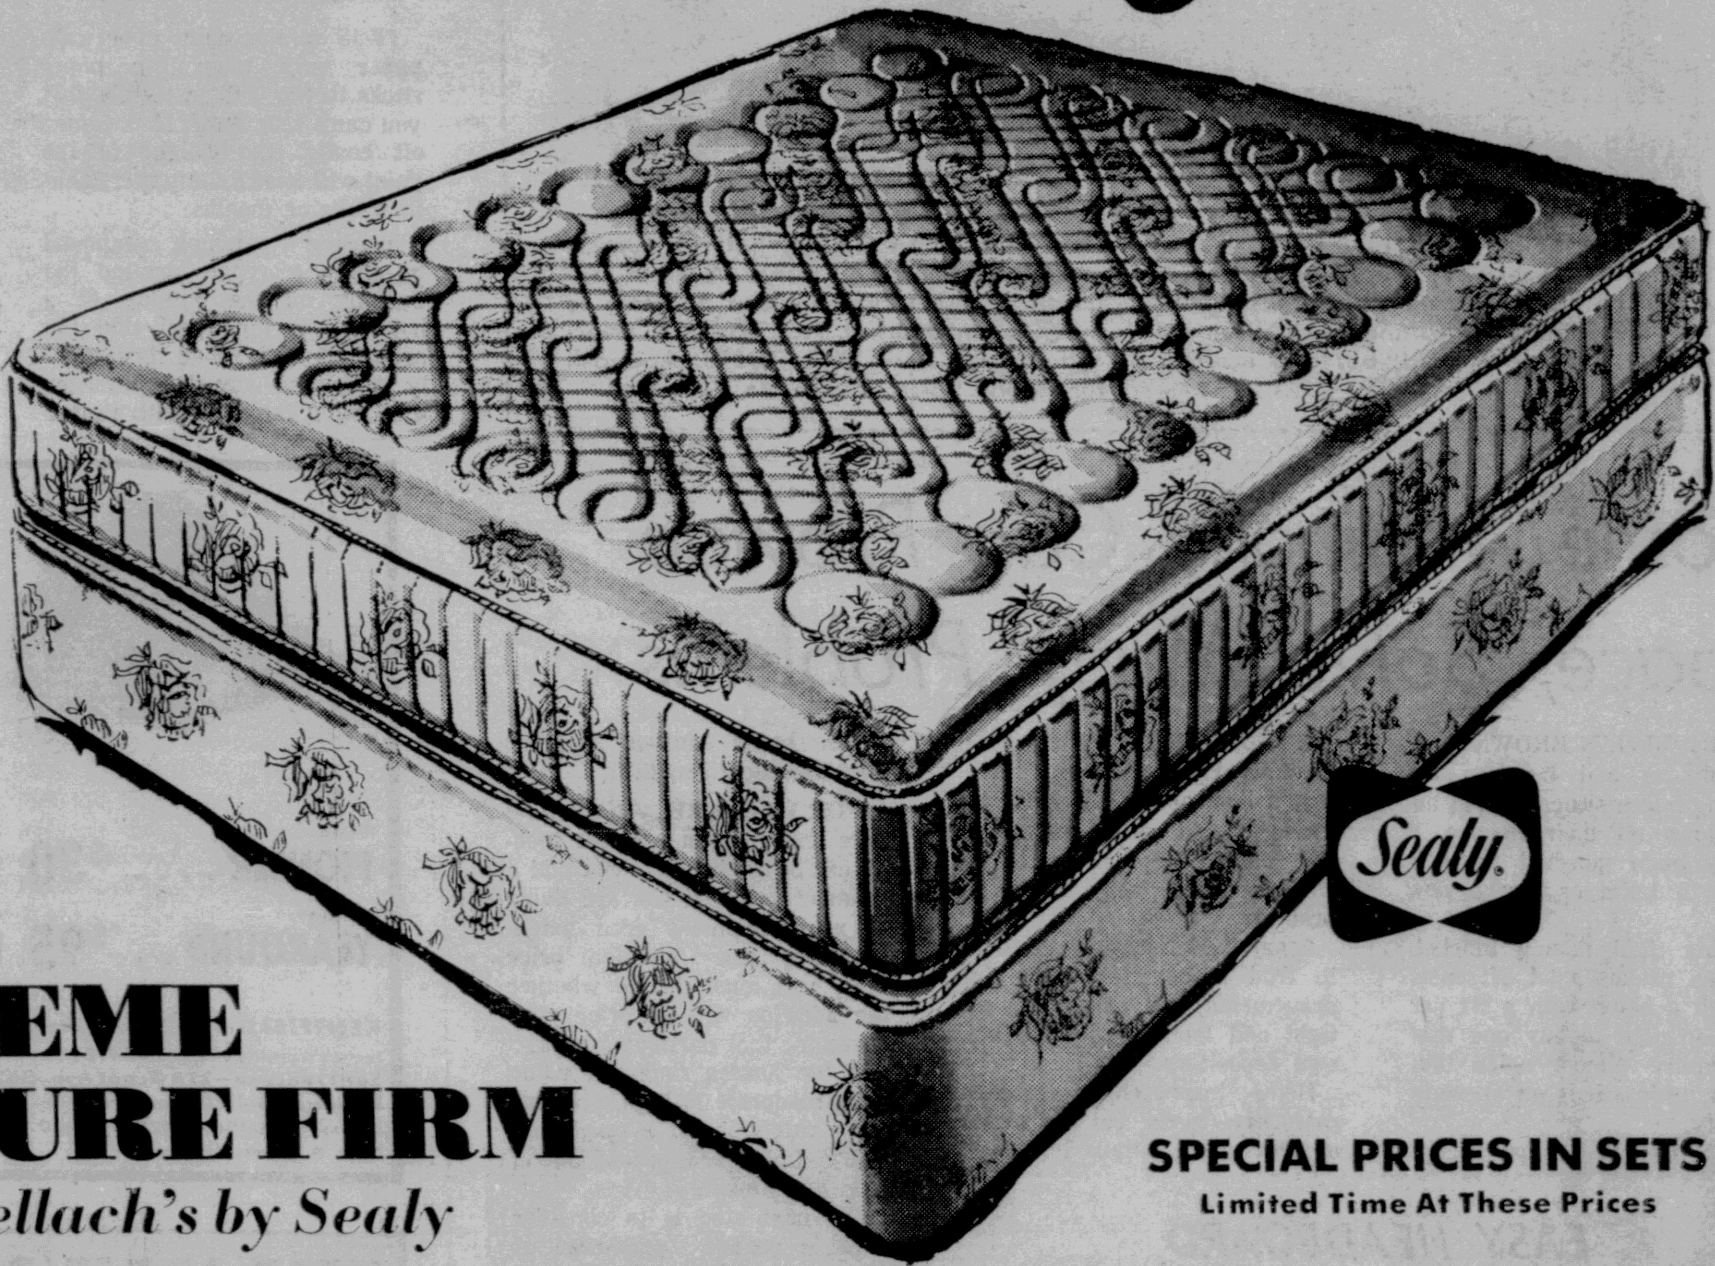
It's got to be good... it's a Sealy!



SUPREME POSTURE FIRM

Made for Bellach's by Sealy

SPECIAL PRICES IN SETS

Limited Time At These Prices

Hundreds of extra heavy duty double tempered coil springs for the support needed for comfortable sleep. Over these coils is the finest insulation—one of the most dense natural fibers known (so tough they make rope out of it). This insulates the coils from the surface and then by adding a heavy layer of billowy soft cotton felt—we provide surface comfort teamed with a firm supporting innerspring unit.

Over all this we add a floral print which adds not only beauty but, being quilted to foam acts as another insulator.

These mattresses, being bench made (hand made and individually assembled) utilize a flanged construction which locks all filling materials in place so they can't shift. Some mattresses are cranked out like sausages from a filling box, cannot have these features but Sealy takes the time to do it right.

Sealy made these sets to our specifications and coupling our 40 years of professional successful furniture knowledge with Sealy's engineering and quality know how, the result is an incomparable sleep set you have to try to believe. This set will not be found in the average furniture store—but then—who wants to be average? Our success record lies in our desire to be better.

We don't just sell mattress sets we selected a responsible source and used our knowledge and experience to create the best we can find at the most competitive price all the service is done automatically—we can't change years of habit.

Matching box spring (or foundation) engineered to team up with the mattress to give proper support to the mattress and those people enjoying its benefits. The foundation is stabilized to prevent side sway or any length-wise shifting of springs.

Made by the makers of the Famous Sealy Posturepedic.

Combination Pie Wins Recipe Contest

An attempt to "dress up" pumpkin pie to please both the pumpkin and orange pie lovers in her family resulted in a recipe that has won the first prize of $100 for Mrs. Frank Inglin of Petaluma in the Independent-Journal Recipe Contest.

"The wedding of our two favorites has produced our now favorite pie," explains Mrs. Inglin, who calls her winner "Hidden Treasure Pumpkin Pie."

Taking the second prize award of $20, James M. Barnett of Terra Linda took a cookbook bread recipe and altered it to create a flavorful tea bread with a crusty texture.

Home economist Virginia Shattuck of San Rafael found the judging a big job, with more than 800 recipes entered in the contest, which was co-sponsored by the I-J and a group of Marin stores. Miss Shattuck, who tested the entries, said that the recipes are better than ever this year.

The other 23 winners, who will claim prizes of $5 each, are Mmes. J. K. Andrews, San Rafael; Edith Bilay, San Anselmo; Judy Merriman, Novato; Stanley Brooks, Mill Valley; Faye Smith, Novato; Barbara Loar, Mill Valley; Robert Satterthwaite, San Anselmo; Richard L. Raab, San Rafael; Daniel J. Ritter, San Rafael; Larry Amerman, Corte Madera; William Kelley, Corte Madera; Nicholas Truog, Novato; E. B. Gearhart, San Rafael; James D. Fletcher, San Rafael; Lum Barger, Novato; Milton Flynn Jr., San Rafael; Sandra Foli; Hamilton Air Force Base; Jean A. Cuevas, San Rafael; Irene Paolino, San Anselmo; J. D. Eatherton, Mill Valley; Elmer J. Starke, Petaluma; George Pelto, San Anselmo; and Dovre C. Jensen, San Rafael.

Mrs. Inglin's first prize winner:

HIDDEN TREASURE PUMPKIN PIE

1 pie shell, unbaked, 9-inch

Ingredients for pumpkin layer:

2 eggs, well beaten
1½ cups canned pumpkin
½ cup brown sugar
½ tsp. salt
1 cup evaporated milk
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. ginger
¼ tsp. cloves
2 tbsp. grated orange rind

Ingredients for orange filling:

2 egg yolks
½ cup granulated sugar
3 tbsp. cornstarch
1¼ cups orange juice
1 tbsp. butter or margarine

For meringue:

2 egg whites
4 tbsp. sugar
¼ tsp. orange extract
⅛ tsp. salt
½ cup chopped walnut meats or coconut.

Thoroughly blend ingredients for pumpkin filling in the order given. Pour filling into pie shell. Bake in a hot (425°) over 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350° and bake 30 minutes, or until set. Remove from oven.

While pumpkin is baking, make orange filling as follows: In top of double boiler, beat egg yolks. Add sugar, cornstarch, and orange juice and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in butter or margarine.

Make meringue as follows: Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Add salt. Beat in sugar gradually. Add flavoring.

Spread orange layer on top of pumpkin filling.

Swirl meringue on top of orange layer. Sprinkle with chopped walnut meats, or coconut. Return to moderate oven to brown meringue (350° about 15 minutes).

James Barnett's second prize recipe:

SIERRA BOOSTER BREAD

½ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
1 tbsp. lemon juice
½ tsp. almond extract
1 cup whole wheat flour (sift before measuring)
¾ cup graham flour (do not remove chaff)
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. soda
½ tsp. salt
½ cup mashed ripe banana (one large banana)
¾ cup applesauce
1 cup grated coconut (toasted)

Beat butter and sugar together until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Beat in eggs. Add milk, lemon juice and almond extract. Sift flour, baking powder, soda and, salt together, and return coarser parts of flour to the mixture. Beat flour very slowly into butter, egg and sugar mixture. Add banana and applesauce and beat slowly until well mixed. Stir in toasted coconut. (Coconut should be toasted in 300° oven until golden brown). Bake in a well-greased 9½x5½x3½ loaf pan at 350° for one hour or until done when tested with toothpick. Turn out of pan to cool.

"This recipe originated in the Sunset Cook Book of Breads. I have altered it considerably and like it much better than the original. The flavor is now very distinct and the texture is rough and crunchy. The golden brown color and the appealing flavor make an excellent tea bread," remarks Mr. Barnett.

Cut The Tip Off Chicken Wing For Drumstick Hors D'Oeuvre

From Mrs. Milton Flynn Jr., 372 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael.

BABY DRUMSTICKS
(Hors d'oeuvre)

Have your butcher prepare chicken wings as follows: The wingtip should be cut off (have him package these for you to use in making chicken broth) and then he should cut the remainder of each wing in two at the joint. There are appoximately 5 wings to one pound.

Each pound of chicken wings will yield 10 to 12 baby drumsticks when cut as directed.

Use a container large enough to hold the chicken which you will marinate for several hours, preferably overnight, in the refrigerator.

For every three pounds of wings allow the following marinade

¼ cup soy sauce
½ cup sherry (dry variety)
3 teaspoons sliced fresh garlic
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
2 tablespoons sliced fresh ginger (available in produce deparment of most grocery stores)
2 teaspoons granulated sugar
4 small dried hot red chiles seeded and crushed (or substitute ½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce)
⅓ cup oil

Stir well, add water to cover and stir again. Marinate overnight and stir during the next day every couple of hours. If unable to marinate overnight, do not add water. Simply marinate for one hour and stir well every 15 minutes. If water is not used, do not marinate over 4 hours.

Drain and arrange on broiler pan (not too close together as they must cook through and broil til brown and tender.

A very special touch may be added just before serving by the use of toasted black sesame seeds. Toast over medium heat in skillet (do not burn — you will have to taste them to know when they are toasted as you can't tell from their color). After toasting chop, crush, or place in blender for a minute to crack them up. Do these ahead and when you remove wings from broiler sprinkle these generously over the wings before serving.

NOTE: The above can be used in another way as a main course. Take Rock Cornish Game Hens, split in halves, marinated, and then barbecued cut side first for 15 minutes, then turn and cook skin side for 15 minutes about 4 inches from the coals. No bastc is necessary. Allow ½ game hen per serving. Serve with rice pilaf and salad. Use 22 to 24 oz. birds.

Chopped Brazil Nuts Add Flavor To Caramel Candy

From Mrs. Edith Bilay, 34 Carolina Avenue, San Anselmo.

DELICIOUS CARAMEL CANDY

Mix together 1 tin sweetened condensed milk (not evaporated), 2 cups brown sugar, ¾ cup corn syrup, ¼ pound butter, pinch of salt. Boil for 25 minutes, stirring continally to stiff ball stage. Line buttered pan with chopped Brazil nuts and pour in the mixture. When cold cut in squares and wrap in waxed paper.

"I entered this recipe in the San Francisco food show in 1932. It won first prize," comments the cook.

Holiday COOK BOOK

Featuring

The 25 Winning RECIPES

I-J Recipe Contest

ROCKY ROAD Bars combine two holiday favorites—cookies and candy—into one delicious bite. They're a must for fudge and chocolate chip cookie fans. And, who'd believe a macaroon from refrigerated sugar cookies? Easy as rolling them in coconut and baking!

Two Cookie Recipes To Interest The Children

Rocky Road Bars will win you encores with the younger set (and other chocolate lovers, too). It is simple to make with just three ingredients — refrigerated chocolate chip cookies, fudge walnut frosting mix, and miniature marshmallows.

Toasted Sugar Macaroons are another welcome "mitten food." These chewy snowballs, made with refrigerated sugar cookies, double as a base for decorative goodies — a glistening cherry or a perky chocolate kiss.

ROCKY ROAD SQUARES

1 roll refrigerated slice-and-bake chocolate chip cookies
1 13 oz. package walnut fudge frosting mix
1 cup miniature marshmallows

Oven 375°.

Slice cookie dough ¼-inch thick and place slices in bottom of greased 8 or 9-inch square pan. Bake at 375° for 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly brown. (Cookies will be puffy when removed from oven.) Cool slightly.

Prepare cooked version of frosting as directed on package. Fold in marshmallows and spread over cookie base. Allow cookies to set for at least one hour. Cut into 36 squares.

TOASTED SUGAR MACAROONS

Oven 375°.

Slice 1 roll refrigerated slice-and-bake sugar cookies ¾-inch thick. Cut each slice into four quarters. Roll each into a ball and press into 1½ cups cookie coconut. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake at 375° for 10 minutes or until coconut is lightly browned. Remove from oven and immediately garnish the center of each with candied fruits, colorful jellies, or chocolate kisses. Cool completely. Makes 48 cookies.

To tint coconut, add 1 drop of desired color to coconut. Cover container and shake well.

SPINACH BALLS

1969

⅛ teaspoon MSG.
Dash of garlic powder
Large pinch poultry seasoning
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook spinach according to directions; drain and, with hands, squeeze most of the moisture out. Mix well with rest of ingredients. Place in bowl, cover, and refrigerate four hours or overnight. When ready to cook, take small amounts in hand, form in small balls, roll in flour, and drop into a large pan of boiling salted water. Balls will sink to bottom, then rise to top. When risen, boil gently for 12 minutes. Remove with a well-slotted spoon, making sure all water is removed. (To make sure, gently place them in a collander a few at a time). Place in a chafing dish. Pour your favorite spaghetti sauce over them and sprinkle with grated parmesan cheese. Serve hot.

Combination Pie Wins Recipe Contest

An attempt to "dress up" pumpkin pie to please both the pumpkin and orange pie lovers in her family resulted in a recipe that has won the first prize of $100 for Mrs. Frank Inglin of Petaluma in the Independent-Journal Recipe Contest.

"The wedding of our two favorites has produced our now favorite pie," explains Mrs. Inglin, who calls her winner "Hidden Treasure Pumpkin Pie."

Taking the second prize award of $20, James M. Barnett of Terra Linda took a cookbook bread recipe and altered it to create a flavorful tea bread with a crusty texture.

Home economist Virginia Shattuck of San Rafael found the judging a big job, with more than 800 recipes entered in the contest, which was co-sponsored by the I-J and a group of Marin stores. Miss Shattuck, who tested the entries, said that the recipes are better than ever this year.

The other 23 winners, who will claim prizes of $5 each, are Mmes. J. K. Andrews, San Rafael; Edith Bilay, San Anselmo; Judy Merriman, Novato; Stanley Brooks, Mill Valley; Faye Smith, Novato; Barbara Loar, Mill Valley; Robert Satterthwaite, San Anselmo; Richard L. Raab, San Rafael; Daniel J. Ritter, San Rafael; Larry Amerman, Corte Madera; William Kelley, Corte Madera; Nicholas Truog, Novato; E. B. Gearhart, San Rafael; James D. Fletcher, San Rafael; Lum Barger, Novato; Milton Flynn Jr., San Rafael; Sandra Foli; Hamilton Air Force Base; Jean A. Cuevas, San Rafael; Irene Paolino, San Anselmo; J. D. Eatherton, Mill Valley; Elmer J. Starke, Petaluma; George Pelto, San Anselmo; and Dovre C. Jensen, San Rafael.

Mrs. Inglin's first prize winner:

HIDDEN TREASURE PUMPKIN PIE

1 pie shell, unbaked, 9-inch

Ingredients for pumpkin layer:

2 eggs, well beaten
1½ cups canned pumpkin
½ cup brown sugar
½ tsp. salt
1 cup evaporated milk
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. ginger
¼ tsp. cloves
2 tbsp. grated orange rind

Ingredients for orange filling:

2 egg yolks
½ cup granulated sugar
3 tbsp. cornstarch
1¼ cups orange juice
1 tbsp. butter or margarine

For meringue:

2 egg whites
4 tbsp. sugar
¼ tsp. orange extract
⅛ tsp. salt
½ cup chopped walnut meats or coconut.

Thoroughly blend ingredients for pumpkin filling in the order given. Pour filling into pie shell. Bake in a hot (425°) over 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350° and bake 30 minutes, or until set. Remove from oven.

While pumpkin is baking, make orange filling as follows: In top of double boiler, beat egg yolks. Add sugar, cornstarch, and orange juice and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in butter or margarine.

Make meringue as follows: Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Add salt. Beat in sugar gradually. Add flavoring.

Spread orange layer on top of pumpkin filling.

Swirl meringue on top of orange layer. Sprinkle with chopped walnut meats, or coconut. Return to moderate oven to brown meringue (350° about 15 minutes).

James Barnett's second prize recipe:

SIERRA BOOSTER BREAD

½ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
1 tbsp. lemon juice
½ tsp. almond extract
1 cup whole wheat flour (sift before measuring)
¾ cup graham flour (do not remove chaff)
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. soda
½ tsp. salt
½ cup mashed ripe banana (one large banana)
¾ cup applesauce
1 cup grated coconut (toasted)

Beat butter and sugar together until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Beat in eggs. Add milk, lemon juice and almond extract. Sift flour, baking powder, soda and, salt together, and return coarser parts of flour to the mixture. Beat flour very slowly into butter, egg and sugar mixture. Add banana and applesauce and beat slowly until well mixed. Stir in toasted coconut. (Coconut should be toasted in 300° oven until golden brown). Bake in a well-greased 9½x5½x3½ loaf pan at 350° for one hour or until done when tested with toothpick. Turn out of pan to cool.

"This recipe originated in the Sunset Cook Book of Breads. I have altered it considerably and like it much better than the original. The flavor is now very distinct and the texture is rough and crunchy. The golden brown color and the appealing flavor make an excellent tea bread," remarks Mr. Barnett.

Cut The Tip Off Chicken Wing For Drumstick Hors D'Oeuvre

From Mrs. Milton Flynn Jr., 372 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael.

BABY DRUMSTICKS
(Hors d'oeuvre)

Have your butcher prepare chicken wings as follows: The wingtip should be cut off (have him package these for you to use in making chicken broth) and then he should cut the remainder of each wing in two at the joint. There are appoximately 5 wings to one pound.

Each pound of chicken wings will yield 10 to 12 baby drumsticks when cut as directed.

Use a container large enough to hold the chicken which you will marinate for several hours, preferably overnight, in the refrigerator.

For every three pounds of wings allow the following marinade

¼ cup soy sauce
½ cup sherry (dry variety)
3 teaspoons sliced fresh garlic
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
2 tablespoons sliced fresh ginger (available in produce deparment of most grocery stores)
2 teaspoons granulated sugar
4 small dried hot red chiles seeded and crushed (or substitute ½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce)
⅓ cup oil

Stir well, add water to cover and stir again. Marinate overnight and stir during the next day every couple of hours. If unable to marinate overnight, do not add water. Simply marinate for one hour and stir well every 15 minutes. If water is not used, do not marinate over 4 hours.

Drain and arrange on broiler pan (not too close together as they must cook through and broil til brown and tender.

A very special touch may be added just before serving by the use of toasted black sesame seeds. Toast over medium heat in skillet (do not burn — you will have to taste them to know when they are toasted as you can't tell from their color). After toasting chop, crush, or place in blender for a minute to crack them up. Do these ahead and when you remove wings from broiler sprinkle these generously over the wings before serving.

NOTE: The above can be used in another way as a main course. Take Rock Cornish Game Hens, split in halves, marinated, and then barbecued cut side first for 15 minutes, then turn and cook skin side for 15 minutes about 4 inches from the coals. No baste is necessary. Allow ½ game hen per serving. Serve with rice pilaf and salad. Use 22 to 24 oz. birds.

Chopped Brazil Nuts Add Flavor To Caramel Candy

From Mrs. Edith Bilay, 34 Carolina Avenue, San Anselmo.

DELICIOUS CARAMEL CANDY

Mix together 1 tin sweetened condensed milk (not evaporated), 2 cups brown sugar, ¾ cup corn syrup, ¼ pound butter, pinch of salt. Boil for 25 minutes, stirring continally to stiff ball stage. Line buttered pan with chopped Brazil nuts and pour in the mixture. When cold cut in squares and wrap in waxed paper.

"I entered this recipe in the San Francisco food show in 1932. It won first prize," comments the cook.

Two Cookie Recipes To Interest The Children

Rocky Road Bars will win you encores with the younger set (and other chocolate lovers, too). It is simple to make with just three ingredients — refrigerated chocolate chip cookies, fudge walnut frosting mix, and miniature marshmallows.

Toasted Sugar Macaroons are another welcome "mitten food." These chewy snowballs, made with refrigerated sugar cookies, double as a base for decorative goodies — a glistening cherry or a perky chocolate kiss.

ROCKY ROAD SQUARES

1 roll refrigerated slice-and-bake chocolate chip cookies

1 13 oz. package walnut fudge frosting mix

1 cup miniature marshmallows

Oven 375°.

Slice cookie dough ¼-inch thick and place slices in bottom of greased 8 or 9-inch square pan. Bake at 375° for 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly brown. (Cookies will be puffy when removed from oven.) Cool slightly.

Prepare cooked version of frosting as directed on package. Fold in marshmallows and spread over cookie base. Allow cookies to set for at least one hour. Cut into 36 squares.

TOASTED SUGAR MACAROONS

Oven 375°.

Slice 1 roll refrigerated slice-and-bake sugar cookies ¾-inch thick. Cut each slice into four quarters. Roll each into a ball and press into 1½ cups cookie coconut. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake at 375° for 10 minutes or until coconut is lightly browned. Remove from oven and immediately garnish the center of each with candied fruits, colorful jellies, or chocolate kisses. Cool completely. Makes 48 cookies.

To tint coconut, add 1 drop of desired color to coconut. Cover container and shake well.

Old Family Recipe Is A Winner

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1969

SPINACH BALLS

2 packages frozen chopped spinach
1 cup grated parmesan cheese
1 cup ricotta cheese
¾ cup bread crumbs
4 beaten eggs
3 tablespoons olive oil
⅛ teaspoon Fines Herbs
⅛ teaspoon oregano
⅛ teaspoon dried basil
⅛ teaspoon MSG.
Dash of garlic powder
Large pinch poultry seasoning
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook spinach according to directions; drain and, with hands, squeeze most of the moisture out. Mix well with rest of ingredients. Place in bowl, cover, and refrigerate four hours or overnight. When ready to cook, take small amounts in hand, form in small balls, roll in flour, and drop into a large pan of boiling salted water. Balls will sink to bottom, then rise to top. When risen, boil gently for 12 minutes. Remove with a well-slotted spoon, making sure all water is removed. (To make sure, gently place them in a collander a few at a time). Place in a chafing dish. Pour your favorite spaghetti sauce over them and sprinkle with grated parmesan cheese. Serve hot.

Pineapple Bread For Holiday Gift

QUICK PINEAPPLE NUT BREAD

- ¼ cup soft butter
- ⅓ cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups biscuit mix
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup crushed pineapple with syrup (No. 1 flat or 8½ oz. can)
- 1 cup chopped walnuts

Beat butter, gradually adding sugar, until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat until fluffy. Stir in biscuit mix, salt, pineapple and nuts. Mix well.

Turn into a greased 9x5 or 8x4 inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 45 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean, and top is golden. Cool 10 minutes, then turn out on wire rack to cool completely.

A Green Bean Casserole

From Mrs. William Kelly, 78 Sonora Way, Corte Madera.

GREEN BEAN CASSEROLE
(Serves 8)

- 2 10-oz. pkgs. frozen french style green beans
- 2 envelopes cheese sauce
- 1 can sliced mushrooms (6 oz.)
- 2 tbs. chopped pimento
- 1 can water chestnuts (drained and chopped)
- 1 tbs. soy sauce
- 1 can french fried onion rings

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1969

Cook beans until crisp and tender, drain well. Prepare cheese sauces. Stir in remaining ingredients except onion rings, and beans.

Spoon into a greased 1½ qt. casserole — arrange french fried onions on top.

Bake uncovered (350 degrees) for 15 minutes.

SERVE A Quick Pineapple Nut Bread when guests drop in during the holiday time.

These Frosted Pineapple Squares Are French Pastry Type Of Bread

From Sandra Foli, 283 Westover Circle, Hamilton Air Force Base.

FROSTY PINEAPPLE SQUARES

- ½ cup sugar
- 3 tbsp. cornstarch
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 can (No. 2½ or 2 small cans) crushed pineapple

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt in a heavy sauce pan. Stir in egg yolk, then the crushed pineapple and its juice. Cook until it thickens, stirring constantly. Then remove from heat and cool.

- ⅔ cup milk scalded
- 1 Tbsp. sugar
- 1 pkg. dry yeast, dissolved in ¼ cup warm water
- 4 egg yolks
- 1 cup butter
- 4 cups flour

Dissolve sugar in scalded milk and cool to lukewarm. Beat in egg yolks and then add yeast. Then cut butter into the 4 cups of flour with a pastry blender. Combine the wet and dry mixtures and blend until smooth.

Divide the dough in half and place on floured board. Roll out the half portion of dough to fit a jelly roll pan measuring 16x10 inches. Place dough on the lightly greased pan. Spread with the cooled prepared pineapple filling. Roll out the remaining dough to cover the first rolled out dough and filling. Make slits in the top layer of dough, to allow steam to escape during baking. Let rise 1 hour in a warm place. Bake at 375 degrees for about 35 minutes. Frost with powdered sugar icing while warm. Cool and cut in squares. Each square may be decorated with a candied or maraschino cherry.

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1969

"This recipe originated in Southern Illinois. It is a delicious french pastry type of bread. It is also easier and quicker to prepare than most types of yeast breads. Stays moist," says the cook.

No Baking Required For An Exotic Cookie Recipe

From Mrs. E. B. Gearhart, 121 Linden Lane, San Rafael.

EXOTIC BARS
(No-bake cookies)

Butter a 9x13 inch pan, cover the bottom of the pan with whole graham crackers. Make filling of:

- 1 cup margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup canned milk
- 2 slightly beaten eggs

Combine the above ingredients in a sauce pan, boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat. Add 1 cup coconut, 1 cup broken nuts, and 1 tsp. vanilla. Cool for five minutes, spread over crackers, add top layer of crackers, and chill thoroughly.

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1969

Mix 2 cups powdered sugar and ½ cup butter, and 1½ tbsp. lemon juice .Spread over top. Cut into bars 1"x3". Makes about 25 bars.

These are easy to make ahead, vey easily packed and can be frozen.

DEVILISHLY DANISH . . . Chocolate pudding and dairy sour cream are added to the completely baked, fresh frozen Butter Streusel Coffee Cake and the result is a chocolate-rich dessert.

Chocolate Livens Up Coffee Cake

It is a case of the rich getting richer.

The special dessert starts with the new completely baked, fresh frozen Butter Streusel Coffee Cake. A rich and yummy mixture of chocolate fudge instant pudding, milk and dairy sour cream is added. The top is sprinkled with cocoa and powdered sugar, and the result is a chocolate-rich, devilish good dessert.

CHOCOLATE-FILLED STREUSEL CAKE

1 package completely baked, fresh frozen Butter Streusel Coffee Cake, cut into two layers
1 4½ ounce package chocolate fudge instant pudding
1½ cups milk
¼ cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon cocoa
2 tablsepoons powdered sugar

For best results cut frozen coffee cake when partially thawed for easier handling. Prepare chocolate pudding according to package directions with 1½ cups of milk. Blend in sour cream. Spread mixture evenly over bottom layer of coffee cake. Put a 6 inch paper circle over center of cake and sprinkle edge with cocoa. Remove paper circle and sprinkle cake center with powdered sugar.

Fruit Cakes, A Holiday Tradition

From Mrs. J. K. Andrews, 15 Corte Almaden, San Rafael.

TINY TIMS

1 cup walnuts
1½ mixed candied fruit and peels
1 14-oz. pkg. date bar mix
⅓ cup sifted flour
¾ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. pumpkin pie spice
2 eggs, beaten

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1969

2 tbsp. honey
½ cup applesauce
½ cup mincemeat
½ tsp. brandy extract

Use tiny cupcake pans. Chop walnuts and fruit into fine pieces. Put all of date bar mix in bowl; add flour, baking powder, and spice. Stir. Add eggs, honey, applesauce, mincemeat and beat well. Stir in fruits and nuts. Fill cups ⅔ full. Bake at 375 degrees for about 15 minutes. Cool on wire racks. Store in airtight contaners.

May be frosted as follows:

Melt ⅓ cup butter or margarine. Blend in 2 tbsp. flour and ⅛ tsp. salt. Slowly stir in ⅓ cup milk. Cook and stir till mixture boils and thickens. Remove from heat and beat in 2¼ cups sifted powdered sugar, ½ tsp. vanilla and ½ tsp. brandy extract. Beat till creamy. Divide into three parts. Leave one part white. Tint the other two red and green. Spread on cakes and decorate with nut half or fruit bit.

Pork And Apricots Combine For A Tasty, Hawaiian Style Dinner

From Mrs. Lum Barger, 702 Tamalpais Avenue, Novato.

LUAU PORK AMBROSIA

Serves 6-8

1 (5 lb.) pork roast chine bone removed, tied for roasting (loin) 4 jars strained apricots (baby food) — ⅓ cup honey — ½ clove garlic minced — ¼ cup fresh lemon juice — 1 onion minced — ¼ cup soy cauce — 1 cup ginger ale — ⅛ tsp ginger —⅛ tsp pepper — 1 can (13 oz.) whole unpeeled apricots — 1 tbsp. lemon rind grated — ¼ cup coconut, freshly grated parsley sprigs, quilted broiling foil.

Place pork roast in marinating dish. Combine 2 jars strained apricots, honey, lemon juice, soy sauce, garlic, onion, ginger ale, ginger, and pepper. Pour over pork. Marinate for 4-5 hours turning occasionally. Line grill with quilted foil: let coals burn down until covered with grey ashes.

Remove pork from marinade. Reserve marinade. Place roast on spit and cook over low coals for approximately 3½ hours. If using a meat thermometer, roast should register 185° when done. During the last ½ hour baste frequently with marinade.

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1969

During the last 5 minutes spread 1 jar strained apricots over roast.

Heat marinade with 1 jar of apricots. Serve as sauce over meat. Heat whole apricots and lemon rind together.

Remove roast to hot serving platter, garnish with whole apricots sprinkled with coconut and parsley.

Crispy Merengue Cookies Delicious For Christmas

From Judy Merriman, 495 Estado Way, Novato.

DATE NUT MERENGUES

Put 1 lb. pitted dates and ½ lb. shelled walnuts through food chopper. Work in ½ tsp. grated orange rind. Form into small balls.

Beat 3 egg whites until stiff but not dry.

Add ⅔ cup sugar gradually—a tablespoon at a time.

Put the date balls on end of fork and drop in merengue, coat the ball completely but scrape off drippings. Place balls on greased baking sheet. Bake in slow oven, 250 degrees, 30 minutes, until merengue is crisp and the balls are a light tan color. Makes about 50 balls.

"A cookie my mother always made at Christmas," Judy Merriman says.

Color

LIKE COLOR? Is it doing all it can for your home?

Color makes mood, and brings life and "zing" and atmosphere to a room. Colors combined to perfection make all the difference! Casual or elegant! Warm or cool! Rich or restrained! You name it, we'll help you achieve it.

For in furnishings, accessories, floor coverings, we have captive sunlight, pale moonlight, the shimmer of hot stars—and we have restful blues and greens, and cozy woodsy browns and bright flower colors.

We have mist-soft colors for bright rooms, and colors with "impact" for dark or dreary rooms.

Come let us help you paint the mood and character you want in your home, with our wondrous palette of fabrics and woods and fibres.

A home in which color makes the best possible contribution, makes in turn, a wonderful contribution to your joy of living.

Pineapple Bread For Holiday Gift

Here's an idea for a holiday bread for gift giving or serving with coffee when guests drop in.

QUICK PINEAPPLE NUT BREAD

¼ cup soft butter
⅓ cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups biscuit mix
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup crushed pineapple with syrup (No. 1 flat or 8½ oz. can)
1 cup chopped walnuts

Beat butter, gradually adding sugar, until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat until fluffy. Stir in biscuit mix, salt, pineapple and nuts. Mix well.

Turn into a greased 9x5 or 8x4 inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 45 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean, and top is golden. Cool 10 minutes, then turn out on wire rack to cool completely.

A Green Bean Casserole

From Mrs. William Kelly, 78 Sonora Way, Corte Madera.

GREEN BEAN CASSEROLE
(Serves 8)

2 10-oz. pkgs. frozen french style green beans
2 envelopes cheese sauce
1 can sliced mushrooms (6 oz.)
2 tbs. chopped pimento
1 can water chestnuts (drained and chopped)
1 tbs. soy sauce
1 can french fried onion rings

AMERICAN EXPRESS

SERVE A Quick Pineapple Nut Bread when guests drop in during the holiday time.

These Frosted Pineapple Squares Are French Pastry Type Of Bread

From Sandra Foli, 283 Westover Circle, Hamilton Air Force Base.

FROSTY PINEAPPLE SQUARES

½ cup sugar
3 tbsp. cornstarch
¼ tsp. salt
1 egg yolk
1 can (No. 2½ or 2 small cans) crushed pineapple

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt in a heavy sauce pan. Stir in egg yolk, then the crushed pineapple and its juice. Cook until it thickens, stirring constantly. Then remove from heat and cool.

⅔ cup milk scalded
1 Tbsp. sugar
1 pkg. dry yeast, dissolved in ¼ cup warm water
4 egg yolks
1 cup butter
4 cups flour

Dissolve sugar in scalded milk and cool to lukewarm. Beat in egg yolks and then add yeast. Then cut butter into the 4 cups of flour with a pastry blender. Combine the wet and dry mixtures and blend until smooth.

Divide the dough in half and place on floured board. Roll out the half portion of dough to fit a jelly roll pan measuring 16x10 inches. Place dough on the lightly greased pan. Spread with the cooled prepared pineapple filling. Roll out the remaining dough to cover the first rolled out dough and filling. Make slits in the top layer of dough, to allow steam to escape during baking. Let rise 1 hour in a warm place. Bake at 375 degrees for about 35 minutes. Frost with powdered sugar icing while warm. Cool and cut in squares. Each square may be decorated with a candied or maraschino cherry.

No Baking Required For An Exotic Cookie Recipe

From Mrs. E. B. Gearhart, 121 Linden Lane, San Rafael.

EXOTIC BARS
(No-bake cookies)

Butter a 9x13 inch pan, cover the bottom of the pan with whole graham crackers. Make filling of:

1 cup margarine
1 cup sugar
½ cup canned milk
2 slightly beaten eggs

Combine the above ingredients in a sauce pan, boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat. Add 1 cup coconut, 1 cup broken nuts, and 1 tsp. vanilla. Cool for five minutes, spread over crackers, add top layer of crackers, and chill thoroughly.

Simple Appetizers For Holiday Parties

Entertaining time is here. This year treat your friends to a lovely, yet simple, buffet. Hors d'oeuvres and appetizers that can be made ahead of time will enable you to have a good time at your own party.

MEATBALLS AU VIN

Wine Sauce

¼ pound butter
1 cup minced onion
1½ cups red wine
2½ cups brown gravy
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Melt butter. Stir in onions and cook 5 minutes. Add wine and simmer 20 minutes. Add gravy and lemon juice.

Meatballs
(Makes 6 dozen)

2 pounds ground beef
2 cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup milk
¼ cup minced onion
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
½ lb. blue cheese
(cut in ½-inch cubes)

Soak bread crumbs in milk. Combine all ingredients but blue cheese and mix thoroughly. Form small meat balls around half inch square cubes of American blue cheese. Blue cheese should be well chilled for easier handling. Cut with taut wire or cheese cutter. Lightly brown meat balls. Then simmer in wine sauce until done. Serve in chafing dish.

CHRISTMAS STRAWBERRIES

1 pound liver sausage
½ cup blue cheese
(about 3 ounces, crumbled)
1 3-oz. package cream cheese
2 teaspoons minced onion
Mayonnaise

Soften cream cheese and blend in American blue cheese. Add to liver sausage and minced onion. Mix well. Add small amount mayonnaise to make blending easier.

Shape by tablespoonsful into strawberries. Roll in red colored bread crumbs. Make leaves from bit of parsley and a green toothpick as the stem (also a handle for eating). Refrigerate. Serve on bed of holly leaves. Makes approximately 4 dozen.

Tables Are More Than Just For Eating (off of?)

Well, anyway, we do take our dining tables seriously and have gathered a collection that will truly perform miracles for versatility and grace. For instance:

Here is a beautifully designed cabinet, a hall piece or server when needed. But in truth it conceals a table that will extend to 104 inches!

For an active family we feature a Colonial birch with rounded corners, extra center leg and 5 (count'em 5) extra leaves. Entirely stainproof and heat resistant, too.

A long and narrow sofa table can be a server or sideboard. It is solid oak in Tudor styling. A simple motion and it doubles in size — no leaves to add!

Or you might admire one of our game or card tables. Some have flip tops that double in size while others can be made with two 20-in. leaves. And we can supply folding chairs that won't reveal their true nature.

Of course we also have tables that are only beautiful and will do little more than hold a sumptuous feast in splendid fashion.

If you can afford today's food prices you can own one of our magnificent tables.

Baked Layered Mixture In A Pie Shell For Special Holiday Treat

From Mrs. Larry Amerman, 211 Eastman Avenue, Corte Madera.

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1969

HOLIDAY HAM PIE

Pastry lined 11" pie pan (or a 9x9x2) baking dish can be used. Extra pastry for lattice top.
1½ lbs. cottage cheese
2 eggs, well beaten
¼ cup chopped parsely
¼ tsp. pepper
3 tbsp. grated parmesan cheese
¼ lb. salami slivered
½ lb. swiss cheese, slivered
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1 lb. ham, cooked and slivered

Combine cottage cheese, eggs, parsley, pepper and grated cheese. Layer the remaining ingredients in pastry lined in 11" pie pan in folliwng order: cottage cheese mixture, salami, cottage cheese mixture, swiss cheese, hard cooked eggs, cottage cheese mixture, ham and cottage cheese mixture.

Roll out and cut remaining-pasty in strips for lattice top. Fit top, flute edges. Bake pie in 350° over for one hour. Allow to stand 10 minutes before serving.

Top Banana Roll With Sauce

From Mrs. Stanley Brooks, 35 Sycamore Avenue, Mill Valley.

BANANA ROLL WITH NUTMEG SAUCE

Make a pie dough (enough for one crust pie).

Cut 2 bananas in half and roll in dough which has been rolled out and cut in circles. Use a saucer as an outline for cutting. Should make four circles. Press top and edges together and brush with cream. Place on cookie sheet and bake 25 minutes at 400°. Serve with nutmeg sauce.

NUTMEG SAUCE

¼ cup butter (½ cube)
1 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
4 tbsp. boiling water.

Mix together and cook, stirring constantly. Boil 4 minutes and add 1 tsp. grated fresh nutmeg and 2 tsp. lemon juice. Serve warm over banana roll. Serves 4. "We like it because it has an unusually fine flavor for bananas. The recipe originated from a country lady in Oregon. It was her grandmother's original," says Mrs. Brooks.

Crispy Merengue Cookies Delicious For Christmas

From Judy Merriman, 495 Estado Way, Novato.

DATE NUT MERENGUES

Put 1 lb. pitted dates and ½ lb. shelled walnuts through food chopper. Work in ½ tsp. grated orange rind. Form into small balls.

Beat 3 egg whites until stiff but not dry.

Add ⅔ cup sugar gradually—a tablespoon at a time.

Put the date balls on end of fork and drop in merengue, coat the ball completely but scrape off drippings. Place balls on greased baking sheet. Bake in slow oven, 250 degrees, 30 minutes, until merengue is crisp and the balls are a light tan color. Makes about 50 balls.

"A cookie my mother always made at Christmas," Judy Merriman says.

London Broil Pepper Steak

One LONDON BROIL, 2 to 2½ lbs.
1½ tbls. whole black peppercorns
1½ tbls. olive oil
¼ cup brandy

Allow LONDON BROIL to reach room temperature, approximately 1 hour. Crush peppercorns by wrapping in a cloth and crushing with a mallet or rolling pin. Press pepper firmly into both sides of LONDON BROIL. Let stand at room temperature 15 to 20 minutes. Heat olive oil in a heavy frying pan. Pan broil steak to desired doneness—approximately 25 minutes for medium. Season with salt to taste. Place LONDON BROIL on a hot platter. Pour brandy into frying pan, set aflame. Stir to extinguish flame. When sauce is bubbling hot, pour over LONDON BROIL. Slice diagonally in ¼ inch slices and serve.

4 to 6 servings.

Serve with Sebastiani Pinot Noir

Color

LIKE COLOR? Is it doing all it can for your home?

Color makes mood, and brings life and "zing" and atmosphere to a room. Colors combined to perfection make all the difference! Casual or elegant! Warm or cool! Rich or restrained! You name it, we'll help you achieve it.

For in furnishings, accessories, floor coverings, we have captive sunlight, pale moonlight, the shimmer of hot stars—and we have restful blues and greens, and cozy woodsy browns and bright flower colors.

We have mist-soft colors for bright rooms, and colors with "impact" for dark or dreary rooms.

Come let us help you paint the mood and character you want in your home, with our wondrous palette of fabrics and woods and fibres.

A home in which color makes the best possible contribution, makes in turn, a wonderful contribution to your joy of living.

SLEIGHT-OF-HAND

Bake Gingerbread, Add Coffee Sauce

Here's a fool-proof, sleight of hand cake you can make from a package of gingerbread mix and freshly brewed coffee. After the cake is baked, a pour-on of coffee, rum and sugar gives the cake a very special elegance. Its spicy aroma and marvelous coffee-rum flavor will invite requests for seconds.

To brew the perfect cup of coffee, use a sparkling clean coffee maker, freshly drawn water, and ground coffee that has been opened no longer than a week. Be sure to use one approved coffee measure to six ounces of water for each serving to be brewed. Brew at least two-thirds the capacity of the coffee maker for best results.

EYELET COFFEE-GINGER RING

1 package (14-oz.) gingerbread mix
1 cup freshly brewed coffee, divided
½ cup ice water
1 cup confectioner's sugar
2 tablespoons rum
Whipped cream

Put gingerbread mix into mixing bowl. Combine ½ cup of the coffee with ice water. Use this mixture in place of liquid called for in gingerbread mix; add half of it and stir until batter is smooth and thick then add remainder and beat about one minute or 150 strokes, by hand. Bake in a four and a half cup ring mold, in a preheated 350° oven, 35-40 minutes.

Mix remaining coffee, rum and confectioner's sugar together. Immediately after taking cake out of the oven (while still ing baking pan) "poke" holes through the cake with a cooking fork and gently pour the coffee-sugar mixture over. Let cake stand 10 minutes before removing it from the pan. Serve warm or cool with whipped cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

A SLIGHT OF hand cake that you can whip up before holiday guests drop by during the busy time of the year . . . it's a coffee-ginger ring.

LI CHIH CHICKEN BALLS

"This is a favorite chafing dish recipe I use often for cocktail parties. They are delicious and disappear like snow in the sun. I got the recipe from a cooking course I took from the Benedictine Sisters in Tokyo in 1952," says Mrs. Jensen.

1 lb. chicken meat (ground) & raw
10 water chestnuts, chopped fine
3 tbsp. onion, chopped fine
2 tbsp. cornstarch
½ tsp. salt
2 tbsp. soy sauce
2 tsp. sherry
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
1 can Li Chih (loquats) or 1 large can apricots
3 cups oil
1 cup Li Chih juice or apricot juice
½ cup chicken soup stock

Paste Mixture:

2 tbsp. soy sauce
4 tsp. cornstarch
(mix together)

Mix chopped chicken, water chestnuts and onion together, and add cornstarch, salt, soy sauce, wine and egg whites. Form into balls the size of a large walnut. Fry the balls in hot oil until brown. Drain on paper towels. Combine Li Chih or apricot juice, chicken stock, soy sauce, cornstarch mixture and 1 tbsp. oil in a sauce pan and cook a few seconds. Add the balls and Li Chih or apricots and heat thoroughly. Add ½ tsp. MSG. Serve hot in chafing dish with toothpicks.

GLORIFIED MACARONI AND CHEESE

2 cartons macaroni and cheese prepared according to directions or
5 cans macaroni and cheese sauce — 15 oz. size.
1 pkg. frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained.
½ pound freshly grated sharp cheese (don't buy pregrated!) Save some for top when adding to casserole
1 small bunch green onions, cut up finely
½ tsp. oregano
1 can french fried onions

Mix all together except for french fried onions. Save some of the cheese to sprinkle on top.

Refrigerate. Cover top with french fried onions and bake, uncovered, in a 350 degree oven, 45 to 60 minutes until hot through. Serves 8.

Christmas Date Delights

CHRISTMAS DATE DELIGHTS

Mix the following four ingredients and cook over moderate heat 5 minutes, stirring constantly:

1 stick margarine
8 ozs. chopped dates (cut with kitchen scissors)
1 egg, beaten
1 cup sugar

Add 2 tsp. rum, or 1 tsp. rum extract, and 1 tsp. vanilla and pour this mixture over ½ cup chopped nuts, 2 cups rice krispies. Roll into balls and then roll in coconut flakes.

"This recipe is as much a part of Christmas in our house as the Christmas Tree. It can be made months in advance and kept covered in the refrigerator. Very good for sending to servicemen for the holidays," Mrs. Smith remarks.

Simple Appetizers For Holiday Parties

Entertaining time is here. This year treat your friends to a lovely, yet simple, buffet. Hors d'oeuvres and appetizers that can be made ahead of time will enable you to have a good time at your own party.

MEATBALLS AU VIN

Wine Sauce

¼ pound butter
1 cup minced onion
1½ cups red wine
2½ cups brown gravy
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Melt butter. Stir in onions and cook 5 minutes. Add wine and simmer 20 minutes. Add gravy and lemon juice.

Meatballs
(Makes 6 dozen)

2 pounds ground beef
2 cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup milk
¼ cup minced onion
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
½ lb. blue cheese
(cut in ½-inch cubes)

Soak bread crumbs in milk. Combine all ingredients but blue cheese and mix thoroughly. Form small meat balls around half inch square cubes of American blue cheese. Blue cheese should be well chilled for easier handling. Cut with taut wire or cheese cutter. Lightly brown meat balls. Then simmer in wine sauce until done. Serve in chafing dish.

CHRISTMAS STRAWBERRIES

1 pound liver sausage
½ cup blue cheese
(about 3 ounces, crumbled)
1 3-oz. package cream cheese
2 teaspoons minced onion
Mayonnaise

Soften cream cheese and blend in American blue cheese. Add to liver sausage and minced onion. Mix well. Add small amount mayonnaise to make blending easier.

Shape by tablespoonsful into strawberries. Roll in red colored bread crumbs. Make leaves from bit of parsley and a green toothpick as the stem (also a handle for eating). Refrigerate. Serve on bed of holly leaves. Makes approximately 4 dozen.

3 tbsp. grated parmesan cheese
¼ lb. salami slivered
½ lb. swiss cheese, slivered
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1 lb. ham, cooked and slivered

Combine cottage cheese, eggs, parsley, pepper and grated cheese. Layer the remaining ingredients in pastry lined in 11″ pie pan in folliwng order: cottage cheese mixture, salami, cottage cheese mixture, swiss cheese, hard cooked eggs, cottage cheese mixture, ham and cottage cheese mixture.

Roll out and cut remaining-pasty in strips for lattice top. Fit top. flute edges. Bake pie in 350° over for one hour. Allow to stand 10 minutes before serving.

Top Banana Roll With Sauce

From Mrs. Stanley Brooks, 35 Sycamore Avenue, Mill Valley.

BANANA ROLL WITH NUTMEG SAUCE

Make a pie dough (enough for one crust pie).

Cut 2 bananas in half and roll in dough which has been rolled out and cut in circles. Use a saucer as an outline for cutting. Should make four circles. Press top and edges together and brush with cream. Place on cookie sheet and bake 25 minutes at 400°. Serve with nutmeg sauce.

NUTMEG SAUCE

¼ cup butter (½ cube)
1 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
4 tbsp. boiling water.

Mix together and cook, stirring constantly. Boil 4 minutes and add 1 tsp. grated fresh nutmeg and 2 tsp. lemon juice. Serve warm over banana roll. Serves 4. "We like it because it has an unusually fine flavor for bananas. The recipe originated from a country lady in Oregon. It was her grandmother's original," says Mrs. Brooks.

Tables Are More Than Just For Eating (off of?)

Well, anyway, we do take our dining tables seriously and have gathered a collection that will truly perform miracles for versatility and grace. For instance:

Here is a beautifully designed cabinet, a hall piece or server when needed. But in truth it conceals a table that will extend to 104 inches!

For an active family we feature a Colonial birch with rounded corners, extra center leg and 5 (count'em 5) extra leaves. Entirely stainproof and heat resistant, too.

A long and narrow sofa table can be a server or sideboard. It is solid oak in Tudor styling. A simple motion and it doubles in size — no leaves to add!

Or you might admire one of our game or card tables. Some have flip tops that double in size while others can be made with two 20-in. leaves. And we can supply folding chairs that won't reveal their true nature.

Of course we also have tables that are only beautiful and will do little more than hold a sumptuous feast in splendid fashion.

If you can afford today's food prices you can own one of our magnificent tables.

Serve A Bay Fish Stew At Tree Trimming Fete

You've probably gone to or hosted a trim-the-tree party. But why not go one step further this year and have a make-your-own-ornaments party? Adults love to cut and paste and often turn out surprisingly whimsical and charming Christmas decorations.

All you have to provide are the makings — glass or plastic balls, sequins, "jewels," cotton, construction paper, ribbon and so on. Old Christmas cards and wrapping paper to cut out are great too.

And, of course, you'll want to have great food on hand. Food that almost prepares itself and can be placed on the buffet where guests can help themselves at will. Hearty soups are especially appropriate, and our San Francisco Fish Stew is festive and sophisticated for an adult party.

SAN FRANCISCO FISH STEW

1 onion, chopped
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons pure vegetable oil
4 cans (8 ounces each) or 2 cans (15 ounces each) tomato sauce with tomato bits
2 cans (4-½ ounces each) shrimp, rinsed and drained
1 can (8 ounces) clams, undrained
1 can (7-½ ounces) crab, drained and flaked
1 bay leaf
¼ teaspoon thyme
2 cups water
1 pound firm-fleshed fish (sea bass, rock fish or cod)

In Dutch oven or heavy kettle cook onion, green pepper and garlic in oil until tender. Add remaining ingredients except fish. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Add fish; simmer 15 minutes more. Remove bay leaf. Makes 8 servings.

Note: Vary this easy fish soup by using other kinds of canned or ready-to-cook frozen or fresh seafood or by using all one kind (such as all crab, shrimp or clams). Just keep the relative weight fairly close to what the recipe specifies (about 6 to 8 cups measure).

PLANNING A TREE-trimming party in December? A hearty soup such as San Francisco Fish Stew is an easy-to-do meal.

Wine Authority Speaks Out

By FRED CHERRY

What wine to serve with what food?.......so much has been written and so little help!

White wine goes with fish or chicken; red wine with meat or game; dry wines before sweet; light wines before heavy........and it's all nonsense.

It's nonsense if you like red wine with your chicken, or sweet wine with your fish. Wine is for pleasure, not character building. The rules are fine for those who need them — but it's more fun, and infinitely more rewarding, to drink your wine defiantly.

So, now that we've taken our anarchistic stand about wine as an accompaniment to food, what about wine as an ingredient?

WINE SNOBS, and the merely rich, say to use the same wine in the kitchen as you will serve with the dish. A great idea! if the wine you will serve happens to be a modest wine of fair quality. But I (and the wine-loving friends who confide in me) have never had the courage or poor judgment to decorate the steak with a sauce made from the same irreplaceably-precious bottle of 1953 Clos de Vougeot I will serve at the table. Purist notwithstanding, I insist a great wine does not deserve to be lost in the gravy.

Just as at table, in cooking the same "no-rules" rules should apply. Try white wine in the boeuf bourguignon; if it's a white burgundy like chablis even the name can still apply. Coq au vin proves my point; it is traditionally made with red wine; why not white wine with chicken? Yes, why not? chicken sauterne is a delightful surprise.

I've never understood why an imaginative, creative cook—one to whom a recipe is merely a point of departure—is intimidated by the so-called rules of wine-usage. There is no need to be.

MANY YEARS of alert wine drinking and wine cooking have revealed a good many "unheard of" combinations of food and wine. Their unexpected harmony provides a pleasure far exceeding normal expectations.

Here are a few—to get you thinking and trying. These are some I like; you may not like them at all, and will want to find something better (in which case, please let me know.)

Everyone puts sherry in the soup. Try dry marsala.

Chinese food? Try a good German white from the Rheingau.

Broiled salmon? Hearty red burgundy.

With sole or other delicate fish, serve a sweet French Sauterne like Chateau Yquem or Barsac. Make it icy cold; the French have kept this indescribably, crazily delicious combination a secret.

Try California vermouth where you use white wine in cooking.

Baste barbecued chicken with port wine.

Before dinner, as an aperitif take any cold dry white wine and add a few drope of grenadine, creme de cassis, grape juice, or even jam.

Nibble almonds and cheese with an inexpensive German wine---even 99 cents Liebfrau milch shines with this treatment.

TRY A DINNER with sherry as the only wine. Start with the driest Fino,passing through ascending degrees of sweetness until dessert brings on a thick Cream Sherry. (Incidentally, sherry breaks a few rules of its own; it's all right to smoke—sherry is the one wine to withstand the effect of tobacco smoke.)

Blend in 1 square melted and cooled chocolate
2 tsp. instant coffee
2 eggs, adding one egg at a time, beating 5 minutes after each egg.
Refrigerate overnight.

Topping:

2 cups whipped cream
2 tsp. instant coffee (or 1 tsp. coffee and 1 tsp. cocoa)
½ cup powdered sugar

Decorate with chocolate curls. Serves 12.

"This recipe was given to me by someone in my family. It has passed down many times. I love this pie as I feel when I serve it, it is a masterpiece," Mrs. Loar comments.

Crisp And Delicate Cookies

From Mrs. Nicholas Truog, 30 Jacinto Way, Novato.

ALMOND LACE WAFERS

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon heavy cream
1 tablespoon milk

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Grease 2 cookie sheets generously, and coat with flour. Work almonds through a nut grader, or blend in an electric blender until mealy. (Do not grind them through a food grinder the nuts get too oily.) Measure correct amount. Now mix nuts and all remaining ingredients in a saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until batter or margarine melts. Drop teaspoonsful of the mixture on cookie sheet, just 5 or 6 at a time; bake 6-8 minutes, or until cookies turn a light-caramel color, with the centers still bubbling. Let cool 1 minute, then transfer, top side down, to paper towels. Roll immediately over the handle of a wooden spoon. Regrease and reflour cookie sheet before baking each batch. Makes about two dozen.

SLEIGHT-OF-HAND

Bake Gingerbread, Add Coffee Sauce

Here's a fool-proof, sleight of hand cake you can make from a package of gingerbread mix and freshly brewed coffee. After the cake is baked, a pour-on of coffee, rum and sugar gives the cake a very special elegance. Its spicy aroma and marvelous coffee-rum flavor will invite requests for seconds.

To brew the perfect cup of coffee, use a sparkling clean coffee maker, freshly drawn water, and ground coffee that has been opened no longer than a week. Be sure to use one approved coffee measure to six ounces of water for each serving to be brewed. Brew at least two-thirds the capacity of the coffee maker for best results.

EYELET COFFEE-GINGER RING

1 package (14-oz.) gingerbread mix
1 cup freshly brewed coffee, divided
½ cup ice water
1 cup confectioner's sugar
2 tablespoons rum
Whipped cream

Put gingerbread mix into mixing bowl. Combine ½ cup of the coffee with ice water. Use this mixture in place of liquid called for in gingerbread mix; add half of it and stir until batter is smooth and thick then add remainder and beat about one minute or 150 strokes, by hand. Bake in a four and a half cup ring mold, in a preheated 350° oven, 35-40 minutes.

Mix remaining coffee, rum and confectioner's sugar together. Immediately after taking cake out of the oven (while still ing baking pan) "poke" holes through the cake with a cooking fork and gently pour the coffee-sugar mixture over. Let cake stand 10 minutes before removing it from the pan. Serve warm or cool with whipped cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

A SLIGHT OF hand cake that you can whip up before holiday guests drop by during the busy time of the year . . . it's a coffee-ginger ring.

Oriental Recipe For A Chafing Dish Buffet

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1969

LI CHIH CHICKEN BALLS

"This is a favorite chafing dish recipe I use often for cocktail parties. They are delicious and disappear like snow in the sun. I got the recipe from a cooking course I took from the Benedictine Sisters in Tokyo in 1952," says Mrs. Jensen.

1 lb. chicken meat (ground) & raw
10 water chestnuts, chopped fine
3 tbsp. onion, chopped fine
2 tbsp. cornstarch
½ tsp. salt
2 tbsp. soy sauce
2 tsp. sherry
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
1 can Li Chih (loquats) or 1 large can apricots
3 cups oil
1 cup Li Chih juice or apricot juice
½ cup chicken soup stock

Paste Mixture:

2 tbsp. soy sauce
4 tsp. cornstarch
(mix together)

Mix chopped chicken, water chestnuts and onion together, and add cornstarch, salt, soy sauce, wine and egg whites. Form into balls the size of a large walnut. Fry the balls in hot oil until brown. Drain on paper towels. Combine Li Chih or apricot juice, chicken stock, soy sauce, cornstarch mixture and 1 tbsp. oil in a sauce pan and cook a few seconds. Add the balls and Li Chih or apricots and heat thoroughly. Add ½ tsp. MSG. Serve hot in chafing dish with toothpicks.

Christmas Date Delights

CHRISTMAS DATE DELIGHTS

Mix the following four ingredients and cook over moderate heat 5 minutes, stirring constantly:

1 stick margarine
8 ozs. chopped dates (cut with kitchen scissors)
1 egg, beaten
1 cup sugar

Add 2 tsp. rum, or 1 tsp. rum extract, and 1 tsp. vanilla and pour this mixture over ½ cup chopped nuts, 2 cups rice krispies. Roll into balls and then roll in coconut flakes.

"This recipe is as much a part of Christmas in our house as the Christmas Tree. It can be made months in advance and kept covered in the refrigerator. Very good for sending to servicemen for the holidays," Mrs. Smith remarks.

Serve A Bay Fish Stew At Tree Trimming Fete

You've probably gone to or hosted a trim-the-tree party. But why not go one step further this year and have a make-your-own-ornaments party? Adults love to cut and paste and often turn out surprisingly whimsical and charming Christmas decorations.

All you have to provide are the makings — glass or plastic balls, sequins, "jewels," cotton, construction paper, ribbon and so on. Old Christmas cards and wrapping paper to cut out are great too.

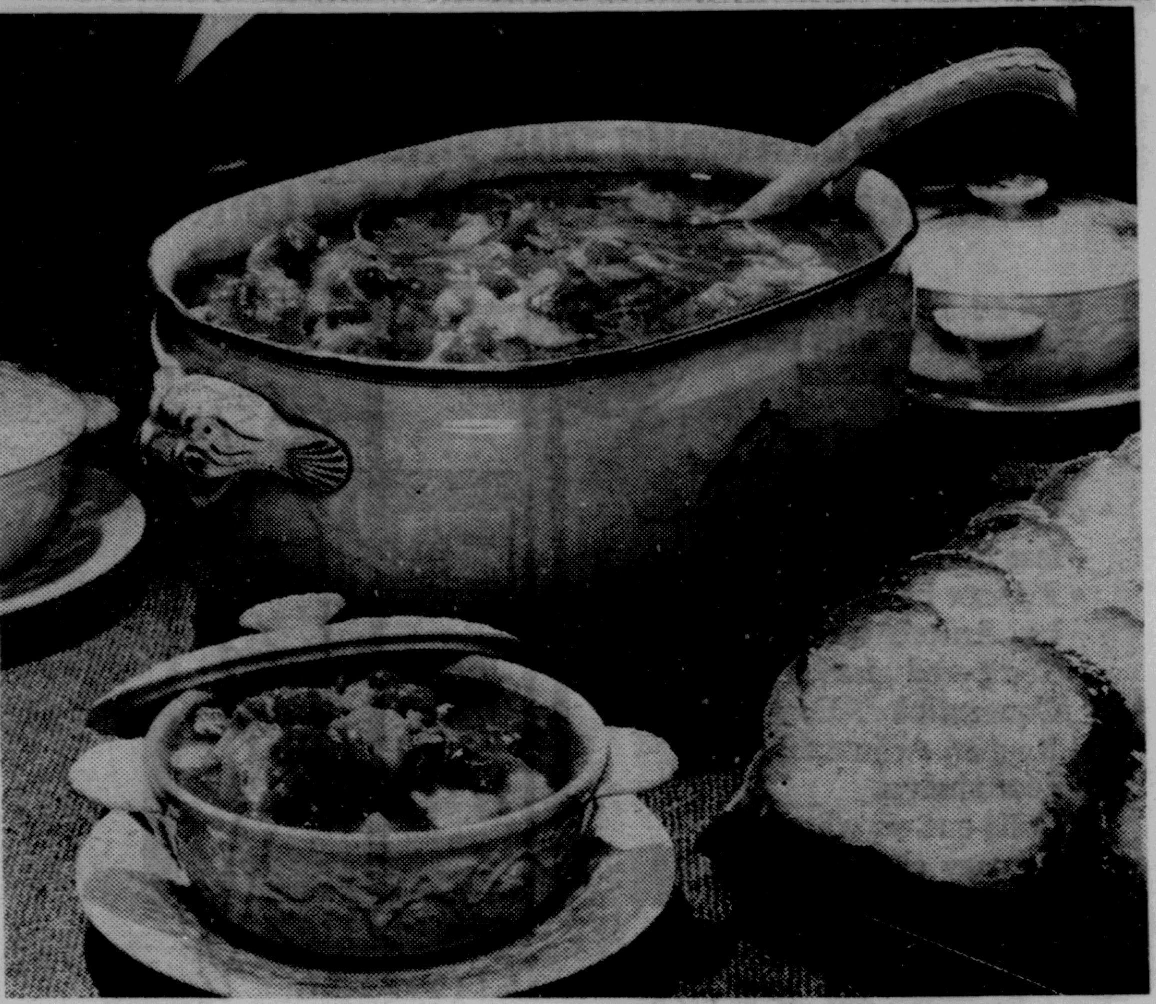
And, of course, you'll want to have great food on hand. Food that almost prepares itself and can be placed on the buffet where guests can help themselves at will. Hearty soups are especially appropriate, and our San Francisco Fish Stew is festive and sophisticated for an adult party.

SAN FRANCISCO FISH STEW

1 onion, chopped
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons pure vegetable oil
4 cans (8 ounces each) or 2 cans (15 ounces each) tomato sauce with tomato bits
2 cans (4-½ ounces each) shrimp, rinsed and drained
1 can (8 ounces) clams, undrained
1 can (7-½ ounces) crab, drained and flaked
1 bay leaf
¼ teaspoon thyme
2 cups water
1 pound firm-fleshed fish (sea bass, rock fish or cod)

In Dutch oven or heavy kettle cook onion, green pepper and garlic in oil until tender. Add remaining ingredients except fish. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Add fish; simmer 15 minutes more. Remove bay leaf. Makes 8 servings.

Note: Vary this easy fish soup by using other kinds of canned or ready-to-cook frozen or fresh seafood or by using all one kind (such as all crab, shrimp or clams). Just keep the relative weight fairly close to what the recipe specifies (about 6 to 8 cups measure).



PLANNING A TREE-trimming party in December? A hearty soup such as San Francisco Fish Stew is an easy-to-do meal.

Wine Authority Speaks Out

By FRED CHERRY

What wine to serve with what food?.......so much has been written and so little help!

White wine goes with fish or chicken; red wine with meat or game; dry wines before sweet; light wines before heavy........and it's all nonsense.

It's nonsense if you like red wine with your chicken, or sweet wine with your fish. Wine is for pleasure, not character building. The rules are fine for those who need them — but it's more fun, and infinitely more rewarding, to drink your wine defiantly.

So, now that we've taken our anarchistic stand about wine as an accompaniment to food, what about wine as an ingredient?

WINE SNOBS, and the merely rich, say to use the same wine in the kitchen as you will serve with the dish. A great idea! if the wine you will serve happens to be a modest wine of fair quality. But I (and the wine-loving friends who confide in me) have never had the courage or poor judgment to decorate the steak with a sauce made from the same irreplaceably-precious bottle of 1953 Clos de Vougeot I will serve at the table. Purist notwithstanding, I insist a great wine does not deserve to be lost in the gravy.

Just as at table, in cooking the same "no-rules" rules should apply. Try white wine in the boeuf bourguignon; if it's a white burgundy like chablis even the name can still apply. Coq au vin proves my point; it is traditionally made with red wine; why not white wine with chicken? Yes, why not? chicken sauterne is a delightful surprise.

I've never understood why an imaginative, creative cook—one to whom a recipe is merely a point of departure—is intimidated by the so-called rules of wine-usage. There is no need to be.

MANY YEARS of alert wine drinking and wine cooking have revealed a good many "unheard of" combinations of food and wine. Their unexpected harmony provides a pleasure far exceeding normal expectations.

Here are a few—to get you thinking and trying. These are some I like; you may not like them at all, and will want to find something better (in which case, please let me know.)

Everyone puts sherry in the soup. Try dry marsala.

Chinese food? Try a good German white from the Rheingau.

Broiled salmon? Hearty red burgundy.

With sole or other delicate fish, serve a sweet French Sauterne like Chateau Yquem or Barsac. Make it icy cold; the French have kept this indescribably, crazily delicious combination a secret.

Try California vermouth where you use white wine in cooking.

Baste barbecued chicken with port wine.

Before dinner, as an aperitif take any cold dry white wine and add a few drope of grenadine, creme de cassis, grape juice, or even jam.

Nibble almonds and cheese with an inexpensive German wine---even 99 cents Liebfrau milch shines with this treatment.

TRY A DINNER with sherry as the only wine. Start with the driest Fino,passing through ascending degrees of sweetness until dessert brings on a thick Cream Sherry. (Incidentally, sherry breaks a few rules of its own; it's all right to smoke—sherry is the one wine to withstand the effect of tobacco smoke.)

Serve champagne often and anywhere—especially at breakfast with a pretty girl!

From Mrs. Elmer J. Starke, 517 Fourth Street, Petaluma.

"My recipe for Raisin peanut bonbons is my favorite recipe for making candy because it is so easy to make and when completed they look like cantdy store candy. I clipped this recipe from a Farm Journal over 20 years ago. My family loves it. . . thus it s a traditional recipe. . . especially around Christmas."

RAISIN PEANUT BUTTER BONBONS

1 cup smooth peanut butter
2 Tablespoons soft butter
1 cup sifted powdered sugar
1½ cups seedless golden raisins
½ cup chopped walnuts

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1969

FOR DIPPING BONBONS

1 (6-oz.) pkg. semi-sweet chocolate pieces
2 Tablespoons butter

Combine peanut butter, butter and powdered sugar, mixing until smooth. Stir in raisins and nuts. Shape into small balls. Melt chocolate with butter over warm (not hot) water. Dip balls one at a time in chocolate. Place on waxed paper until set. Garnish tops of bonbons with sliced maraschino cherries or nut halves.

INDIVIDUAL OMELETS are festive for a holiday brunch or late supper. Sour cream and Swiss cheese are the topping and filling.

REMEMBER POPOVERS?

Mexican Inspired Light Supper Dish

The emphasis is on ease these days. Ease in the cooking, the serving, the eating and, most likely, on the pocket money. And with all the entertaining coming up, you better believe it.

Easy-going dishes to keep in mind are these Mexican-inspired Empanadas and Olive Con Queso in which you can dunk almost anything.

Olive Holiday Omelets, one to a customer, puff up around Canadian bacon in the oven. They are rich with sour cream and melted Swiss cheese, and just about as special as omelets can be. Packaged frozen croissants are good and easy to serve along side.

OLIVE HOLIDAY OMELET

8 eggs
½ cup dairy sour cream
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
6 slices Canadian bacon
2 tablespoons melted butter

Grease 6 individual bakers. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Cut ripe olives into pieces. Beat eggs until bubbly. Add sour cream and salt. Stir in ripe olives, cheese and onion. Turn into prepared bakers. Top each with Canadian bacon slice. Drizzle with melted butter. Bake for about 20 minutes or until set. Garnish with additional whole ripe olives as desired. Makes 6 servings.

RIPE OLIVE EMPANADAS

2 (4½-ounce) cans chopped ripe olives
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
Dash liquid red pepper seasoning
½ cup greated mild Cheddar cheese.
3 sticks pastry mix

Drain ripe olives and combine with onion, mayonnaise, red pepper seasoning and cheese. Prepare pastry mix as package directs. Roll thin and cut into 3½-inch rounds. Place spoonful of filling on one half of each round. Moisten edges and fold pastry over filling, pressing edges firmly together to seal. Prick tops. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes, until browned. Makes about 2½ dozen.

OLIVE CON QUESO

1⅔ cups canned pitted ripe olives
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup butter
1 minced clove garlic
¼ cup cornstarch
1 (1-pound) can tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon mixed Italian herbs
¾ teaspoon liquid red pepper seasoning
1 pound grated mild Cheddar cheese

Cut ripe olives into wedges. Saute onion and pepper in butter until soft. Add garlic and cook a minute longer. Blend in cornstarch. Add tomatoes, salt, herbs and red pepper seasoning. Cook, stirring until mixture boils and thickens. Add cheese and stir over low heat until melted. Add ripe olives. Serve hot with corn chips, tortillas or crackers for dippers. Makes about 4½ cups.

ALMOND LACE WAFERS

¾ cup grated unblanched almonds
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon heavy cream
1 tablespoon milk

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Grease 2 cookie sheets generously, and coat with flour. Work almonds through a nut grader, or blend in an electric blender until mealy. (Do not grind them through a food grinder the nuts get too oily.) Measure correct amount. Now mix nuts and all remaining ingredients in a saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until batter or margarine melts. Drop teaspoonsful of the mixture on cookie sheet, just 5 or 6 at a time; bake 6-8 minutes, or until cookies turn a light-caramel color, with the centers still bubbling. Let cool 1 minute, then transfer, top side down, to paper towels. Roll immediately over the handle of a wooden spoon. Regrease and reflour cookie sheet before baking each batch. Makes about two dozen.

Glamorous Cake Can Be Refrigerated

Glamorous "Angel Fruit Parfait Cake" is the dessert to serve at a dinner party. It is certain to make a hit with everyone, including you, since it is a refrigerator dessert that can be made well in advance.

Simply hollow out an angel food cake — made from your own recipe, a packaged mix, or one you have purchased — and spoon in a tart parfait filling enriched with colorful canned fruit cocktail, ice cream and orange-flavored gelatin.

At serving time, spread the cake with whipped cream, sprinkle with coconut and decorate with additional drained canned fruit cocktail.

ANGEL FRUIT PARFAIT CAKE

1 angel food cake (10 inch)
1 cup orange juice
1 package (3 ounce) orange or lemon flavored gelatin
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 can (16 ounce) fruit cocktail, drained
½ pint (1 cup) whipping cream
½ cup shredded coconut

Cut a 1-inch crosswise slice from tip of angel cake. Enlarge the center of the cake by removing 2 inches all around and scoop out the cake 2 inches down, leaving a shell 1¼ inches at sides and base of cake. Fill in the bottom hole with some of the cake pieces. Heat orange juice to boiling, add flavored gelatin and stir until dissolved. Spoon ice cream into gelatin, stirring until melted.

Chill mixture until syrupy; fold in drained fruit cocktail. Spoon into angel cake shell. Replace the top slice of cake and fill in the center hole with cake pieces. Chill several hours or until filling is set. At serving time, whip cream until stiff, sweeten if desired, and frost cake. Sprinkle coconut over the top. Decorate with additional drained canned fruit cocktail cut in wedges to serve.

Makes 1 (10-inch) cake — 10 servings.

This meat loaf is elegant enough to serve as a party dish for 6 or 8, with a fresh mushroom sauce and garnish with French Fried Onion Rings. Serve with it a dish of scalloped, creamy potatoes and a salad of crisp green with artichoke hearts. A complete dinner.

"I am a great collector of all types of recipes for many years and discovered it in a newspaper when I lived in Minneapolis. My family and friends were so delighted with it and it is so unusual, so easy, so unlike any other so I like to pass this recipe along for others to enjoy," Mrs. Pelto explains.

Classic Casserole Served On A Candle Lit Buffet

From Mrs. James D. Fletcher, 258 Oleander Drive, San Rafael.

CANDLELIGHT CRAB CLASSIC

"On Christmas Eve, as the excitement mounts and friends or relatives arrive for the festivities, the cook certainly doesn't want to be banished to the kitchen, yet the occasion calls for something special. This dish has for years been a Christmas Eve favorite because it delights the eye and the palate served on a candle-lit buffet, and it takes only moments to prepare," says Mrs. Fletcher.

2 pkg. frozen artichoke hearts, cooked and drained
1 lb. sliced fresh mushrooms
4 Tbs. butter
1 lb. fresh crab meat
3 cans white sauce
¾ c. sherry
1 c. fresh bread crumbs
2 Tbs. melted butter
¾ c. Parmesan cheese

Raisins In Holiday Cakes And Cookies

With holiday cheer abounding everywhere, it's not surprising to find most of it in the kitchen. That's where these delectables come from, and by their cheery looks and flavors a merry season is ahead.

CHRISTMAS COOKY TREES

1 (13½-ounce) package all purpose cooky mix
1 (2-ounce) package whipped topping mix
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¼ cups chopped seedless raisins
½ cup chopped pecans
¼ cup chopped candied red cherries
¼ cup chopped candied green cherries

Prepare cooky mix as package directs for rolled and cut cookies. Roll dough ⅛-inch thick. Using graduated cooky cutters (2⅝ inches, 2⅜ inches, 2 inches, 1½ inches and 1⅛ inches) cut eight circles of each size. Bake on lightly greased baking sheet in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 8 to 10 minutes, until lightly browned. Remove to rack to cool. Prepare whipped topping mix as package directs, adding 1 teaspoon vanilla. Fold in raisins, pecans and cherries. Spread over cookies and stack in graduated sizes to make 5-layer "trees." Makes 8 trees.

These may be prepared and refrigerated for several hours. Cookies will soften slightly, but may be held up to 6 hours without becoming soggy.

KRIS KRINGLE RAISIN CAKE

Bake the honey, brown sugar and raisin batter in one flat sheet, then cut into four strips and stack with raspberry filling between.

1½ cups golden seedless raisins
⅓ cup quartered red and green candied cherries
¼ cup sliced almonds
⅓ cup rum
1 cup shortening (half butter)
¾ cup brown sugar (packed)
½ cup honey
1½ teaspoons grated orange peel
4 eggs
2 cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
Raspberry Glaze
Raisins, cherries and coconut for garnishing

Chop raisins coarsely. Combine with quartered cherries, almonds and 2 tablespoons rum. Beat shortening and sugar together until fluffy. Beat in honey and orange peel. Beat in eggs one at a time until thoroughly blended. Blend in flour resifted with baking powder and salt. Stir in fruit mixture. Spread evenly in greased and floured 10x15x1-inch jelly roll pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes or just until cake tests done. Remove from oven and brush cake with remaining rum. Cool in pan on rack. When cold trim crusts from edges of cake, then cut crosswise into 4 even strips. Put strips together with Raspberry Glaze between layers. Spread sides and ends of loaf with glaze. Combine remaining glaze with 2 tablespoons each raisins and whole cherries and spread over top. Press coconut into glaze on sides and ends of loaf. Let cake stand in cool place an hour or longer to set. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

RASPBERRY GLAZE: Defrost and strain 2 (10-ounce) packages frozen raspberries. Press out all juice; discard seeds. Add ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Cook stirring until sauce boils and thickens. Cool.

"This salad, with its golden-yellow color, makes a lovely addition to any buffet meal. For the holidays it is most attractive served on a bed of romaine, arranged in a star-shape around salad, and topped with the small bright red strawberry tomatoes.

"I received the recipe from a fellow garden club member, but have changed the quantities of some of the ingredients used," says the entrant.

MUSTARD RING SALAD

4 eggs
¼ cup sugar
1 envelope gelatine
½ tsp. tumeric
¼ tsp. salt
¼ cup cider vinegar
1 cup water
1½ tbsp dry mustard
1 cup cream, whipped

Beat eggs in top of double boiler (but do not place over hot water until all ingredients, except cream, have been added). Mix together thoroughly the sugar and gelatine, stir in mustard, tumeric and salt. Add water and vinegar to eggs, stir in sugar-mustard mixture, and cook over boiling water until slightly thickened.

Cool until thick and fold in cream; pour into ring mold.

Serve with crab salad, fruit or coleslaw in the center.

EMPANADAS and an Olive Con Queso dip are two Mexican-inspired ideas for Christmas or New Year's. The finger-foods go well on a holiday buffet table.

"My recipe for Raisin peanut bonbons is my favorite recipe for making candy because it is so easy to make and when completed they look like cantdy store candy. I clipped this recipe from a Farm Journal over 20 years ago. My family loves it. . . thus it s a traditional recipe. . . especially around Christmas."

FOR DIPPING BONBONS

1 (6-oz.) pkg. semi-sweet chocolate pieces
2 Tablespoons butter

Combine peanut butter, butter and powdered sugar, mixing until smooth. Stir in raisins and nuts. Shape into small balls. Melt chocolate with butter over warm (not hot) water. Dip balls one at a time in chocolate. Place on waxed paper until set. Garnish tops of bonbons with sliced maraschino cherries or nut halves.

INDIVIDUAL OMELETS are festive for a holiday brunch or late supper. Sour cream and Swiss cheese are the topping and filling.

Mexican Inspired Light Supper Dish

The emphasis is on ease these days. Ease in the cooking, the serving, the eating and, most likely, on the pocket money. And with all the entertaining coming up, you better believe it.

Easy-going dishes to keep in mind are these Mexican-inspired Empanadas and Olive Con Queso in which you can dunk almost anything.

Olive Holiday Omelets, one to a customer, puff up around Canadian bacon in the oven. They are rich with sour cream and melted Swiss cheese, and just about as special as omelets can be. Packaged frozen croissants are good and easy to serve along side.

OLIVE HOLIDAY OMELET

1⅔ cups canned pitted ripe olives
8 eggs
½ cup dairy sour cream
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
6 slices Canadian bacon
2 tablespoons melted butter

Grease 6 individual bakers. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Cut ripe olives into pieces. Beat eggs until bubbly. Add sour cream and salt. Stir in ripe olives, cheese and onion. Turn into prepared bakers. Top each with Canadian bacon slice. Drizzle with melted butter. Bake for about 20 minutes or until set. Garnish with additional whole ripe olives as desired. Makes 6 servings.

RIPE OLIVE EMPANADAS

2 (4½-ounce) cans chopped ripe olives
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
Dash liquid red pepper seasoning
½ cup greated mild Cheddar cheese.
3 sticks pastry mix

Drain ripe olives and combine with onion, mayonnaise, red pepper seasoning and cheese. Prepare pastry mix as package directs. Roll thin and cut into 3½-inch rounds. Place spoonful of filling on one half of each round. Moisten edges and fold pastry over filling, pressing edges firmly together to seal. Prick tops. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes, until browned. Makes about 2½ dozen.

OLIVE CON QUESO

1⅔ cups canned pitted ripe olives
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup butter
1 minced clove garlic
¼ cup cornstarch
1 (1-pound) can tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon mixed Italian herbs
¾ teaspoon liquid red pepper seasoning
1 pound grated mild Cheddar cheese

Cut ripe olives into wedges. Saute onion and pepper in butter until soft. Add garlic and cook a minute longer. Blend in cornstarch. Add tomatoes, salt, herbs and red pepper seasoning. Cook, stirring until mixture boils and thickens. Add cheese and stir over low heat until melted. Add ripe olives. Serve hot with corn chips, tortillas or crackers for dippers. Makes about 4½ cups.

Glamorous Cake Can Be Refrigerated

Glamorous "Angel Fruit Parfait Cake" is the dessert to serve at a dinner party. It is certain to make a hit with everyone, including you, since it is a refrigerator dessert that can be made well in advance.

Simply hollow out an angel food cake — made from your own recipe, a packaged mix, or one you have purchased — and spoon in a tart parfait filling enriched with colorful canned fruit cocktail, ice cream and orange-flavored gelatin.

At serving time, spread the cake with whipped cream, sprinkle with coconut and decorate with additional drained canned fruit cocktail.

ANGEL FRUIT PARFAIT CAKE

1 angel food cake (10 inch)
1 cup orange juice
1 package (3 ounce) orange or lemon flavored gelatin
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 can (16 ounce) fruit cocktail, drained
½ pint (1 cup) whipping cream
½ cup shredded coconut

Cut a 1-inch crosswise slice from tip of angel cake. Enlarge the center of the cake by removing 2 inches all around and scoop out the cake 2 inches down, leaving a shell 1¼ inches at sides and base of cake. Fill in the bottom hole with some of the cake pieces. Heat orange juice to boiling, add flavored gelatin and stir until dissolved. Spoon ice cream into gelatin, stirring until melted.

Chill mixture until syrupy; fold in drained fruit cocktail. Spoon into angel cake shell. Replace the top slice of cake and fill in the center hole with cake pieces. Chill several hours or until filling is set. At serving time, whip cream until stiff, sweeten if desired, and frost cake. Sprinkle coconut over the top. Decorate with additional drained canned fruit cocktail cut in wedges to serve.

Makes 1 (10-inch) cake — 10 servings.

This meat loaf is elegant enough to serve as a party dish for 6 or 8, with a fresh mushroom sauce and garnish with French Fried Onion Rings. Serve with it a dish of scalloped, creamy potatoes and a salad of crisp green with artichoke hearts. A complete dinner.

"I am a great collector of all types of recipes for many years and discovered it in a newspaper when I lived in Minneapolis. My family and friends were so delighted with it and it is so unusual, so easy, so unlike any other so I like to pass this recipe along for others to enjoy," Mrs. Pelto explains.

Classic Casserole Served On A Candle Lit Buffet

CANDLELIGHT CRAB CLASSIC

"On Christmas Eve, as the excitement mounts and friends or relatives arrive for the festivities, the cook certainly doesn't want to be banished to the kitchen, yet the occasion calls for something special. This dish has for years been a Christmas Eve favorite because it delights the eye and the palate served on a candle-lit buffet, and it takes only moments to prepare," says Mrs. Fletcher.

2 pkg. frozen artichoke hearts, cooked and drained
1 lb. sliced fresh mushrooms
4 Tbs. butter
1 lb. fresh crab meat
3 cans white sauce
¾ c. sherry
1 c. fresh bread crumbs
2 Tbs. melted butter
¾ c. Parmesan cheese

Raisins In Holiday Cakes And Cookies

With holiday cheer abounding everywhere, it's not surprising to find most of it in the kitchen. That's where these delectables come from, and by their cheery looks and flavors a merry season is ahead.

CHRISTMAS COOKY TREES

1 (13½-ounce) package all purpose cooky mix
1 (2-ounce) package whipped topping mix
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¼ cups chopped seedless raisins
½ cup chopped pecans
¼ cup chopped candied red cherries
¼ cup chopped candied green cherries

Prepare cooky mix as package directs for rolled and cut cookies. Roll dough ⅛-inch thick. Using graduated cooky cutters (2⅝ inches, 2⅜ inches, 2 inches, 1½ inches and 1⅛ inches) cut eight circles of each size. Bake on lightly greased baking sheet in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 8 to 10 minutes, until lightly browned. Remove to rack to cool. Prepare whipped topping mix as package directs, adding 1 teaspoon vanilla. Fold in raisins, pecans and cherries. Spread over cookies and stack in graduated sizes to make 5-layer "trees." Makes 8 trees.

These may be prepared and refrigerated for several hours. Cookies will soften slightly, but may be held up to 6 hours without becoming soggy.

KRIS KRINGLE RAISIN CAKE

Bake the honey, brown sugar and raisin batter in one flat sheet, then cut into four strips and stack with raspberry filling between.

1½ cups golden seedless raisins
⅓ cup quartered red and green candied cherries
¼ cup sliced almonds
⅓ cup rum
1 cup shortening (half butter)
¾ cup brown sugar (packed)
½ cup honey
1½ teaspoons grated orange peel
4 eggs
2 cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
Raspberry Glaze
Raisins, cherries and coconut for garnishing

Chop raisins coarsely. Combine with quartered cherries, almonds and 2 tablespoons rum. Beat shortening and sugar together until fluffy. Beat in honey and orange peel. Beat in eggs one at a time until thoroughly blended. Blend in flour resifted with baking powder and salt. Stir in fruit mixture. Spread evenly in greased and floured 10x15x1-inch jelly roll pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes or just until cake tests done. Remove from oven and brush cake with remaining rum. Cool in pan on rack. When cold trim crusts from edges of cake, then cut crosswise into 4 even strips. Put strips together with Raspberry Glaze between layers. Spread sides and ends of loaf with glaze. Combine remaining glaze with 2 tablespoons each raisins and whole cherries and spread over top. Press coconut into glaze on sides and ends of loaf. Let cake stand in cool place an hour or longer to set. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

RASPBERRY GLAZE: Defrost and strain 2 (10-ounce) packages frozen raspberries. Press out all juice; discard seeds. Add ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Cook stirring until sauce boils and thickens. Cool.
